CAR MADE A MAD DASH DOWN CALCUTTA ROAD

Uncontrollable, It Ran Half a Mile Before It Left the Track and Was Wrecked.

ALL SAVE THE MOTORMAN JUMPED OFF

With the speed of a gale an unmanagable street car dashed down the Calcutta hill shortly after noon today. On it were five passengers, all men, and the car crew. That they were not seriously injured or killed is a miracle. The car is No. 11 and is the oldest and most dilapidated on the line. Motorman Charles Kontnier and Conductor Lawrence Fisher were in charge.

The car became unmanageable near the Pope residence at the head of Avondale street and before the passengers realized the danger it had attained an alarming rate of speed. They hastened to the rear and jumped, preferring to risk injury in this way to remaining on the runaway car. Conductor Fisher remained on the car until all the passengers had jumped and then followed them. It is estimated that the speed at this time was forty miles an hour.

The first derailing switch refused to work and the car kept to the track. Motorman Kontnier bravely remained at his post and made repeated attempts to stop it. This car is not equipped with electrical brakes and the hand brake had no effect whatever on the fast revolving wheels. The motorman generated the car but this, too, failed.

At the second derailing switch the car left the track to the west and continued its mad flight along the paved street. In spite of this fact, Kontiner remained at his post, perilous as it was. Pedestrians who witnessed the runaway were horrified to see him standing in the front vestibule as the car dashed past them.

The speed of the car was not checked to any great extent by leaving the rails, and it would have crashed into the house at the junction of Walnut street and the Calcutta road had not some obstacle veered its course against the west curb. It was brought to a sudden stop by coming in contact with a trolley pole in front of the residence of Murray Nichol. This is half a mile from the point where the car became unmanageable and about 400 yards from where it left the track.

Conductor Fisher was thrown violently to the ground when he jumped so great was the momentum of the car. His right hand was badly gashed but he was not otherwise injured. Joseph Anderson, G. B. Beatty, C. C. Smith, Burt Gregory and another man whose name could not be learned were the passengers. Mr. Anderson sustained painful injuries to his leg.

Motorman Kontnier stepped from the demolished front vestibule after the car had stopped. This vestibule was splintered into fragments but the brave motorman escaped unhurt except for a slight injury to his foot, caused by the controller box, which was torn from its position, falling on it.

The accident was the result of the snowy condition of the rails. The trolley wires are down for a distance of several hundred yards. Hundreds of people visited the scene this afternoon.

SITE FOR A HOTEL IS DESIRED

Local Capital Behind a Project That May Be Important to the City.

Negotiations are on for the transfer of property, which, if it is consummated, will result in the erection of a magnificent hotel, and the fondest hopes of the populace will at last be realized. Local capitalists only are behind the project and the engineering of it has been placed in the hands of J. L. Francis. The site desired by the projectors is the old Nagle property on Sixth street, purchased a short time ago by the Union Building, Loan & Trust company and George H. Owen & Co. A proposition made to the purchasers is being favorably considered, and it is asserted that terms can be agreed upon. It is the plan of the company of capitalists to purchase the property now occupied by the Ohio Valley Gas company, adjoining the Nagle property, and then make a trade with the owners of the latter.

Mr. Francis is in Pittsburg today conferring with the Ohio Valley Gas officials, and if he can close a deal with them for the property a committee appointed by the owners of the desired site will meet with him early next week and the transfer will likely be made.

Nothing definite could be learned today as to the material of which the hotel will be built, but it was given out that it will be an up-to-date building, one that all can be proud of.

A member of one of the companies owning the site stated that the Ohio Valley Gas company's property would suit them just as well for the purpose they have contemplated using it as the other, and that if the promoters of the project are in earnest the deal can be closed with little trouble.

PAROLE GRANTED FOREST GRAY

Was Sent to the Reformatory for Perjury in Securing a Marriage License.

Lisbon, January 24.—(Special.)—The state reformatory board has just paroled a number of prisoners from the reformatory at Mansfield. Among the number is Forest Gray, who was sent up from Columbiana county in 1899. The charge was perjury, and the circumstances surrounding the case were peculiar.

Gray lived with a couple named Clark, who a few months before Gray's conviction mutually agreed to separate. It is supposed that Gray thought this equivalent to a divorce, and procuring a marriage license he was united to Mrs. Clark. It developed that Gray in securing the license averred that Mrs. Clark's husband was dead. He was convicted of perjury and sentenced to the reformatory, while Mrs. Clark served a term of one year in the penitentiary on a charge of bigamy.

Two Mahoning county prisoners, Frank Steher and Thomas Cawley, were also among those paroled.

POLITICAL BATTLE IN JEFFERSON

IN WHICH GILL AND DUVAL ARE THE PRINCIPALS.

An Interesting Contest With the State Senatorship the Bone of Contention.

Columbus, January 24.—(Special.)—Congressman Gill, of Steubenville, is doing everything in his power to prevent Hon. M. N. Duval, of that city, from securing a solid delegation from Jefferson county in the senatorial contest. Duval is confident of winning. Justin A. Moore, of Steubenville, the Gill candidate, has agreed with Duval that the candidate who gets a majority of the votes shall name all the delegates. This is the unit rule and has been generally used in Jefferson county.

It is an open secret here that Moore's candidacy is for the purpose of defeating Duval. Gill does not want Jefferson county to get one of the senators because this would put the county under obligation to other counties and might stand in the way of him securing another re-nomination for congress.

WORTHLESS CHECK GIVEN A MERCHANT

It Was for $11 And the Matter Is Now in the Hands of the Police.

The clothing store of Frank Livingston was victimized out of $11 worth of clothing yesterday by a clever swindle. The merchandise is said to have been purchased by James G. Bond, of Chester, an employe of the tin mill but the check was signed James G Bondham. In previous dealings at the store his checks had been accepted and were honored at the bank.

It is stated that he showed the proprietor his bank book with deposit credits of about $500 during the month of December, but the check given yesterday was declared worthless when presented at the bank. M'KINLEY DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

Superintendent Rayman Issues a Call For Its General Observance Here.

INTEREST IN SCHOOL WORK

Is Encouraged By a Number of Clever Ideas On the Part of the Teachers —Review of the Past Week in Local Educational Circles.

By request of Prof. R. E. Rayman, McKinley day will be appropriately observed throughout the public schools. He also desires that on the day of the exercises that the favorite hymns of President McKinley be sung. With this request the songs, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee" will have their place in the programs. On Monday morning the following notice will be sent out to all the city teachers:

"All teachers of the city schools Thursday morning, January 29, 1903, are instsucted to give the first period to a memorial exercise in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of President William McKinley. It is fitting indeed that the pupils of our public schools be taught the history of the men who have had so much to do with the making of our nation's history. If character building is to result fro mthe study of history it must come from a careful study of the lives of such men as was Major McKinley's. He was a man who had a clear conception of what life means. He appreciated the trusts imposed upon him by the people of this nation and endeavored to discharge every duty in a conscientious manner. He was a man with masterly forethought, and seemed to possess a wisdom that was almost superhuman in dealing with the interests of the people.

" 'The life of a great man is not a biography, but a history.'

Major McKinley has a very important history, not so much for what he accomplished for himself as for the many victories which he was successful in winning for his fellow countrymen. The entire effort of his life was to do something for others. To impress upon the minds of the pupils of our schools the lessons which can be gleaned frim the study of such a life will send them out to grapple with the stern realities of daily life with high ideals of Christian manliness. They will enter upon the work with a full realization of what it is to have life and to have it more abundantly."

A FRIENDLESS WANDERER VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT TELLS A PITIFUL TALE

Sought Assistance For Two Days and Nights in This City Without Success.

Destitute and friendless, with no place to lay his aching head, James Porter a laborer recently employed on railroad construction work near Toronto, wandered over the city for two days and nights, seeking some one who would give him assistance in securing medical treatment for wounds received in a terrible accident, and which have placed him in a most pitiful condition.

He was assisting in blasting rock with a dozen or more laborers when a shot prematurely discharged threw a deluge of rocks into the air, some striking him full in the face and with awful force on his breast. He was picked up unconscious and removed to his boarding house. For several days he lay there, but failing to receive the proper attention he concluded to go to Wellsville, where he had heard that a relative lived. Having no money he was compelled to walk. Upon his arrival he was disheartened by being informed that the relatives had moved more than three years ago.

Hardly knowing what course to pursue after receiving such a blow the poor man started out, he did not know where, and had reached a point that he cared little what the results of his wanderings would be. Little difficulty was confronted in making his way to this city, but the same cold treatment was given him here as in Wellsville. Early last evening he left the city in the direction of Toronto, where it is thought that he may receive attention. Those who saw him state that he was in agony and complained of excruciating pains in his head and breast. He was about 40 years of age and was apparently not in his right mind. This is attributed to his injuries and the exertion.

STORM OF INDIGNATION AROUSED

Trenton Potteries Company Stirs Up Labor Circles By Opposing Eight-Hour Law.

Trenton, N. J., January 24. — (Special.)—The action of the Trenton Potteries company in filing a protest with United States Senator Kerr against the passage of the eight-hour law has aroused a bitter feeling among the potters of this city and labor men in general.

The course taken by the syndicate was bitterly denounced last night by the Central Labor union, and a letter advocating the passage of the bill was ordered sent to Senator Kerr to counteract that of the potteries company.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, who is in this city, in speaking of the company's action to a News Review reporter said:

"After a careful survey of the eight-hour law I fail to see how it can affect the pottery interests of this country. Almost every branch of the trade is employed upon a piecework basis, and I venture to say that half of these do not average eight hours a day. Should the clay hands be steadily employed on an eight-hour basis they would turn out sufficient ware to keep the kilns in operation all the time."

A resolution was passed thanking the people who assisted in making the play a success.

He was a man who had a clear conception of what life means. He appreciated the trusts imposed upon him by the people of this nation and endeavored to discharge every duty in a conscientious manner. He was a man with masterly forethought, and seemed to possess a wisdom that was almost superhuman in dealing with the interests of the people.

"'The life of a great man is not a biography, but a history.'

Major McKinley has a very important history, not so much for what he accomplished for himself as for the many victories which he was successful in winning for his fellow countrymen. The entire effort of his life was to do something for others. To impress upon the minds of the pupils of our schools the lessons which can be gleaned frim the study of such a life will send them out to grapple with the stern realities of daily life with high ideals of Christian manliness. They will enter upon the work with a full realization of what it is to have life and to have it more abundantly."

A FRIENDLESS WANDERER VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT TELLS A PITIFUL TALE

Sought Assistance For Two Days and Nights in This City Without Success.

Destitute and friendless, with no place to lay his aching head, James Porter a laborer recently employed on railroad construction work near Toronto, wandered over the city for two days and nights, seeking some one who would give him assistance in securing medical treatment for wounds received in a terrible accident, and which have placed him in a most pitiful condition.

He was assisting in blasting rock with a dozen or more laborers when a shot prematurely discharged threw a deluge of rocks into the air, some striking him full in the face and with awful force on his breast. He was picked up unconscious and removed to his boarding house. For several days he lay there, but failing to receive the proper attention he concluded to go to Wellsville, where he had heard that a relative lived. Having no money he was compelled to walk. Upon his arrival he was disheartened by being informed that the relatives had moved more than three years ago.

Hardly knowing what course to pursue after receiving such a blow the poor man started out, he did not know where, and had reached a point that he cared little what the results of his wanderings would be. Little difficulty was confronted in making his way to this city, but the same cold treatment was given him here as in Wellsville. Early last evening he left the city in the direction of Toronto, where it is thought that he may receive attention. Those who saw him state that he was in agony and complained of excruciating pains in his head and breast. He was about 40 years of age and was apparently not in his right mind. This is attributed to his injuries and the exertion.

Trenton Potteries Company Stirs Up Labor Circles By Opposing Eight-Hour Law.

Trenton, N. J., January 24. — (Special.)—The action of the Trenton Potteries company in filing a protest with United States Senator Kerr against the passage of the eight-hour law has aroused a bitter feeling among the potters of this city and labor men in general.

The course taken by the syndicate was bitterly denounced last night by the Central Labor union, and a letter advocating the passage of the bill was ordered sent to Senator Kerr to counteract that of the potteries company.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, who is in this city, in speaking of the company's action to a News Review reporter said:

"After a careful survey of the eight-hour law I fail to see how it can affect the pottery interests of this country. Almost every branch of the trade is employed upon a piecework basis, and I venture to say that half of these do not average eight hours a day. Should the clay hands be steadily employed on an eight-hour basis they would turn out sufficient ware to keep the kilns in operation all the time."

PROFITS ON PLAY HAVE BEEN DIVIDED

Three Patriotic Orders Share Equally And Have Placed the Money in Different Funds.

General Lyon post No. 44, G. A. R. held its regular meeting last evening, at which a number of reports from the business of last year were received and filed. The most important feature of the meeting was the report of the committee in charge of the production of "The Drummer Boy."

The report showed that the total receipts from the play to be $920.84 and the total expenses $605.65, leaving a net balance of $315.19. This will be equally divided between the G. A. R., W. R. C. and Sons of Veterans. The former will place its share to the credit of the general fund, while the other two will place it to the credit of the relief fund. A resolution was passed thanking the people who assisted in making the play a success.

Mr. Smith is reported confined to his home, but if his health continues improving he will make East Liverpool his home. The letter does not state when or where Mr. Smith was divorced or how the Baltimore woman came to charge him with bigamy.

CAR MADE A MAD DASH DOWN CALCUTTA ROAD

ALL SAVE THE MOTORMAN JUMPED OFF

With the speed of a gale an unmanagable street car dashed down the Calcutta hill shortly after noon today. On it were five passengers, all men, and the car crew. That they were not seriously injured or killed is a miracle. The car is No. 11 and is the oldest and most dilapidated on the line. Motorman Charles Kontnier and Conductor Lawrence Fisher were in charge.

The car became unmanageable near the Pope residence at the head of Avondale street and before the passengers realized the danger it had attained an alarming rate of speed. They hastened to the rear and jumped, preferring to risk injury in this way to remaining on the runaway car. Conductor Fisher remained on the car until all the passengers had jumped and then followed them. It is estimated that the speed at this time was forty miles an hour.

The first derailing switch refused to work and the car kept to the track. Motorman Kontnier bravely remained at his post and made repeated attempts to stop it. This car is not equipped with electrical brakes and the hand brake had no effect whatever on the fast revolving wheels. The motorman generated the car but this, too, failed.

At the second derailing switch the car left the track to the west and continued its mad flight along the paved street. In spite of this fact, Kontiner remained at his post, perilous as it was. Pedestrians who witnessed the runaway were horrified to see him standing in the front vestibule as the car dashed past them.

The speed of the car was not checked to any great extent by leaving the rails, and it would have crashed into the house at the junction of Walnut street and the Calcutta road had not some obstacle veered its course against the west curb. It was brought to a sudden stop by coming in contact with a trolley pole in front of the residence of Murray Nichol. This is half a mile from the point where the car became unmanageable and about 400 yards from where it left the track.

Conductor Fisher was thrown violently to the ground when he jumped so great was the momentum of the car. His right hand was badly gashed but he was not otherwise injured. Joseph Anderson, G. B. Beatty, C. C. Smith, Burt Gregory and another man whose name could not be learned were the passengers. Mr. Anderson sustained painful injuries to his leg.

Motorman Kontnier stepped from the demolished front vestibule after the car had stopped. This vestibule was splintered into fragments but the brave motorman escaped unhurt except for a slight injury to his foot, caused by the controller box, which was torn from its position, falling on it.

The accident was the result of the snowy condition of the rails. The trolley wires are down for a distance of several hundred yards. Hundreds of people visited the scene this afternoon.

SITE FOR A HOTEL IS DESIRED

Local Capital Behind a Project That May Be Important to the City.

Negotiations are on for the transfer of property, which, if it is consummated, will result in the erection of a magnificent hotel, and the fondest hopes of the populace will at last be realized. Local capitalists only are behind the project and the engineering of it has been placed in the hands of J. L. Francis. The site desired by the projectors is the old Nagle property on Sixth street, purchased a short time ago by the Union Building, Loan & Trust company and George H. Owen & Co. A proposition made to the purchasers is being favorably considered, and it is asserted that terms can be agreed upon. It is the plan of the company of capitalists to purchase the property now occupied by the Ohio Valley Gas company, adjoining the Nagle property, and then make a trade with the owners of the latter.

Mr. Francis is in Pittsburg today conferring with the Ohio Valley Gas officials, and if he can close a deal with them for the property a committee appointed by the owners of the desired site will meet with him early next week and the transfer will likely be made.

Nothing definite could be learned today as to the material of which the hotel will be built, but it was given out that it will be an up-to-date building one that all can be proud of.

A member of one of the companies owning the site stated that the Ohio Valley Gas company's property would suit them just as well for the purpose they have contemplated using it as the other, and that if the promoters of the project are in earnest the deal can be closed with little trouble.

PAROLE GRANTED FOREST GRAY

Was Sent to the Reformatory for Perjury in Securing a Marriage License.

Lisbon, January 24.—(Special.)—The state reformatory board has just paroled a number of prisoners from the reformatory at Mansfield. Among the number is Forest Gray, who was sent up from Columbiana county in 1899. The charge was perjury, and the circumstances surrounding the case were peculiar.

Gray lived with a couple named Clark, who a few months before Gray's conviction mutually agreed to separate. It is supposed that Gray thought this equivalent to a divorce, and procuring a marriage license he was united to Mrs. Clark. It developed that Gray in securing the license averred that Mrs. Clark's husband was dead. He was convicted of perjury and sentenced to the reformatory, while Mrs. Clark served a term of one year in the penitentiary on a charge of bigamy.

Two Mahoning county prisoners, Frank Steher and Thomas Cawley, were also among those paroled.

MRS. HOBBS' RECEPTION

Largely Attended And the Appointments Were All in Excellent Taste.

A very enjoyable reception was yesterday given by Mrs. W. A. Hobbs at her home on Fifth street. It was one of the largest of the season and the appointments were such as to re-establish Mrs. Hobbs' reputation as a perfect hostess.

The luncheon was very elaborate White and pale green were the colors which added to the splendor of the decorations. Following the reception Dr. and Mrs. Hobbs gave a very large and elaborate dinner party to a number of their friends.

Interesting Social.

About forty members and friends of the W. C. T. U. gathered in social session at the home of Mrs. John Clark, Basil avenue Thursday evening. Interesting papers were read by several ladies and a choice musical program carried out.

POLITICAL BATTLE IN JEFFERSON

IN WHICH GILL AND DUVAL ARE THE PRINCIPALS.

An Interesting Contest With the State Senatorship the Bone of Contention.

Columbus, January 24.—(Special.)—Congressman Gill, of Steubenville, is doing everything in his power to prevent Hon. M. N. Duval, of that city, from securing a solid delegation from Jefferson county in the senatorial contest. Duval is confident of winning. Justin A. Moore, of Steubenville, the Gill candidate, has agreed with Duval that the candidate who gets a majority of the votes shall name all the delegates. This is the unit rule and has been generally used in Jefferson county.

It is an open secret here that Moore's candidacy is for the purpose of defeating Duval. Gill does not want Jefferson county to get one of the senators because this would put the county under obligation to other counties and might stand in the way of him securing another re-nomination for congress.

INSANE ROUMANIAN AT THE COUNTY JAIL

Came From Leetonia And It Took Three Men to Handle Him.

Lisbon, January 24.—(Special.)—An insane Roumanian, whose name is unknown, was brought here from Leetonia yesterday by Officer Fritz, of that town. The man is very violent, making it necessary for the officer to have an assistant accompany him from Leetonia.

At the jail it required three men to get the Roumanian upstairs. He could not be prevailed upon to eat this morning.

LOCAL PLAYERS

Were Defeated in a Fast Basket Ball Game at Marietta Last Night.

In one of the warmest basket ball games of the season, the East Liverpool Y. M. C. A. team was defeated by the Y. M. C. A. team of Marietta, in the latter city last evening by a score of 26 to 22. Word from the local players is to the effect that they were up against boys much heavier than they had anticipated, and that is given as a good reason for their defeat.

Another game will be played tonight and hopes are being entertained that the locals will pull out victorious.

LUTZ VS. MILLER

Agreements Have Been Signed And the Fight Will Occur February 11.

After negotiations of more than two weeks Larry Lutz received word yesterday from Charley Miller, of New Brighton, stating that the terms as proposed by Lutz for their bout had been well considered and accepted and that the evening of February 11 would be a convenient date for the fight to take place.

Lutz has taken kindly to the proposition and the fight will occur on the above date before the Nonpareil Athletic club at Beaver Falls.

WORTHLESS CHECK GIVEN A MERCHANT

It Was for $11 And the Matter Is Now in the Hands of the Police.

The clothing store of Frank Livingston was victimized out of $11 worth of clothing yesterday by a clever swindle. The merchandise is said to have been purchased by James G. Bond, of Chester, an employe of the tin mill but the check was signed James G Bondham. In previous dealings at the store his checks had been accepted and were honored at the bank.

It is stated that he showed the proprietor his bank book with deposit credits of about $500 during the month of December, but the check given yesterday was declared worthless when presented at the bank. Mr. Livingston went over to Chester and learned that the fellow had been discharged two weeks ago. He then reported the matter to the police and will push the case.

Columbus, January 24.—(Special.)—The Edwin M. Knowles China company, of East Liverpool, has increased its capital stock from $100,000 to $150,000, in $100 shares. Edwin M. Knowles is president.

Dr. Pratt's Lecture—The subject of tomorrow's talk at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting is "The Debts of a Man." This will doubtless prove as interesting as the others already given. The Sunday afternoon services in the opera house sprang into immediate favor with the men and the results, so far as members are concerned, are very gratifying to the directors of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Pratt is a forceful speaker and never loses his hold on his hearers.

M'KINLEY DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

Is Encouraged By a Number of Clever Ideas On the Part of the Teachers —Review of the Past Week in Local Educational Circles.

By request of Prof. R. E. Rayman, McKinley day will be appropriately observed throughout the public schools. He also desires that on the day of the exercises that the favorite hymns of President McKinley be sung. With this request the songs, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee" will have their place in the programs. On Monday morning the following notice will be sent out to all the city teachers:

"All teachers of the city schools Thursday morning, January 29, 1903, are instructed to give the first period to a memorial exercise in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of President William McKinley. It is fitting indeed that the pupils of our public schools be taught the history of the men who have had so much to do with the making of our nation's history. If character building is to result from the study of history it must come from a careful study of the lives of such men as was Major McKinley's. He was a man who had a clear conception of what life means. He appreciated the trusts imposed upon him by the people of this nation and endeavored to discharge every duty in a conscientious manner. He was a man with masterly forethought, and seemed to possess a wisdom that was almost superhuman in dealing with the interests of the people.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

MR. HUGHES IN TRENTON.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, arrived in this city yesterday from East Liverpool, says the Trenton True American. Mr. Hughes expects to remain here about a week or ten days, during which time he will pay a fraternal visit to each of the locals and gather information concerning the local condition of the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes will also visit the local unions at Elizabeth and Camden and perhaps on his way home stop off at Baltimore. A rather amusing coincidence is found in his visit compared with that of two years ago. His purpose in coming here then was to endeavor to get the jiggermen to return to the Brotherhood. He failed, but after due course of time they came back themselves. Mr. Hughes is now ready to welcome them back and next Tuesday night will probably find him at their meeting. In speaking of his trip east yesterday with a reporter Mr. Hughes said: "My coming here has no other object than to pay a fraternal visit to our locals here. I will probably remain here about a week or ten days."

BRICK MAKERS COMBINE.

A combine of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combine, has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern with Pittsburg as their headquarters. The output of the plants will be 2,500,000,000 brick yearly. Not the least valuable part of the property taken over by the new company will be the large area of fire clay and coal land now owned by individual companies. The combine includes all the principal plants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

CRAMPED AT SALINEVILLE.

"Where can I find a house for rent?" is the question heard on every hand, says the Salineville Banner. Potters coming to Salineville from other towns are compelled to give up house hunting in disgust, for none suitable can be found. Every day men call in the business houses and store rooms to inquire for dwelling places. The best that can be done is to rent a room and settle down, with your family in one town and the head of the family somewhere else. Houses can be rented much faster than constructed in this town at present. If many more employes of the pottery come there will be two families in every house.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

The committee appointed by the town of Carrollton to solicit the $80,000 loan for the new pottery met with encouraging success during the first day of its work. D. O. Rutan, a prominent citizen, subscribed $2,000 and a free site of five acres. Eight other prominent citizens followed with a like amount each. It is believed that the committee will raise the necessary amount within a short time. Carrollton is one of the wealthiest towns of its size in the state.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected by Printers' and Transferrers' local No. 32 at its last meeting: President, Dave McIntosh; vice president, Mrs. Maggie Herbert; recording and corresponding secretary, W. B. Elder; financial secretary, Ed. Hatton; defense fund secretary, George Harrison; treasurer, Frank Martin; inspector, Maud Barlow; inside guard, Etta Hailes; trustee, 18 months, Ralph Alcock; statistician, John A. Murphy.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The fine toilet set donated by the K., T. & K. for the Cyrus Bailey benefit can be seen in the show window of the Sleepless Shoe company, in the Diamond. It is one of the handsomest sets made in the city and the person holding the winning number will be lucky. The boys who are disposing of the tickets are having good success as the cause is a worthy one. Mr. Bailey has not been able to work for 13 months.

BRICK PLANT BURNED.

The Wyomissing plant of the Montella Brick company, one of the largest concerns in the country, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The company has a contract to furnish all the brick for the new capital at Harrisburg, besides doing paving work in many cities.

SALEM LOCAL ELECTS.

At the regular meeting of Local No. 42, of Salem, the following officers were elected: President, Will White; vice president, John Lynch; recording secretary, Mame Snodgrass; treasurer, R. J. Baby

Weighed Only Five Pounds.

Restless, Cried Day and Night.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Did Wonders, Cured Her.

A little over two years ago I had a little, nervous baby who weighed only five pounds at birth. At first she was restless and cross and after she was four weeks old she cried day and night, and would not sleep without narcotics. She was so nervous that we did not dare to move when she did sleep a short time, as she would wake screaming as though she was going to have a fit. We called a doctor; he called it infantile colic; said he could relieve her, could not cure her. After a short time the effect of his medicine wore off and I was in despair. I tried all known home remedies and innumerable patent medicines. At last I gave her Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and she was easy and slept without narcotics. Since that time I have used a dozen bottles and would not be without it. I am now giving it to another baby and it has the same effect, immediate relief always."—Mrs. Vincent Zidek, Verona, N. D.

"Three years ago I was taken with nervous prostration, which brought on heart trouble, and my heart would palpitate at every little noise. I had smothering spells so that at times I would nearly sink away. I got one bottle each of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I could feel good results from the first few doses. They have since effected a permanent cure. I recommend Dr. Miles' Remedies to all who suffer as I did."—Mrs. G. C. James, Fairmont, Nebraska.

INCREASE OF SALARIES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Governor to Get $5,000 a Year Under Schedule Recommended to Legislature.

Charleston, W. Va., January 24.—A meeting of the house finance and judiciary committee was held yesterday to consider the matter of fixing salaries of state officials under the change in the constitution made by the adoption of certain amendments at the recent election. The result of the conference was the arrangement of the following schedule of salaries which will be incorporated in the Reynolds bill: Governor, $5,000; secretary of state, $4,000; auditor, $4,500; treasurer, $2,500; attorney general, $2,500; state superintendent of schools, $2,500; supreme court judges, $4,800; circuit judges, $3,000, and supreme court clerks, $1,500.

Judge Reynolds, of Mineral county the author of the bill and leader of the majority in the house, wanted to fix the salary of the governor at $10,000, and the other salaries at proportionate figures. This scale was opposed by Delegate Hughes, of Jackson county, and others, whose determined fight resulted in cutting the scale proposed in half. The governor's salary is now $2,700, and that of the other state officers proportionately low, except that the secretary of state and auditor received fees which made the income from those two offices enormous.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

MR. HUGHES IN TRENTON.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, arrived in this city yesterday from East Liverpool, says the Trenton True American. Mr. Hughes expects to remain here about a week or ten days, during which time he will pay a fraternal visit to each of the locals and gather information concerning the local condition of the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes will also visit the local unions at Elizabeth and Camden and perhaps on his way home stop off at Baltimore. A rather amusing coincidence is found in his visit compared with that of two years ago. His purpose in coming here then was to endeavor to get the jiggermen to return to the Brotherhood. He failed, but after due course of time they came back themselves. Mr. Hughes is now ready to welcome them back and next Tuesday night will probably find him at their meeting. In speaking of his trip east yesterday with a reporter Mr. Hughes said: "My coming here has no other object than to pay a fraternal visit to our locals here. I will probably remain here about a week or ten days."

BRICK MAKERS COMBINE.

A combine of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combine, has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern with Pittsburg as their headquarters. The output of the plants will be 2,500,000,000 brick yearly. Not the least valuable part of the property taken over by the new company will be the large area of fire clay and coal land now owned by individual companies. The combine includes all the principal plants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

CRAMPED AT SALINEVILLE.

"Where can I find a house for rent?" is the question heard on every hand, says the Salineville Banner. Potters coming to Salineville from other towns are compelled to give up house hunting in disgust, for none suitable can be found. Every day men call in the business houses and store rooms to inquire for dwelling places. The best that can be done is to rent a room and settle down, with your family in one town and the head of the family somewhere else. Houses can be rented much faster than constructed in this town at present. If many more employes of the pottery come there will be two families in every house.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

The committee appointed by the town of Carrollton to solicit the $80,000 loan for the new pottery met with encouraging success during the first day of its work. D. O. Rutan, a prominent citizen, subscribed $2,000 and a free site of five acres. Eight other prominent citizens followed with a like amount each. It is believed that the committee will raise the necessary amount within a short time. Carrollton is one of the wealthiest towns of its size in the state.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected by Printers' and Transferrers' local No. 32 at its last meeting: President, Dave McIntosh; vice president, Mrs. Maggie Herbert; recording and corresponding secretary, W. B. Elder, financial secretary, Ed. Hatton; defense fund secretary, George Harrison; treasurer, Frank Martin; inspector, Maud Barlow; inside guard, Etta Hailes; trustee, 18 months, Ralph Alcock; statistician, John A. Murphy.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The fine toilet set donated by the K., T. & K. for the Cyrus Bailey benefit can be seen in the show window of the Sleepless Shoe company, in the Diamond. It is one of the handsomest sets made in the city and the person holding the winning number will be lucky. The boys who are disposing of the tickets are having good success as the cause is a worthy one. Mr. Bailey has not been able to work for 13 months.

BRICK PLANT BURNED.

The Wyomissing plant of the Montella Brick company, one of the largest concerns in the country, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The company has a contract to furnish all the brick for the new capital at Harrisburg, besides doing paving work in many cities.

The result of the conference was the arrangement of the following schedule of salaries which will be incorporated in the Reynolds bill: Governor, $5,000; secretary of state, $4,000; auditor, $4,500; treasurer, $2,500; attorney general, $2,500; state superintendent of schools, $2,500; supreme court judges, $4,800; circuit judges, $3,000, and supreme court clerks, $1,500.

Judge Reynolds, of Mineral county the author of the bill and leader of the majority in the house, wanted to fix the salary of the governor at $10,000, and the other salaries at proportionate figures. This scale was opposed by Delegate Hughes, of Jackson county, and others, whose determined fight resulted in cutting the scale proposed in half. The governor's salary is now $2,700, and that of the other state officers proportionately low, except that the secretary of state and auditor received fees which made the income from those two offices enormous.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

MR. HUGHES IN TRENTON.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, arrived in this city yesterday from East Liverpool, says the Trenton True American. Mr. Hughes expects to remain here about a week or ten days, during which time he will pay a fraternal visit to each of the locals and gather information concerning the local condition of the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes will also visit the local unions at Elizabeth and Camden and perhaps on his way home stop off at Baltimore. A rather amusing coincidence is found in his visit compared with that of two years ago. His purpose in coming here then was to endeavor to get the jiggermen to return to the Brotherhood. He failed, but after due course of time they came back themselves. Mr. Hughes is now ready to welcome them back and next Tuesday night will probably find him at their meeting. In speaking of his trip east yesterday with a reporter Mr. Hughes said: "My coming here has no other object than to pay a fraternal visit to our locals here. I will probably remain here about a week or ten days."

BRICK MAKERS COMBINE.

A combine of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combine, has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern with Pittsburg as their headquarters. The output of the plants will be 2,500,000,000 brick yearly. Not the least valuable part of the property taken over by the new company will be the large area of fire clay and coal land now owned by individual companies. The combine includes all the principal plants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

CRAMPED AT SALINEVILLE.

"Where can I find a house for rent?" is the question heard on every hand, says the Salineville Banner. Potters coming to Salineville from other towns are compelled to give up house hunting in disgust, for none suitable can be found. Every day men call in the business houses and store rooms to inquire for dwelling places. The best that can be done is to rent a room and settle down, with your family in one town and the head of the family somewhere else. Houses can be rented much faster than constructed in this town at present. If many more employes of the pottery come there will be two families in every house.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

The committee appointed by the town of Carrollton to solicit the $60,000 loan for the new pottery met with encouraging success during the first day of its work. D. O. Rutan, a prominent citizen, subscribed $2,000 and a free site of five acres. Eight other prominent citizens followed with a like amount each. It is believed that the committee will raise the necessary amount within a short time. Carrollton is one of the wealthiest towns of its size in the state.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected by Printers' and Transferrers' local No. 32 at its last meeting: President, Dave McIntosh; vice president, Mrs. Maggie Herbert; recording and corresponding secretary, W. B. Elder; financial secretary, Ed. Hatton; defense fund secretary, George Harrison; treasurer, Frank Martin; inspector, Maud Barlow; inside guard, Etta Hailes; trustee, 18 months, Ralph Alcock; statistician, John A. Murphy.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The fine toilet set donated by the K., T. & K. for the Cyrus Bailey benefit can be seen in the show window of the Sleepless Shoe company, in the Diamond. It is one of the handsomest sets made in the city and the person holding the winning number will be lucky. The boys who are disposing of the tickets are having good success as the cause is a worthy one. Mr. Bailey has not been able to work for 13 months.

BRICK PLANT BURNED.

The Wyomissing plant of the Montella Brick company, one of the largest concerns in the country, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The company has a contract to furnish all the brick for the new capital at Harrisburg, besides doing paving work in many cities.

SALEM LOCAL ELECTS.

At the regular meeting of Local No. 42, of Salem, the following officers were elected: President, Will White; vice president, John Lynch; recording secretary, Mame Snodgrass; treasurer, R. J. Richert; statistician, W. C. Filler; inspector, Blanche Laughlin; guard, Lula Richert; trustee, Theodore Bell; one per cent. secretary, John Hickey.

RICHARD GILMORE DEAD.

Richard Gilmore, aged 32, an active member of the N. B. of O. P., died in East Palestine Tuesday. His funeral was held yesterday. Mr. Gilmore had suffered from consumption for two years and lately returned from Colorado, where he had gone for his health. He was the fourth of the family to die of the same disease.

MAY MAKE TILE.

The construction committee of the Mansfield reformatory board was directed to investigate as to the practicability of establishing a brick and tile works in connection with the institution to furnish it with these articles which are so largely used in construction about the buildings and yards.

GONE TO MINERVA.

Harry Lancaster, the well known mould maker, left today for Minerva, where he will begin making moulds for the new pottery in which E. J. Owens, of this city, is interested. Temporary quarters have been provided for the mould room until the permanent quarters can be completed.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Gus Rottgard has changed from the K. T. & K. glost to McNicol's.

George Charles, of Pittsburg, is the guest of Jack Hancock, of the biscuit crew at McNicol's.

Mike Reynolds, who is now employed at Salem, will move his family to that city in the near future.

Aus. Tann, who recently accepted a job as kiln fireman with the Oliver China company, has moved his family to Sebring.

Miss Lou Keeper, of the biscuit warehouse at D. E. McNicol's, returned to work yesterday after an illness of a few days.

Miss Hattie Bierly, it is reported, has resigned her position with the Sebring Pottery company, to accept one with the new Cameron plant.

It is reported that a printing machine will be installed in the Keswick plant at New Brighton. Three hand printers will be displaced. The machine will be operated by an East Liverpool man.

Baby

Weighed Only Five Pounds.

Restless, Cried Day and Night.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Did Wonders, Cured Her.

A little over two years ago I had a little, nervous baby who weighed only five pounds at birth. At first she was restless and cross and after she was four weeks old she cried day and night, and would not sleep without narcotics. She was so nervous that we did not dare to move when she did sleep a short time, as she would wake screaming as though she was going to have a fit. We called a doctor; he called it infantile colic; said he could relieve her, could not cure her. After a short time the effect of his medicine wore off and I was in despair. I tried all known home remedies and innumerable patent medicines. At last I gave her Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and she was easy and slept without narcotics. Since that time I have used a dozen bottles and would not be without it. I am now giving it to another baby and it has the same effect, immediate relief always."—Mrs. Vincent Zidek, Verona, N. D.

"Three years ago I was taken with nervous prostration, which brought on heart trouble, and my heart would palpitate at every little noise. I had smothering spells so that at times I would nearly sink away. I got one bottle each of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I could feel good results from the first few doses. They have since effected a permanent cure. I recommend Dr. Miles' Remedies to all who suffer as I did."—Mrs. G. C. James, Fairmont, Nebraska.

INCREASE OF SALARIES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Governor to Get $5,000 a Year Under Schedule Recommended to Legislature.

Charleston, W. Va., January 24.—A meeting of the house finance and judiciary committee was held yesterday to consider the matter of fixing salaries of state officials under the change in the constitution made by the adoption of certain amendments at the recent election. The result of the conference was the arrangement of the following schedule of salaries which will be incorporated in the Reynolds bill: Governor, $5,000; secretary of state, $4,000; auditor, $4,500; treasurer, $2,500; attorney general, $2,500; state superintendent of schools, $2,500; supreme court judges, $4,800; circuit judges, $3,000, and supreme court clerks, $1,500.

Judge Reynolds, of Mineral county the author of the bill and leader of the majority in the house, wanted to fix the salary of the governor at $10,000, and the other salaries at proportionate figures. EAST END

WORK IN PROGRESS ON NEW MAIN

EAST END WILL SOON GET NEEDED WATER SUPPLY.

Large Force of Men Busily Engaged on the Important Improvement.

At last the crying need of the East End, better fire protection, is about to become a reality. After the proposition of the manufacturers of the East End to lend money to build a 12-inch main to that section of the city, the cost of which to be paid now by them and later deduced from their taxes, has been accepted. Council at its last meeting instructed the water works trustees to go ahead with the work and said that the city would bear half of the interest on the money. The cost of the improvement will reach about $6,500, and the money necessary was to have been furnished by the potteries now and later their taxes were to be collected in proportion.

Work has begun in laying the mains Thursday and a large force of men are engaged. The main will be 12 inches in diameter and will extend to the limits of the East End. It will run through the Midway Land company's addition and smaller mains will be built in all directions to supply water to residents of the various parts of that section of the city. Work will be retarded to some extent at the present time on account of the frozen condition of the ground, but the force at present engaged will be able to make considerable headway, and with the first approach of warmer weather work will proceed with much greater rapidity.

It is probable, had not the potteries of the East End taken up the question, the water service would have been inadequate to meet all requirements. The conditions became so bad that insurance companies refused to take any risks on the plants and the danger of loss from fire became so great that the officials of the companies were compelled to take up the question and bring it to a successful issue. The mains that are now being laid are large enough to afford ample protection to the different plants in case of fire. Four and six-inch mains will be built from the principal main and these will be used to supply water for every day use.

SUSPICION SAID TO REST ON AN EAST END MAN

Hancock County Sheriff Visited That Section Hunting New Cumberland Robbers.

The East End was visited yesterday by Detective Shiffler, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Sheriff C. F. Allison, of New Cumberland. The object of the visit of these two gentlemen was to get a trace of the parties who robbed the safe of W. A. Scott, the jeweler of New Cumberland. As soon as the robbery was discovered Sheriff Allison began working on the case and the robbers were traced to East Liverpool. They came from New Cumberland in a buggy drawn by a white horse, and the rig was traced to the East End. There no further trace of it could be secured.

It is said that three parties are suspected. One is supposed to be a resident of the East End, while the other two live in New Cumberland. It is said that arrests will follow in a short time and that when they are made a sensation will be created. The party under suspicion is said to be quite a prominent resident of the East End and but few persons would suspect him of being connected with such an undertaking. There is a reward of $400 offered for the apprehension of the robbers.

AN ITALIAN'S TRUNK

Found in the Road Led to a Surmise That There Had Been a Burglary.

A trunk was found in the East End this morning on Pennsylvania avenue by A. F. McFarland. It was brought to the East End fire station and it was told where it was found. Nothing further was known about it. At first it was surmised that possibly some one had entered a house and carried away a trunk. It was unlocked and nothing of any value was found in it aside from a hat, shirt and a few other things.

A pocketbook was also found in it, but no money. Later developments showed that the trunk was the property of one of the Italians who is now working on the C. & P. road above the East End. They went over the road last night and several of them were in a bad state of intoxication and failed to notice the trunk when it dropped off the wagon.

REALM OF SPORTS

SHARKEY FOND OF CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Sailor-Pugilist Has Not Missed a Service in Fifteen Years—Training for Jack Munroe.

One of the liberal contributors to a celebration at the French Lick church next Sunday is Tom Sharkey, the pugilist. "I'm a strict churchman on Sunday," said the former sailor to a number of friends, "and in all my travels for the last 15 years I never missed a service."

As the conversation continued Sharkey's mind turned to his coming match with Jack Munroe, says a dispatch from French Lick, Ind.

"I shall enter the ring once more with no other purpose than to demonstrate that I can do with Munroe what Jeffries failed to do," said Tom. "I shall defeat the miner. Then if Jeffries still thinks he is champion he will have to show me.

"Munroe says he wishes to fight me first. I hope he will not change his mind. That $20,000 purse looks good to me. They say money talks. I want to see what the $20,000 will say."

Every detail in Sharkey's day is mapped out in advance, now that he is in active training. In the early morning he drinks freely of the spring waters. He breakfasts after a jaunt over the hills. At 10 he starts on a five-mile run, accompanied by Jack McCormick, his chief trainer; Jim Buckley, his backer, and Jimmy Ryan and Tommy Williams. After a rubdown comes luncheon.

At 2 in the afternoon Sharkey dons his fighting togs and boxes a few rounds with McCormick, Ryan and Williams. He and McCormick take a turn on the wrestling mat. After the final rubdown Sharkey retires to his room for a nap.

Tom has accepted Dan McLeod's chanenge for a wrestling match at Cleveland February 12. It will be his last public engagement before the fight with Munroe.

WELLSVILLE LOST THE LIRST SERIES

Barrels Were Used by the Local Team With Gratifying Results.

The East Liverpool bowling team scored its greatest victory last evening when Captain Shingler's team, of Wellsville, suffered defeat by a total of 82 pins. The series consisted of three games and was the first of three series to be played in the near future.

Wellsville credits its defeat to two distinct reasons; first, because Karr and Shingler have forgotten how to play the game, and second because the East Liverpool aggregation sprung an unexpected diversion, one that Wellsville bowlers had heard about, but never seen before. They had played with men possessing expert ability and men that cast the balls like a cannon shot. Before such they were never daunted. But when East Liverpool came to the front with balls containing a hole for almost every finger and in size the dimensions of a sugar barrel it was up to the Wellsville boys to throw up their hands and allow their visitors to walk away, the winners.

Quite a crowd witnessed the games and enthusiasm was at a high pitch during the entire evening, it being impossible at any time for one to safely predict the results. Neither team played a standard game, and the opinion of all was that the series was one of the poorest ever bowled by the two teams. The individual scores follow:

Wellsville—Aten, 187, 192, 148; Harsha, 128, 179, 161; Hull, 177, 178, 200; Shingler, 134, 148, 127; Karr, 126, 145, 177.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

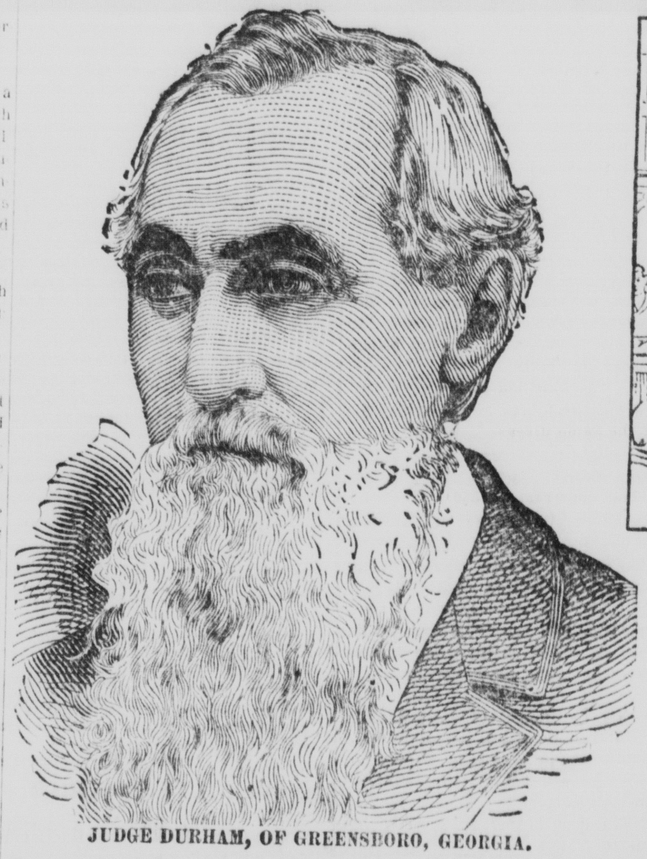

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

A GEORGIA JUDGE

WAS ALARMINGLY AFFLICTED WITH CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

JUDGE DURHAM, OF GREENSBORO, GEORGIA.

Catarrh of the Lungs the First Stage of Consumption.

So All Medical Authorities Agree.

Judge Durham, a well-known local Judge of Greensboro, Ga., had an experience with Peruna well worth reciting. A report had become current among the judge's friends that he was threatened with consumption. It was feared for a time that Georgia was to lose one of its most prominent and influential citizens.

It was also reported that the judge had failed to get any relief from any of the medical aid at his command, that he had made use of the now world famous remedy, Peruna, and made a prompt recovery. The affair created quite a sensation in medical circles especially, and the many friends of Judge Durham were not only exceedingly gratified at his recovery, but were enthusiastic in their praises of the remedy that had brought him relief.

The following written statement from the judge himself set forth the facts:

Greensboro, Ga., March 3, 1900.

"Some time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and in my head. I tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. I concluded that my case was catarrh of the head and lungs, and seeing Peruna so highly recommended I began using it, experiencing the very best results from the first bottle.

"I continued using Peruna for a short while, and have never felt the least symptoms of catarrh since. Peruna is certainly a good medicine, and deserves the highest praise which is given it by the general public."

Judge Durham has been Secretary and Treasurer of the city of Greensboro, Ga., for the past three years, and has been a local Judge for ten years.

Dread Consumption.

There are three roads which lead from health to consumption. Over one of these roads pass all of that great multitude of people who die every year of consumption. Each route begins with health and happiness and ends with disease and death.

First road: a slight cold—neglected—settles in the head or throat—chronic catarrh—extends to the lungs—consumption—death.

Second road: a slight cold—neglected cough—settles in the lungs—cough gradually growing worse—consumption—death.

Third road: a cold—neglected—settles in the throat—hoarseness—short breath—consumption—death.

Thousands have just started on one of these roads, all of whom could be easily cured by Peruna. Thousands more are half way to the fatal end of one of these roads who are still curable by a course of treatment by Peruna. Yet other thousands are near the end whose last days could be made bearable and hope of recovery more probable by commencing Peruna without delay.

A reward of $10,000 has been deposited in the Market Exchange Bank, Columbus, Ohio, as a guarantee that the above testimonial is genuine; that we hold in our possession authentic letters certifying to the same. Every one of our testimonials are genuine and in the words of the one whose name is appended.

THOMAS CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR MISHAP

Found Unconscious And Half Frozen in the Road Near His Home With Bad Scalp Wounds.

Jesse Thomas, the carrier on the Negley rural delivery route, who was found a few night ago in an unconscious condition in a lane near his home a short distance from Achor cannot account for his injuries. He left Negley that evening in a sleigh and was in his usual good health. He stopped at a watering trough a mile from his home and after this claims he can remember nothing.

The theory is that he fell asleep and was thrown from the sleigh. He was stunned and lay for several hours in the snow and was almost frozen when found. There were several bad cuts about his face and head. There was no attempt at robbery and foul play is not suspicioned.

Mr. Thomas is now able to resume his work, but is compelled to keep his head in bandages.

WORK IN PROGRESS ON NEW MAIN

EAST END WILL SOON GET NEEDED WATER SUPPLY.

Large Force of Men Busily Engaged on the Important Improvement.

At last the crying need of the East End, better fire protection, is about to become a reality. After the proposition of the manufacturers of the East End to lend money to build a 12-inch main to that section of the city, the cost of which to be paid now by them and later deduced from their taxes, has been accepted. Council at its last meeting instructed the water works trustees to go ahead with the work and said that the city would bear half of the interest on the money. The cost of the improvement will reach about $16,500, and the money necessary was to have been furnished by the potteries now and later their taxes were to be collected in proportion.

Work has begun in laying the mains Thursday and a large force of men are engaged. The main will be 12 inches in diameter and will extend to the limits of the East End. It will run through the Midway Land company's addition and smaller mains will be built in all directions to supply water to residents of the various parts of that section of the city. Work will be retarded to some extent at the present time on account of the frozen condition of the ground, but the force at present engaged will be able to make considerable headway, and with the first approach of warmer weather work will proceed with much greater rapidity.

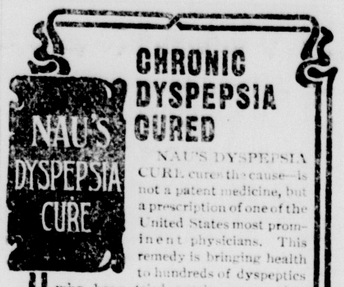

It is probable, had not the potteries of the East End taken up the question, the water service would have been inadequate to meet all requirements. The conditions became so bad that insurance companies refused to take any risks on the plants and the danger of loss from fire became so great that the officials of the companies were compelled to take up the question and bring it to a successful issue. The mains that are now being laid are large enough to afford ample protection to the different plants in case of fire. Four and six-inch mains will be built from the principal main and these will be used to supply water for every day use.

SUSPICION SAID TO REST ON AN EAST END MAN

Hancock County Sheriff Visited That Section Hunting New Cumberland Robbers.

The East End was visited yesterday by Detective Shiffler, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Sheriff C. F. Allison, of New Cumberland. The object of the visit of these two gentlemen was to get a trace of the parties who robbed the safe of W. A. Scott, the jeweler of New Cumberland. As soon as the robbery was discovered Sheriff Allison began working on the case and the robbers were traced to East Liverpool. They came from New Cumberland in a buggy drawn by a white horse, and the rig was traced to the East End. There no further trace of it could be secured.

It is said that three parties are suspected. One is supposed to be a resident of the East End, while the other two live in New Cumberland. It is said that arrests will follow in a short time and that when they are made a sensation will be created. The party under suspicion is said to be quite a prominent resident of the East End and but few persons would suspect him of being connected with such an undertaking. AN ITALIAN'S TRUNK

Found in the Road Led to a Surmise That There Had Been a Burglary.

A trunk was found in the East End this morning on Pennsylvania avenue by A. F. McFarland. It was brought to the East End fire station and it was told where it was found. Nothing further was known about it. At first it was surmised that possibly some one had entered a house and carried away a trunk. It was unlocked and nothing of any value was found in it aside from a hat, shirt and a few other things.

A pocketbook was also found in it, but no money. Later developments showed that the trunk was the property of one of the Italians who is now working on the C. & P. road above the East End. They went over the road last night and several of them were in a bad state of intoxication and failed to notice the trunk when it dropped off the wagon.

WELLSVILLE LOST THE LIRST SERIES

Barrels Were Used by the Local Team With Gratifying Results.

The East Liverpool bowling team scored its greatest victory last evening when Captain Shingler's team, of Wellsville, suffered defeat by a total of 82 pins. The series consisted of three games and was the first of three series to be played in the near future.

Wellsville credits its defeat to two distinct reasons; first, because Karr and Shingler have forgotten how to play the game, and second because the East Liverpool aggregation sprung an unexpected diversion, one that Wellsville bowlers had heard about, but never seen before. They had played with men possessing expert ability and men that cast the balls like a cannon shot. Before such they were never daunted. But when East Liverpool came to the front with balls containing a hole for almost every finger and in size the dimensions of a sugar barrel it was up to the Wellsville boys to throw up their hands and allow their visitors to walk away, the winners.

Quite a crowd witnessed the games and enthusiasm was at a high pitch during the entire evening, it being impossible at any time for one to safely predict the results. Neither team played a standard game, and the opinion of all was that the series was one of the poorest ever bowled by the two teams. The individual scores follow:

East Liverpool—McEldowney, 162, 180, 191; Craig, 149, 183, 155; Rigby, 136, 176, 152; Carnahan, 156, 163, 181; Clark, 158, 172, 186.

Wellsville—Aten, 187, 192, 148; Harsha, 128, 179, 161; Hull, 177, 178, 200; Shingler, 134, 148, 127; Karr, 126, 145, 177.

SHARKEY FOND OF CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Sailor-Pugilist Has Not Missed a Service in Fifteen Years—Training for Jack Munroe.

One of the liberal contributors to a celebration at the French Lick church next Sunday is Tom Sharkey, the pugilist. "I'm a strict churchman on Sunday," said the former sailor to a number of friends, "and in all my travels for the last 15 years I never missed a service."

As the conversation continued Sharkey's mind turned to his coming match with Jack Munroe, says a dispatch from French Lick, Ind.

"I shall enter the ring once more with no other purpose than to demonstrate that I can do with Munroe what Jeffries failed to do," said Tom. "I shall defeat the miner. Then if Jeffries still thinks he is champion he will have to show me.

"Munroe says he wishes to fight me first. I hope he will not change his mind. That $20,000 purse looks good to me. They say money talks. I want to see what the $20,000 will say."

Every detail in Sharkey's day is mapped out in advance, now that he is in active training. In the early morning he drinks freely of the spring waters. He breakfasts after a jaunt over the hills. At 10 he starts on a five-mile run, accompanied by Jack McCormick, his chief trainer; Jim Buckley, his backer, and Jimmy Ryan and Tommy Williams. After a rubdown comes luncheon.

At 2 in the afternoon Sharkey does his fighting togs and boxes a few rounds with McCormick, Ryan and Williams. He and McCormick take a turn on the wrestling mat. After the final rubdown Sharkey retires to his room for a nap.

Tom has accepted Dan McLeod's chanenge for a wrestling match at Cleveland February 12. It will be his last public engagement before the fight with Munroe.

A GEORGIA JUDGE

WAS ALARMINGLY AFFLICTED WITH CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

JUDGE DURHAM, OF GREENSBORO, GEORGIA.

Catarrh of the Lungs the First Stage of Consumption.

So All Medical Authorities Agree.

Judge Durham, a well-known local Judge of Greensboro, Ga., had an experience with Peruna well worth reciting. A report had become current among the judge's friends that he was threatened with consumption. It was feared for a time that Georgia was to lose one of its most prominent and influential citizens.

It was also reported that the judge had failed to get any relief from any of the medical aid at his command, that he had made use of the now world famous remedy, Peruna, and made a prompt recovery. The affair created quite a sensation in medical circles especially, and the many friends of Judge Durham were not only exceedingly gratified at his recovery, but were enthusiastic in their praises of the remedy that had brought him relief.

The following written statement from the judge himself set forth the facts:

Greensboro, Ga., March 3, 1900.

"Some time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and in my head. I tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. I concluded that my case was catarrh of the head and lungs, and seeing Peruna so highly recommended I began using it, experiencing the very best results from the first bottle.

"I continued using Peruna for a short while, and have never felt the least symptoms of catarrh since. Peruna is certainly a good medicine, and deserves the highest praise which is given it by the general public."

Judge Durham has been Secretary and Treasurer of the city of Greensboro, Ga., for the past three years, and has been a local judge for ten years.

Dread Consumption.

There are three roads which lead from health to consumption. Over one of these roads pass all of that great multitude of people who die every year of consumption. Each route begins with health and happiness and ends with disease and death.

First road: a slight cold—neglected—settles in the head or throat—chronic catarrh—extends to the lungs—consumption—death.

Second road: a slight cold—neglected cough—settles in the lungs—cough gradually growing worse—consumption—death.

Third road: a cold—neglected—settles in the throat—hoarseness—short breath—consumption—death.

Thousands have just started on one of these roads, all of whom could be easily cured by Peruna. Thousands more are half way to the fatal end of one of these roads who are still curable by a course of treatment by Peruna. Yet other thousands are near the end whose last days could be made bearable and hope of recovery more probable by commencing Peruna without delay.

THOMAS CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR MISHAP

Found Unconscious And Half Frozen in the Road Near His Home With Bad Scalp Wounds.

Jesse Thomas, the carrier on the Negley rural delivery route, who was found a few night ago in an unconscious condition in a lane near his home a short distance from Achor cannot account for his injuries. He left Negley that evening in a sleigh and was in his usual good health. He stopped at a watering trough a mile from his home and after this claims he can remember nothing.

The theory is that he fell asleep and was thrown from the sleigh. He was stunned and lay for several hours in the snow and was almost frozen when found. There were several bad cuts about his face and head. There was no attempt at robbery and foul play is not suspicioned.

Mr. Thomas is now able to resume his work, but is compelled to keep his head in bandages.

WORK IN PROGRESS ON NEW MAIN

EAST END WILL SOON GET NEEDED WATER SUPPLY.

Large Force of Men Busily Engaged on the Important Improvement.

At last the crying need of the East End, better fire protection, is about to become a reality. After the proposition of the manufacturers of the East End to lend money to build a 12-inch main to that section of the city, the cost of which to be paid now by them and later deduced from their taxes, has been accepted. Council at its last meeting instructed the water works trustees to go ahead with the work and said that the city would bear half of the interest on the money. The cost of the improvement will reach about $16,500, and the money necessary was to have been furnished by the potteries now and later their taxes were to be collected in proportion.

Work has begun in laying the mains Thursday and a large force of men are engaged. The main will be 12 inches in diameter and will extend to the limits of the East End. It will run through the Midway Land company's addition and smaller mains will be built in all directions to supply water to residents of the various parts of that section of the city. Work will be retarded to some extent at the present time on account of the frozen condition of the ground, but the force at present engaged will be able to make considerable headway, and with the first approach of warmer weather work will proceed with much greater rapidity.

It is probable, had not the potteries of the East End taken up the question, the water service would have been inadequate to meet all requirements. The conditions became so bad that insurance companies refused to take any risks on the plants and the danger of loss from fire became so great that the officials of the companies were compelled to take up the question and bring it to a successful issue. The mains that are now being laid are large enough to afford ample protection to the different plants in case of fire. Four and six-inch mains will be built from the principal main and these will be used to supply water for every day use.

SUSPICION SAID TO REST ON AN EAST END MAN

Hancock County Sheriff Visited That Section Hunting New Cumberland Robbers.

The East End was visited yesterday by Detective Shiffler, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Sheriff C. F. Allison, of New Cumberland. The object of the visit of these two gentlemen was to get a trace of the parties who robbed the safe of W. A. Scott, the jeweler of New Cumberland. As soon as the robbery was discovered Sheriff Allison began working on the case and the robbers were traced to East Liverpool. They came from New Cumberland in a buggy drawn by a white horse, and the rig was traced to the East End. There no further trace of it could be secured.

It is said that three parties are suspected. One is supposed to be a resident of the East End, while the other two live in New Cumberland. It is said that arrests will follow in a short time and that when they are made a sensation will be created. The party under suspicion is said to be quite a prominent resident of the East End and but few persons would suspect him of being connected with such an undertaking. There is a reward of $400 offered for the apprehension of the robbers.

A GEORGIA JUDGE

WAS ALARMINGLY AFFLICTED WITH CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

JUDGE DURHAM, OF GREENSBORO, GEORGIA.

Catarrh of the Lungs the First Stage of Consumption.

So All Medical Authorities Agree.

Judge Durham, a well-known local Judge of Greensboro, Ga., had an experience with Peruna well worth reciting. A report had become current among the judge's friends that he was threatened with consumption. It was feared for a time that Georgia was to lose one of its most prominent and influential citizens.

It was also reported that the judge had failed to get any relief from any of the medical aid at his command, that he had made use of the now world famous remedy, Peruna, and made a prompt recovery. The affair created quite a sensation in medical circles especially, and the many friends of Judge Durham were not only exceedingly gratified at his recovery, but were enthusiastic in their praises of the remedy that had brought him relief.

The following written statement from the judge himself set forth the facts:

Greensboro, Ga., March 3, 1900.

"Some time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and in my head. I tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. I concluded that my case was catarrh of the head and lungs, and seeing Peruna so highly recommended I began using it, experiencing the very best results from the first bottle.

"I continued using Peruna for a short while, and have never felt the least symptoms of catarrh since. Peruna is certainly a good medicine, and deserves the highest praise which is given it by the general public."

Judge Durham has been Secretary and Treasurer of the city of Greensboro, Ga., for the past three years, and has been a local judge for ten years.

Dread Consumption.

There are three roads which lead from health to consumption. Over one of these roads pass all of that great multitude of people who die every year of consumption. Each route begins with health and happiness and ends with disease and death.

First road: a slight cold—neglected—settles in the head or throat—chronic catarrh—extends to the lungs—consumption—death.

Second road: a slight cold—neglected cough—settles in the lungs—cough gradually growing worse—consumption—death.

Third road: a cold—neglected—settles in the throat—hoarseness—short breath—consumption—death.

Thousands more are half way to the fatal end of one of these roads who are still curable by a course of treatment by Peruna. Yet other thousands are near the end whose last days could be made bearable and hope of recovery more probable by commencing Peruna without delay.

THOMAS CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR MISHAP

Found Unconscious And Half Frozen in the Road Near His Home With Bad Scalp Wounds.

Jesse Thomas, the carrier on the Negley rural delivery route, who was found a few night ago in an unconscious condition in a lane near his home a short distance from Achor cannot account for his injuries. He left Negley that evening in a sleigh and was in his usual good health. He stopped at a watering trough a mile from his home and after this claims he can remember nothing.

The theory is that he fell asleep and was thrown from the sleigh. He was stunned and lay for several hours in the snow and was almost frozen when found. There were several bad cuts about his face and head. There was no attempt at robbery and foul play is not suspicioned.

Mr. Thomas is now able to resume his work, but is compelled to keep his head in bandages.

CONTRACT LET FOR DOUBLE TRACKING

Philadelphia contractor Will Grade 18 Miles Along the C. & P. And Employ Many Men.

Wm. Leigh, of Philadelphia, has been awarded a large contract for making the grade for double tracking by the C. & P. It is stated that 700 men, divided into four crews, will be employed in the work. The payroll will be in the neighborhood of $100,000 a week.

The work is to be completed in as short time as Mr. Leigh has other good contracts along the C. & P. Another contract for work of this nature near the city is said to have been given Cleveland contractors. The contract is for 18 miles of track in this vicinity.

In 1850 the United States imported from Mexico goods to the amount of $527,000 and exported to that country $2,012,827 worth of products. In 1902 our imports from Mexico were worth over $40,000,000 and our exports were nearly of the same value. Of course the growth of our sister republic and its progress in industry, mining and railroad building account largely for the increased trade. But the most powerful trade stimulus has been the friendly and intimate relations existing between the two countries. To cultivate such relations with other republics to the southward is a wise commercial policy, deserving every encouragement. Much of South America is still undeveloped, though nature has bestowed her bounties there with a lavishness equalled in few quarters of the globe. It will pay in other than financial and commercial ways to stand well with our neighbors.

At last the antiquated militia laws of the United States have been superseded by something modern. President Roosevelt has signed the new militia bill. To a gathering of cabinet members, congressmen and others which witnessed the signing, the president spoke highly of its merits. He expressed the hope that no president ever would be confronted by such an emergency as would render it necessary for him to avail himself of the services of the troops provided for in the bill, but he congratulated the committee and the country on its enactment, and said he regarded the citizen soldiery of the nation as a most important factor in the protection of the country.

No sign of a reduction in the price of coal has come, although the duty has been removed for several days. No material reduction will take place on this account at all. However, a further advance in prices has been headed off, and even for this relief the country gives thanks.

The Littlefield anti-trust bill has received the approval of the attorney general and presumably that of the president. It will doubtless be pushed in congress, and unless the plain wish of the people is ignored, the measure, or something very like it, will be made a law.

A California scientist has announced that breathing is foolish and unnecessary. He may be right. A large number of wise and good men quit the habit long ago.

Charles M. Schwab would doubtless be willing to exchange his princely salary for that of a coal heaver if he could have thecoal heaver's health along with it.

Germany hopes for peace, the newspaper reports say. Evidently. And she will bring it about if her powder holds out.

"Pitchfork" Tillman declares he will not again enter the White House while President Roosevelt is president. This ought to cause rejoicing in the executive mansion.

Paris society has pronounced the cake walk shocking and immoral. The French are easily shocked except in exhibitions where they are the principal actors.

Sir Thomas Lipton is completing his third Shamrock. Evidently he is bent on proving that, if there is nothing in a name, there is luck in odd numbers.

The Pennsylvania railroad has just borrowed $40,000,000. It can probably handle such a debt easier than it can handle all the freight offered it.

The base ball magnates are getting almost as expert as the prize fighters in the use of the typewriter.

OBITUARY

Henry Aten.

Henry Aten, Wellsville's venerable citizen, whose home was on Fifteenth street, in that city, died yesterday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock, after having been ill for several days. Mr. Aten was 88 years of age, and with the exception of Alexander Wells, was the oldest resident of the city. He was born and had resided there all of his life. He is survived by three children and his wife. The children are: Mrs. C. H. Snediker, Miss Mary Aten and George M. Aten, all of whom are residents of the city. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it will, it is expected, be held Monday at the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mr. Aten engaged in business in Wellsville about 60 years ago as a member of the firm of Catlett & Aten. The business was a wholesale grocery and forwarding commission business. Mr. Aten was a director of the First National bank for a number of years. He was a member of the local lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He had been a member of the order for over 40 years. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

John Shea.

Relatives in this city received word yesterday afternoon of the death in Steubenville of John Shea, a prominent young mill worker, employed at the Mingo steel plant. Mr. Shea was 24 years of age and single. The cause of death was dropsy, with which he had suffered for several weeks. He was one of the best known and most popular young men in Steubenville, and his untimely death is universally regretted by his friends. Mr. Shea is survived by his father and mother, four brothers and two sisters. He was a cousin of Mrs. George Smurthwaite, of 280 Third street, this city, who will attend the funeral, which will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Imagination and Illness.

An interesting experiment was recently made by an English physician in reference to the relative power of imagination of the two sexes. He gave to a hundred of his hospital patients a dose of sweetened water, and shortly afterward entered the room, apparently greatly agitated, saying he had, by mistake, administered a powerful emetic. In a few minutes four-fifths of the subjects were affected by the supposed emetic. These were mainly men, while all of those not affected were women.

Where Licorice Grows.

On the banks of the Tigris and the Euphrates the licorice plant is chiefly grown. These great rivers flow through flat, treeless prairies of uncultivated and nearly uninhabited land. For three months of the year hot winds blow, and the temperature reaches 104 degrees.

For six months of the year the climate is moderate and salubrious, and for three months bleak and wintry, the thermometer going down to 30 degrees at night.

Both Dangerous.

Poetry.

Poetry is not made out of the understanding. The question of common sense is always "What is it good for?" It is a guess at which would abolish the rose and be triumphantly answered by the cabbage.—Lowell.

Sixth Street Building.

Miss Effie Knowles, who teaches the first grade at the Sixth street building, yesterday had a literary program which was quite creditable for such little ones. Little Myrian Hyams sang a solo which was very good.

Miss Knowles has a new pupil in her school who is really interesting. The ad is a Russian and has been in this country for only a few months. He is learning to speak English very rapidly and is very apt at reading in the reader. He can read fluently in his little Russian reader which seems very curious to his playmates.

Among the visitors in this room yesterday were Mrs. Parkinson and daughter, of Beaver Falls, who are the guests of Mrs. Dr. Norris.

Miss Martha Caliebe, teacher of the second grade, delighted the children a short time ago when she told them that they might do some paper folding. They made little boats which are used to advantage in decorations.

Miss Caliebe is teaching the children to know and be able to write their parents' names and addresses. This comes in their language work. During the holidays the teacher of this room made a Santa Claus corner in which the children have so much enjoyed that Miss Caliebe has not removed it up to this date.

Upon the blackboard in this corner are pasted all the different pictures of Santa Claus which were possible to obtain. The idea is quite unique.

Miss Grace Morgan has the third grade and the children of this room are much interested in the speer work, in which Miss Morgan formerly took a course, and is having marked success in her school with it.

Besides the regular schedule work, Miss Lena Howard, teacher of the fourth grade, has had some novel work done. It consists in wood-cutting, and each pupil furnished their own thin strips of wood and pen knife. With these simple implements the girls and boys made yarn winders of different shapes, and the work is quite perfect for pupils so young.

The fifth grade in charge of Miss Croft, has had some story writing, which shows originality on the part of the pupils. This comes in their language work and has been an excellent drill. Their arithmetic work is also a source of interest to them. In this school the following pupils are thus far on the yearly honor roll:

David Reese, Eighth street.
Allen Blower, Fifth street.
Alwyn Purinton, Fifth street.
Roy Winters, May street.
Forest Bennett, May street.

Miss Margaret Roach has the sixth grade pupils who are doing quite a little composition work in connection with their geography work. A short time ago the stories which were written on "Rivers," were very interesting to the girls and boys. In the near future there will be more productions of the same character written on the subject of "Currents."

Miss Elizabeth Stevenson also has the sixth grade pupils, Miss Roach and Miss Stevenson, having the same grade, usually have their music lessons together in which work the two schools are doing excellent work.

Miss Stevenson the past week had some illustrated compositions on the history of the "Oak." These are representative of the good work the girls and boys are doing.

Miss Anna Gardner who is principal of this building, in speaking of attendance, said that the Sixth street building is justly proud of the record made so far during the year in regard to attendance. The pupils take pride in being on time. Three rooms in the building have had no tardiness this school year and six rooms so far this month have had none.

Third Street Building.

The little folks in Miss Andrews' first grade have recently done some work which their teacher, as well as themselves may be proud of.

The work was done with needle and thread on cards, and make a pretty decoration for the school room.

The little folks are also becoming quite apt at using the lead pencil and paper in writing little stories and drawing pictures of them.

Miss May Douglass, teacher of the second grade, has been absent during the past week and Miss Hattie Poe has had charge of her room.

Miss Lena Blake, teacher of the third grade, has had some paper cutting of late, but the children seem most interested in the maps of Columbiana county, which they are at present working on.

Miss Griggs, principal of the building, is having the same usual interest in her regular program, and outside of that the pupils are taking interest in their language work. At present they are learning how to paragraph and are very particular as to how they do this in their composition work.

West End School.

Miss Faulk, teacher of the first grade, is having some organic work in teaching. This, as is known, is an aid to the weaker pupils and has been spoken of by Prof. Rayman and other prominent educators as an excellent method to use at times in the school room.

A decoration in Miss Faulk's room, which would be pleasing in the sight of the children, is the colored autumn leaves which for a while have been arranged across the front of the black board.

Miss Rachel McBane, who teaches the second grade at the West End, has her pupils very enthusiastic over their spelling. Every once in a while they have what they termed the "Foot Ball" spelling. It is on the plan of the old fashioned spelling match but its name and the method used by Miss McBane makes the spelling a topic of interest.

Miss Lowrie is having her third grade girls and boys at present studying the southern section of the United States. They are drawing maps of this section, which are very good. They have just finished writing a number of very good compositions on the growth of cotton. These are instructive, as well as representative of good work.

Herbert Johnson, principal of the West End building, is having the usual interest and enthusiasm of the pupils throughout all his classes.

Among the Pupils.

Margaret Farmer is ill at her home on Sixth street.

Jennie Roush is absent from school on account of illness.

Carrie Calhoun, of Jackson street has missed school during the past week because of illness.

Hazel Hyams, of Summit Lane, was out of school a few days last week.

Eddie March, of Seventh street, was absent during the past week owing to sickness.

John Hohman, of Fourth street, has been out of school on account of illness.

Perry Rigby and Goodwin Thomas of Seventh street, have been out of school by reason of illness.

Dorothea Weltz, of Fourth street, has been out of school due to illness.

Jennie Grafton is ill at her home on Fourth street.

Herbert Maddock is quite ill at his home on Eighth street, with catarrhal fever.

Maggie Bloor, of Seventh street, has been absent from school on account of illness.

Helen Viney has returned to her school duties after being out for several days.

Willie Ritchie is confined to his home on Franklin street by illness.

George Hall is ill at his home in Pleasant Heights.

Harold Gallimore missed school last week on account of illness.

Donald Fowler, of Sixth street, who was seriously ill for some time, was able to return to school again last week.

Joseph Sarber, of Third street, has been out of school on account of illness.

Kelsey Johnson, of Jethro street has been ill during the past week.

Some Missouri Names.

The people have given singular and amusing names to many neighborhoods in Missouri, says the Kansas City Star. In Caldwell county are Zion, Lickfork and Polo. Echo Dell, Gabtown and Dawson City are in Worth county. In Nodaway county are Toad Hollow, Sunrise and Possum Walk, and in Henry county is Coal. Pigeon Creek and Centennial are in Atchison county; River Dots, Splawn Ridge and Civil Bend in Daviess county; Sleepy Hollow and Ivy Hill in Sullivan county, and Erom Echoes in Butler county. These are just a few names picked at random from the country correspondence of the county newspapers. [illegible] or sign-boards [illegible] head, but generally the aim of the designer seems to have been to confer the harshest or most amusing appellation he could think of.

OBITUARY

Henry Aten.

Henry Aten, Wellsville's venerable citizen, whose home was on Fifteenth street, in that city, died yesterday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock, after having been ill for several days. Mr. Aten was 88 years of age, and with the exception of Alexander Wells, was the oldest resident of the city. He was born and had resided there all of his life. He is survived by three children and his wife. The children are: Mrs. C. H. Snediker, Miss Mary Aten and George M. Aten, all of whom are residents of the city. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it will, it is expected, be held Monday at the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mr. Aten engaged in business in Wellsville about 60 years ago as a member of the firm of Catlett & Aten. The business was a wholesale grocery and forwarding commission business. Mr. Aten was a director of the First National bank for a number of years. He was a member of the local lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He had been a member of the order for over 40 years. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

John Shea.

Relatives in this city received word yesterday afternoon of the death in Steubenville of John Shea, a prominent young mill worker, employed at the Mingo steel plant. Mr. Shea was 24 years of age and single. The cause of death was dropsy, with which he had suffered for several weeks. He was one of the best known and most popular young men in Steubenville, and his untimely death is universally regretted by his friends. Mr. Shea is survived by his father and mother, four brothers and two sisters. He was a cousin of Mrs. George Smurthwaite, of 280 Third street, this city, who will attend the funeral, which will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Imagination and Illness.

An interesting experiment was recently made by an English physician in reference to the relative power of imagination of the two sexes. He gave to a hundred of his hospital patients a dose of sweetened water, and shortly afterward entered the room, apparently greatly agitated, saying he had, by mistake, administered a powerful emetic. In a few minutes four-fifths of the subjects were affected by the supposed emetic. These were mainly men, while all of those not affected were women.

Where Licorice Grows.

On the banks of the Tigris and the Euphrates the licorice plant is chiefly grown. These great rivers flow through flat, treeless prairies of uncultivated and nearly uninhabited land. For three months of the year hot winds blow, and the temperature reaches 104 degrees.

For six months of the year the climate is moderate and salubrious, and for three months bleak and wintry, the thermometer going down to 30 degrees at night.

Both Dangerous.

Sixth Street Building.

Miss Effie Knowles, who teaches the first grade at the Sixth street building, yesterday had a literary program which was quite creditable for such little ones. Little Myrian Hyams sang a solo which was very good.

Miss Knowles has a new pupil in her school who is really interesting. The ad is a Russian and has been in this country for only a few months. He is learning to speak English very rapidly and is very apt at reading in the reader. He can read fluently in his little Russian reader which seems very curious to his playmates.

Among the visitors in this room yesterday were Mrs. Parkinson and daughter, of Beaver Falls, who are the guests of Mrs. Dr. Norris.

Miss Martha Caliebe, teacher of the second grade, delighted the children a short time ago when she told them that they might do some paper folding. They made little boats which are used to advantage in decorations.

Miss Caliebe is teaching the children to know and be able to write their parents' names and addresses. This comes in their language work. During the holidays the teacher of this room made a Santa Claus corner in which the children have so much enjoyed that Miss Caliebe has not removed it up to this date.

Upon the blackboard in this corner are pasted all the different pictures of Santa Claus which were possible to obtain. The idea is quite unique.

Miss Grace Morgan has the third grade and the children of this room are much interested in the speer work, in which Miss Morgan formerly took a course, and is having marked success in her school with it.

Besides the regular schedule work, Miss Lena Howard, teacher of the fourth grade, has had some novel work done. It consists in wood-cutting, and each pupil furnished their own thin strips of wood and pen-knife. With these simple implements the girls and boys made yarn winders of different shapes, and the work is quite perfect for pupils so young.

The fifth grade in charge of Miss Croft, has had some story writing, which shows originality on the part of the pupils. This comes in their language work and has been an excellent drill. Their arithmetic work is also a source of interest to them. In this school the following pupils are thus far on the yearly honor roll:

David Reese, Eighth street.
Allen Blower, Fifth street.
Alwyn Purinton, Fifth street.
Roy Winters, May street.
Forest Bennett, May street.

Miss Margaret Roach has the sixth grade pupils who are doing quite a little composition work in connection with their geography work. A short time ago the stories which were written on "Rivers," were very interesting to the girls and boys. In the near future there will be more productions of the same character written on the subject of "Currents."

Miss Elizabeth Stevenson also has the sixth grade pupils, Miss Roach and Miss Stevenson, having the same grade, usually have their music lessons together in which work the two schools are doing excellent work.

Miss Stevenson the past week had some illustrated compositions on the history of the "Oak." These are representative of the good work the girls and boys are doing.

Miss Anna Gardner who is principal of this building, in speaking of attendance, said that the Sixth street building is justly proud of the record made so far during the year in regard to attendance. The pupils take pride in being on time. Three rooms in the building have had no tardiness this school year and six rooms so far this month have had none.

Third Street Building.

The little folks in Miss Andrews' first grade have recently done some work which their teacher, as well as themselves may be proud of.

The work was done with needle and thread on cards, and make a pretty decoration for the school room.

The little folks are also becoming quite apt at using the lead pencil and paper in writing little stories and drawing pictures of them.

Miss May Douglass, teacher of the second grade, has been absent during the past week and Miss Hattie Poe has had charge of her room.

Miss Lena Blake, teacher of the third grade, has had some paper cutting of late, but the children seem most interested in the maps of Columbiana county, which they are at present working on.

Miss Griggs, principal of the building, is having the same usual interest in her regular program, and outside of that the pupils are taking interest in their language work. At present they are learning how to paragraph and are very particular as to how they do this in their composition work.

West End School.

Miss Faulk, teacher of the first grade, is having some organic work in teaching. This, as is known, is an aid to the weaker pupils and has been spoken of by Prof. Rayman and other prominent educators as an excellent method to use at times in the school room.

A decoration in Miss Faulk's room, which would be pleasing in the sight of the children, is the colored autumn leaves which for a while have been arranged across the front of the black board.

Miss Rachel McBane, who teaches the second grade at the West End, has her pupils very enthusiastic over their spelling. Every once in a while they have what they termed the "Foot Ball" spelling. It is on the plan of the old fashioned spelling match but its name and the method used by Miss McBane makes the spelling a topic of interest.

Miss Lowrie is having her third grade girls and boys at present study ing the southern section of the United States. They are drawing maps of this section, which are very good. They have just finished writing a number of very good compositions on the growth of cotton. These are instructive, as well as representative of good work.

Herbert Johnson, principal of the West End building, is having the usual interest and enthusiasm of the pupils throughout all his classes.

Among the Pupils.

Margaret Farmer is ill at her home on Sixth street.

Jennie Roush is absent from school on account of illness.

Carrie Calhoun, of Jackson street, has missed school during the past week because of illness.

Hazel Hyams, of Summit Lane, was out of school a few days last week.

Some Missouri Names.

The people have given singular and amusing names to many neighborhoods in Missouri, says the Kansas City Star. In Caldwell county are Zion, Lickfork and Polo. Echo Dell, Gabtown and Dawson City are in Worth county. In Nodaway county are Toad Hollow, Sunrise and Possum Walk, and in Henry county is Coal. Pigeon Creek and Centennial are in Atchison county; River Dots, Splawn Ridge and Civil Bend in Daviess county; Sleepy Hollow and Ivy Hill in Sullivan county, and Esrom Echoes in Butler county. These are just a few names picked at random from the country correspondence of the county seat press. Now [illegible] or suggested to name [illegible] neighborhood, but generally the aim of the christener seems to have been to confer the harshest or most amusing appellation he could think of.

In 1850 the United States imported from Mexico goods to the amount of $527,000 and exported to that country $2,012,827 worth of products. In 1902 our imports from Mexico were worth over $40,000,000 and our exports were nearly of the same value. Of course the growth of our sister republic and its progress in industry, mining and railroad building account largely for the increased trade. But the most powerful trade stimulus has been the friendly and intimate relations existing between the two countries. To cultivate such relations with other republics to the southward is a wise commercial policy, deserving every encouragement. Much of South America is still undeveloped, though nature has bestowed her bounties there with a lavishness equalled in few quarters of the globe. It will pay in other than financial and commercial ways to stand well with our neighbors.

At last the antiquated militia laws of the United States have been superseded by something modern. President Roosevelt has signed the new militia bill. To a gathering of cabinet members, congressmen and others which witnessed the signing, the president spoke highly of its merits. He expressed the hope that no president ever would be confronted by such an emergency as would render it necessary for him to avail himself of the services of the troops provided for in the bill, but he congratulated the committee and the country on its enactment, and said he regarded the citizen soldiery of the nation as a most important factor in the protection of the country.

No sign of a reduction in the price of coal has come, although the duty has been removed for several days. No material reduction will take place on this account at all. However, a further advance in prices has been headed off, and even for this relief the country gives thanks.

The Littlefield anti-trust bill has received the approval of the attorney general and presumably that of the president. It will doubtless be pushed in congress, and unless the plain wish of the people is ignored, the measure, or something very like it, will be made a law.

Some Missouri Names.

The people have given singular and amusing names to many neighborhoods in Missouri, says the Kansas City Star. In Caldwell county are Zion, Lickfork and Polo. Echo Dell, Gabtown and Dawson City are in Worth county. In Nodaway county are Toad Hollow, Sunrise and Possum Walk, and in Henry county is Coal. Pigeon Creek and Centennial are in Atchison county; River Dells, Splawn Ridge and Civil Bend in Daviess county; Sleepy Hollow and Ivy Hill in Sullivan county, and Esrom Echoes in Butler county. These are just a few names picked at random from the country correspondence of the county papers. [illegible] of suggestive names given to the neighborhood, but generally the aim of the christener seems to have been to confer the harshest or most amusing appellation he could think of.

A FLESH FORMING FOOD

Mi-o-na Makes Thin People Fat—Guaranteed By Druggist Will Reed.

When you buy a package of Mi-o-na, the great flesh-forming food and cure for indigestion, weigh yourself and see how much you gain in the first week's use.

Druggist Will Reed will tell you of many of his customers who a month or so ago were thin, pale, haggard and dyspeptic, but who are now, through the use of Mi-o-na plump, strong and happy, with perfect health and good digestion. He has seen so many instances of the wonderful power of Mi-o-na to restore the weak to health and to make good, natural flesh, that he gives his personal guarantee with every package of Miona to refund the money if the remedy does not prove satisfactory.

You can be your own judge as to whether you receive any benefit from Mi-o-na. Simply leave 50 cents on deposit with Will Reed and if after you have used the package of Mi-o-na you do not think it has done you any good go to his store and he will cheerfully return your money.

Mi-o-na is a purely vegetable preparation that can be used with absolute confidence by the most delicate. It gives remarkable results with children who are weak, run down and without appetite. It builds up the thin, pale, puny girl and woman to perfect plumpness and health. STRIKING FASHIONS.

Wide Capes on Tailor Mades—Velveteens Popular.

One of the most striking features of the winter tailor made is the large collar or cape arrangement which covers the shoulders and is a revival of the large Richelieu collar of point lace which was worn in the summer. Such a cape gives extra warmth in the winter and makes a fine background for a stole of fur.

The costliest simplicity is the keynote of the best fashion, but some of lesser lights will aim at elaboration. The woman with a small income must use much discrimination in buying just now, as styles are likely to undergo a great change. She can, however, make little mistake if she buys anything that is really good of its kind.

In Paris they are wearing a great deal of velveteen, both striped and spotted. Sometimes it is trimmed with fur. It is being used in pale shades for reception gowns, especially in fawn and gray. Parisians always show their good taste by dressing in complete harmony, and their fancy for gray is very pronounced.

The pretty blouse shown is of velvet with a front of white silk and chiffon applique. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Green Is on the Wane—New Shades of Red and Orange.

There is no doubt that the popularity of green is on the wane in exclusive circles, whereas the fashionable champagne shade is in the ascendant and will continue so for some time. The new mulberry red is in vogue, and so are, even more than ever, smart combinations of black and white.

There is a new shade of orange which runs into flames—that is to say, it is considerably shot with pink. This will be immensely popular and extremely becoming when subdued with lace.

Soft laces, tulles, gauzes and crepes de chine, as well as nets, are all pressed into service for evening wear. Despite the use of some beautiful satins and brocades the softer fabrics are certainly the most popular, while the all lace dress is never really out of fashion.

A great deal of oriental embroidery is used both for day and evening wear. Colored cloth embroideries are extremely useful on cloth frocks. In fact, with the exception of gold braid, they are the only permissible trimming. Nothing is smarter for the morning gown of utility than the practical blue or black cheviot or rough goods simply made, heavily stitched and pressed, with the slightest touch of harmonious color introduced into the waistcoat revers or cuffs.

An up to date maid's cap and apron are here shown. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Guess.

"This is the laundry," said the agent who was showing them through the house. "Here, you see, are stationary washtubs."

"Ah! Why do you call them stationary?" inquired the bride to be. "Is it because colored goods won't run in them?"—Philadelphia Press.

LIEUTENANT HINDS

By WILL A. PAGE

Copyright, 1903, by W. A. Page.

The well groomed and picturesque young girl who had just ascended the imposing flight of stone steps leading to the northern entrance of the state, war and navy department building in Washington paused at the watchman's desk just inside the massive doorway.

"I wish to send a card to Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy department," she said, with just a tinge of the aristocratic arrogance often to be found within the exclusive circles of army and navy official society.

The watchman pondered. "Don't remember the name, miss," he said, scratching his head. "Are you sure it's the navy and not the army?"

"Of course I am—the navy."

"Well, take a chair, miss, and I'll look through the navy register. I thought I knew most of 'em, but sometimes a new one comes from China or the Philippines, where he's won a commission, without ever entering this here department building."

"Lieutenant Hinds has not been away from Washington in four years," said the young lady. "It seems strange you do not know him."

"No such name," declared the guardian of the door, slamming the naval register shut. "And let me tell you, miss, you must have the name wrong, since if he ain't in the naval register he ain't any lieutenant in the navy of your Uncle Samuel."

The young lady became visibly annoyed.

"Kindly direct me to your superior," she said decidedly. "I have made no mistake in the name. It is Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy. He told me so himself."

"Well, if you are so sure, it ain't for me to say you're wrong," was the kindly answer. "You might see the chief clerk down that corridor to the left."

"Thank you," was the reply, and the young lady, evidently relieved, started in the direction indicated. She turned the corner into the long and dimly illuminated corridor on the navy department side and ran plump into a young man who was acting as the motive power for a rubber wheeled truck loaded with several stacks of books.

"I—I assure you—I beg your pardon"—he began.

"Oh—forgive me—it is so dark"—she began. Then—

"Why, Jack, here you are!"

The man uttered an exclamation of surprise and annoyance. "The dence"—he began. "Why, Hettie, what are you doing here?"

"I wanted to see you," she commenced, "and I couldn't wait until after office hours. You see"—

"But, confound it," began the man—"I mean, forgive me. Only you know I always said I hated to receive visitors at the office."

"I know, Jack, but mother is ill. You left the house before I came down to breakfast. Mother was worried about the boarders and was afraid they'd all leave when they heard she was sick. If you stay, they will all remain, because they all like you. Besides"—

"Besides what, Hettie?"

"Well, I've been thinking about last night—and the future—and—well, you know, I just couldn't stay away from you."

"The dearest little woman in the world," he responded tenderly. "I was a brute to speak so to you, but I was surprised at seeing you here the first time, and, besides, these books must be taken immediately to the secretary."

"Why, John," said the girl, "are you carrying books and pulling that truck? I always thought lieutenants and naval officers had men to do things for them. And do you know that horrid man at the door didn't know you and said there wasn't any Lieutenant Hinds."

"My dear girl," hurriedly ejaculated the young man, "do you mean to say you have been asking in this building for me? Why in the world"—

"Oh, I'm sorry I came now," murmured the girl, with a suggestion of a sob. "I thought that my own lieutenant of the navy would be glad to see me."

"Of course I am," said the man tenderly, yet anxiously. "There, forgive me, and I'll explain this evening why I must not have any one calling here at the office. The secretary becomes simply furious if any of the clerks—I mean any one—receives company. Even now I am late, and the secretary wants these books. Goodby, dear, until this evening."

The girl turned to go. A resonant footstep on the marble floor of the almost deserted corridor interrupted them. A tall and dignified man strode by them in the semidarkness. By the feeble electric light he saw the two people and the truck of books.

"Hinds," broke in a stern and commanding voice, "take those books at once to the office. When you have done so, I wish to see you." And the secretary of the navy continued on his way.

"Oh, Lord!" cried the man. "I'm done for now! That was the secretary. Run along, quick. I must go."

"If you go, so will I. And I shall tell this secretary what I think of him for being so rude to you. I see nothing wrong in your speaking to me."

The man turned. "Wait for me here. I might as well face the music at once." And, grabbing the handle of the truck, he strode rapidly after the vanishing figure of the secretary. He reached the outer office of that official without once looking behind him. Then he entered the secretary's private office. The secretary had just seated himself.

"Hinds," he commenced, "I am sorry to see that you are entertaining ladies in the department during office hours. Are you married?"

"No, sir."

"Then there isn't even the excuse that you are receiving a visit from your wife. But I must have you distinctly understand that I do not approve of strange ladies or any kind of ladies visiting men in office. I don't care who the lady is, and I don't wish to know. I just want you to understand"—

"But you shall know who the lady is," broke in an indignant voice. "I am Miss Hettie Neville, and I am the fiancee of Lieutenant John Hinds of the United States navy."

The secretary seemed puzzled. Hinds sank into a chair. The secretary was the first to speak.

"My dear young lady, I do not know how you entered here or why you are so indignant toward me. I do not wish to seem to criticise your conduct, but Hinds here has always been one of my most faithful aids, and I do not wish him to set a bad example to the others in the office."

"Do you call getting married a bad example?" cried Hettie. "Why should you find fault with Lieutenant Hinds if his affianced wife wishes to speak to him for a few moments?"

"Lieutenant Hinds?" repeated the secretary politely. "I do not know any such lieutenant."

"No such lieutenant?" was the amazed ejaculation. "Why, here is Lieutenant Hinds before you."

The secretary leaned back in his chair, laughing. Hinds seemed embarrassed. Hettie was becoming more and more angry. Hinds broke in:

"I am very sorry, Mr. Secretary," he commenced, rising to his feet, "but I have an unpleasant confession to make. You see, sir, when I first got my job here some years ago we messengers in the department fell to calling each other by titles, the same as the officers. Three or four of us lived in the same boarding house, and just for a lark we used these handles at the dinner table. Then I moved to the house kept by Miss Hettie's mother, and the very first day one of my chums took dinner with me. All through the meal he kept on using that infernal 'lieutenant.' I never thought any harm would come of it, so I never contradicted it. I never intended to deceive you, Hettie, and I was going to tell you all about it tonight. I'll never do it again, sir, and if Miss Hettie will accept a $900 a year messenger of the navy department instead of a real lieutenant, why, sir, I'll promise she will never again interrupt me when I'm carrying your books."

The secretary was smiling. "And will Miss Hettie accept the $900 a year messenger?" he asked.

"Oh, sir," cried Hettie, "indeed she will, and she's very sorry she was so rude."

The secretary took up a pen and commenced to write. "Then that's all settled," he said. "Now, 'Lieutenant' John Hinds, take this paper to the appointment clerk. You are placed on the rolls as a special clerk at $1,200 and are detailed for duty in my private office. I wish you good morning. Permit me to congratulate you both."

The Japanese and Their Fans.

To the Japanese the fan is not merely a means to the end of cooling the atmosphere. It is a thing of meaning, of art. It tells a story, and there is even a suggestiveness in the manner of using or wearing it. The whole history of Japan could be read from fans if enough of them were put together, and every political event of importance is pictured on these airy trifles. There are different fans for every conceivable occasion. Even dolls have their own fans, and children have theirs. The geisha girls have a particular kind of fan, and jugglers, too, use one with appropriate decorations. There is a fan used only at the solemn tea feast, and a war fan of iron, covered with lacquer. Generals have silk fans, with iron sticks, and there is a dangerous dagger fan. The bamboo water fan is dipped in water frequently while being used to make the air cooler. The ancient court fans of Japan were folding fans of wood, decorated with silk artificial flowers, and each noble family had its own flower, that no one else dared use. Color, shape and decoration of the Japanese fan all have their meaning, the flowers and birds their symbolism. Thus to give a fan with a flight of white storks upon it is to wish long life, while a cobweb design is for

LIEUTENANT HINDS

Copyright, 1901, by W. A. Page.

The well groomed and picturesque young girl who had just ascended the imposing flight of stone steps leading to the northern entrance of the state, war and navy department building in Washington paused at the watchman's desk just inside the massive doorway.

"I wish to send a card to Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy department," she said, with just a tinge of the aristocratic arrogance often to be found within the exclusive circles of army and navy official society.

The watchman pondered. "Don't remember the name, miss," he said, scratching his head. "Are you sure it's the navy and not the army?"

"Of course I am—the navy."

"Well, take a chair, miss, and I'll look through the navy register. I thought I knew most of 'em, but sometimes a new one comes from China or the Philippines, where he's won a commission, without ever entering this here department building."

"Lieutenant Hinds has not been away from Washington in four years," said the young lady. "It seems strange you do not know him."

"No such name," declared the guardian of the door, slamming the naval register shut. "And let me tell you, miss, you must have the name wrong, since if he ain't in the naval register he ain't any lieutenant in the navy of your Uncle Samuel."

The young lady became visibly annoyed.

"Kindly direct me to your superior," she said decidedly. "I have made no mistake in the name. It is Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy. He told me so himself."

"Well, if you are so sure, it ain't for me to say you're wrong," was the kindly answer. "You might see the chief clerk down that corridor to the left."

"Thank you," was the reply, and the young lady, evidently relieved, started in the direction indicated. She turned the corner into the long and dimly illuminated corridor on the navy department side and ran plump into a young man who was acting as the motive power for a rubber wheeled truck loaded with several stacks of books.

"I—I assure you—I beg your pardon"—he began.

"Oh—forgive me—it is so dark"—she began. Then—

"Why, Jack, here you are!"

The man uttered an exclamation of surprise and annoyance. "The deuce"—he began. "Why, Hettie, what are you doing here?"

"I wanted to see you," she commenced, "and I couldn't wait until after office hours. You see"—

"But, confound it," began the man—"I mean, forgive me. Only you know I always said I hated to receive visitors at the office."

"I know, Jack, but mother is ill. You left the house before I came down to breakfast. Mother was worried about the boarders and was afraid they'd all leave when they heard she was sick. If you stay, they will all remain, because they all like you. Besides"—

"Besides what, Hettie?"

"Well, I've been thinking about last night—and the future—and—well, you know, I just couldn't stay away from you."

"The dearest little woman in the world," he responded tenderly. "I was a brute to speak so to you, but I was surprised at seeing you here the first time, and, besides, these books must be taken immediately to the secretary."

"Why, John," said the girl, "are you carrying books and pulling that truck? I always thought lieutenants and naval officers had men to do things for them. And do you know that horrid man at the door didn't know you and said there wasn't any Lieutenant Hinds."

"My dear girl," hurriedly ejaculated the young man, "do you mean to say you have been asking in this building for me? Why in the world"—

"Oh, I'm sorry I came now," murmured the girl, with a suggestion of a sob. "I thought that my own lieutenant of the navy would be glad to see me."

"Of course I am," said the man tenderly, yet anxiously. "There, forgive me, and I'll explain this evening why I must not have any one calling here at the office. The secretary becomes simply furious if any of the clerks—I mean any one—receives company. Even now I am late, and the secretary wants these books. Goodby, dear, until this evening."

The girl turned to go. A resonant footstep on the marble floor of the almost deserted corridor interrupted them. A tall and dignified man strode by them in the semidarkness. By the feeble electric light he saw the two people and the truck of books.

"Hinds," broke in a stern and commanding voice, "take those books at once to the office. When you have done so, I wish to see you." And the secretary of the navy continued on his way.

"Oh, Lord!" cried the man. "I'm done for now! That was the secretary. Run along, quick. I must go."

"If you go, so will I. And I shall tell this secretary what I think of him for being so rude to you. I see nothing wrong in your speaking to me."

The man turned. "Wait for me here. I might as well face the music at once." And, grabbing the handle of the truck, he strode rapidly after the vanishing figure of the secretary. He reached the outer office of that official without once looking behind him. Then he entered the secretary's private office. The secretary had just seated himself.

"Hinds," he commenced, "I am sorry to see that you are entertaining ladies in the department during office hours. Are you married?"

"No, sir."

"Then there isn't even the excuse that you are receiving a visit from your wife. But I must have you distinctly understand that I do not approve of strange ladies or any kind of ladies visiting men in office. I don't care who the lady is, and I don't wish to know. I just want you to understand"—

"But you shall know who the lady is," broke in an indignant voice. "I am Miss Hettie Neville, and I am the fiancee of Lieutenant John Hinds of the United States navy."

The secretary seemed puzzled. Hinds sank into a chair. The secretary was the first to speak.

"My dear young lady, I do not know how you entered here or why you are so indignant toward me. I do not wish to seem to criticise your conduct, but Hinds here has always been one of my most faithful aids, and I do not wish him to set a bad example to the others in the office."

"Do you call getting married a bad example?" cried Hettie. "Why should you find fault with Lieutenant Hinds if his affianced wife wishes to speak to him for a few moments?"

"Lieutenant Hinds?" repeated the secretary politely. "I do not know any such lieutenant."

"No such lieutenant!" was the amazed ejaculation. "Why, here is Lieutenant Hinds before you."

The secretary leaned back in his chair, laughing. Hinds seemed embarrassed. Hettie was becoming more and more angry. Hinds broke in:

"I am very sorry, Mr. Secretary," he commenced, rising to his feet, "but I have an unpleasant confession to make. You see, sir, when I first got my job here some years ago we messengers in the department fell to calling each other by titles, the same as the officers. Three or four of us lived in the same boarding house, and just for a lark we used these handles at the dinner table. Then I moved to the house kept by Miss Hettie's mother, and the very first day one of my chums took dinner with me. All through the meal he kept on using that infernal 'lieutenant.' I never thought any harm would come of it, so I never contradicted it. I never intended to deceive you, Hettie, and I was going to tell you all about it tonight. I'll never do it again, sir, and if Miss Hettie will accept a $900 a year messenger of the navy department instead of a real lieutenant, why, sir, I'll promise she will never again interrupt me when I'm carrying your books."

The secretary was smiling. "And will Miss Hettie accept the $900 a year messenger?" he asked.

"Oh, sir," cried Hettie, "indeed she will, and she's very sorry she was so rude."

The secretary took up a pen and commenced to write. "Then that's all settled," he said. "Now, 'Lieutenant' John Hinds, take this paper to the appointment clerk. You are placed on the rolls as a special clerk at $1,200 and are detailed for duty in my private office. I wish you good morning. Permit me to congratulate you both."

The Japanese and Their Fans.

To the Japanese the fan is not merely a means to the end of cooling the atmosphere. It is a thing of meaning, of art. It tells a story, and there is even a suggestiveness in the manner of using or wearing it. The whole history of Japan could be read from fans if enough of them were put together, and every political event of importance is pictured on these airy trifles. There are different fans for every conceivable occasion. Even dolls have their own fans, and children have theirs. The geisha girls have a particular kind of fan, and jugglers, too, use one with appropriate decorations. There is a fan used only at the solemn tea feast, and a war fan of iron, covered with lacquer. Generals have silk fans, with iron sticks, and there is a dangerous dagger fan. The bamboo water fan is dipped in water frequently while being used to make the air cooler. The ancient court fans of Japan were folding fans of wood, decorated with silk artificial flowers, and each noble family had its own flower, that no one else dared use. Color, shape and decoration of the Japanese fan all have their meaning, the flowers and birds their symbolism. Thus to give a fan with a flight of white storks upon it is to wish long life, while a cobweb design is for

The girl turned to go. A resonant footstep on the marble floor of the almost deserted corridor interrupted them. A tall and dignified man strode by them in the semidarkness. By the feeble electric light he saw the two people and the truck of books.

"Hinds," broke in a stern and commanding voice, "take those books at once to the office. When you have done so, I wish to see you." And the secretary of the navy continued on his way.

"Oh, Lord!" cried the man. "I'm done for now! That was the secretary. Run along, quick. I must go."

"If you go, so will I. And I shall tell this secretary what I think of him for being so rude to you. I see nothing wrong in your speaking to me."

The man turned. "Wait for me here. I might as well face the music at once," And, grabbing the handle of the truck, he strode rapidly after the vanishing figure of the secretary. He reached the outer office of that official without once looking behind him. Then he entered the secretary's private office. The secretary had just seated himself.

"Hinds," he commenced, "I am sorry to see that you are entertaining ladies in the department during office hours. Are you married?"

"No, sir."

"Then there isn't even the excuse that you are receiving a visit from your wife. But I must have you distinctly understand that I do not approve of strange ladies or any kind of ladies visiting men in office. I don't care who the lady is, and I don't wish to know. I just want you to understand"—

"But you shall know who the lady is," broke in an indignant voice. "I am Miss Hettie Neville, and I am the fiancee of Lieutenant John Hinds of the United States navy."

The secretary seemed puzzled. Hinds sank into a chair. The secretary was the first to speak.

"My dear young lady, I do not know how you entered here or why you are so indignant toward me. I do not wish to seem to criticise your conduct, but Hinds here has always been one of my most faithful aids, and I do not wish him to set a bad example to the others in the office."

"Do you call getting married a bad example?" cried Hettie. "Why should you find fault with Lieutenant Hinds if his affianced wife wishes to speak to him for a few moments?"

"Lieutenant Hinds?" repeated the secretary politely. "I do not know any such lieutenant."

"No such lieutenant!" was the amazed ejaculation. "Why, here is Lieutenant Hinds before you."

The secretary leaned back in his chair, laughing. Hinds seemed embarrassed. Hettie was becoming more and more angry. Hinds broke in:

"I am very sorry, Mr. Secretary," he commenced, rising to his feet, "but I have an unpleasant confession to make. You see, sir, when I first got my job here some years ago we messengers in the department fell to calling each other by titles, the same as the officers. Three or four of us lived in the same boarding house, and just for a lark we used these handles at the dinner table. Then I moved to the house kept by Miss Hettie's mother, and the very first day one of my chums took dinner with me. All through the meal he kept on using that infernal 'lieutenant.' I never thought any harm would come of it, so I never contradicted it. I never intended to deceive you, Hettie, and I was going to tell you all about it tonight. I'll never do it again, sir, and if Miss Hettie will accept a $900 a year messenger of the navy department instead of a real lieutenant, why, sir, I'll promise she will never again interrupt me when I'm carrying your books."

The secretary was smiling. "And will Miss Hettie accept the $900 a year messenger?" he asked.

"Oh, sir," cried Hettie, "indeed she will, and she's very sorry she was so rude."

The secretary took up a pen and commenced to write. "Then that's all settled," he said. "Now, 'Lieutenant' John Hinds, take this paper to the appointment clerk. You are placed on the rolls as a special clerk at $1,200 and are detailed for duty in my private office. I wish you good morning. Permit me to congratulate you both."

The Japanese and Their Fans.

To the Japanese the fan is not merely a means to the end of cooling the atmosphere. It is a thing of meaning, of art. It tells a story, and there is even a suggestiveness in the manner of using or wearing it. The whole history of Japan could be read from fans if enough of them were put together, and every political event of importance is pictured on these airy trifles. There are different fans for every conceivable occasion. Even dolls have their own fans, and children have theirs. The geisha girls have a particular kind of fan, and jugglers, too, use one with appropriate decorations. There is a fan used only at the solemn tea feast, and a war fan of iron, covered with lacquer. Generals have silk fans, with iron sticks, and there is a dangerous dagger fan. The bamboo water fan is dipped in water frequently while being used to make the air cooler. The ancient court fans of Japan were folding fans of wood, decorated with silk artificial flowers, and each noble family had its own flower, that no one else dared use. Color, shape and decoration of the Japanese fan all have their meaning, the flowers and birds their symbolism. Thus to give a fan with a flight of white storks upon it is to wish long life, while a cobweb design is for

SENATE DOES LITTLE.

Statehood Bill Again Occupies Entire Time of Upper National Body.

PRIVATE PENSIONS IN HOUSE.

Widow of General Franz Siegel Allowed $100 a Month, Widow of General Negley $50 and Widow of Rear Admiral Picking $40—Cabinet Meets

Washington, Jan. 24.—The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate yesterday. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred, in which senators on both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill. After an executive session the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of General Franz Siegel, at $100 a month; the widow of General James S. Negley, at $50, and the widow of Rear Admiral Henry F. Picking, at $40.

The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the Fifty-eighth congress.

Lessler Hearing Begins.

The house committee on naval affairs yesterday began the investigation authorized by the house in consequence of the charges made by Representative Lessler, of New York, during a recent session of the naval affairs committee, that he had been approached with an offer of money for his vote in committee in favor of construction of submarine torpedo boats.

Adopted Anti-Trust Bill.

The judiciary committee of the house yesterday adopted the anti-trust bill which was prepared by the sub-committee of which Representative Littlefield, of Maine, is chairman. The bill was reported to the full committee yesterday by the sub-committee as a substitute for the Littlefield publicity bill. The committee authorized the bill to be favorably reported to the house.

Panama Canal Treaty.

Yesterday's meeting of the cabinet was one of the most important held in several weeks. All the members of the cabinet were present. Secretary Moody presented a draft of the Panama canal treaty, signed Thursday evening, and both the president and his associates in the cabinet expressed satisfaction with the results achieved through the long and difficult negotiations.

The treaty is identical with that drawn by this government several months ago and at that time submitted to the Colombian government, with the single exception of the amount of annuity to be paid Colombia for the right of way of the canal.

Accepted Annuity of $250,000.

The Colombian government, through Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires here, agreed to accept an annuity of $250,000. This was entirely satisfactory to the president and Secretary Hay, and while it is a larger amount than was offered at first it is believed by administration officials that the senate undoubtedly will accept the figure named in the treaty, particularly after it is made clear that a lesser amount would deprive Colombia of income which she is now actively receiving. The treaty was sent to the senate late yesterday afternoon.

Venezuelan Situation.

The Venezuelan situation was discussed at length, but it can be said by authority that no change in the attitude of the United States is in contemplation at this time. This government will continue its policy of sitting tight. The bombardment by the German warships of Fort San Carlos is regretted sincerely by officials of the administration, because of their apprehension that it may complicate seriously the pending negotiations between Minister Bowen as the representative of Venezuela and the representatives of the powers. However, while the administration regards the bombardment as unwarranted, the United States has no intention of taking official cognizance of it.

Anti-Trust Legislation Considered.

Some consideration was given to the proposed anti-trust legislation now pending in congress. Regret was expressed that the impression prevailed in some quarters that the bill reported to the house from the judiciary committee was an "administration measure." It is made clear that it is not an administration measure, and does not represent entirely the views of the administration on what anti-trust legislation should be enacted by congress. It can be said to be the hope of the president and his cabinet that anti-trust legislation along the lines indicated by Attorney General Knox in the bills which he submitted to the house judiciary committee may be enacted at this session.

BISHOP BURGESS ON DIVORCE.

Says Roman Catholic Church Has Stood Like Bulwark for Inviolability of Marriage Tie.

New York, Jan. 24.—Bishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island, made an address at the annual dinner of the Church club Thursday night, in which he commended the attitude of the Roman Catholic church on the divorce question. The bishop said in part:

"The Roman Catholic church has stood like a bulwark against divorce. It has stood for the inviolability of the marriage tie and the unity of the home. Because of that it is in the world today one of the greatest forces for progress and for Christianity.

"Our prayer book says one thing and that thing is all right, but our canons tell quite a different story. The great work of the Protestant Episcopal church is to harmonize prayer books and canons. When our canons declare that communicants in our faith once married are married for life, then the Protestant Episcopal church will have done what it ought to do for the cause of civilization and the cause of Christ."

The bishop said that the young people of today grow up with the idea that there is nothing binding in the marriage tie and that it can be broken almost as soon as assumed.

Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws.

New York, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane, of Albany, has been made chairman and Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary. The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage. Work is to be undertaken at once by the secretary of the committee.

Coal Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The independent operators of the Wyoming and Lackawanna region, in which Scranton and Wilkesbarre are situated, occupied the time of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. The attorneys representing the 30 companies in these two regions called about a dozen witnesses who represented different concerns. In the examination of witnesses the lawyers tried to avoid as much as possible the repetition of testimony already presented by the larger companies. Therefore the examination yesterday was confined to the particular company with which it was called. Nothing of importance was elicited. There was unanimity of opinion, however, that the lack of discipline among the miners and the restriction of their earning capacity, testified by witnesses for the large coal companies, is more pronounced since the union came into the anthracite field than it was before the men organized. The independent operators in the Hazleton regions opened their case today. The firm of G. B. Markle & Co. is among these operators.

Body Identified.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 24.—A body found by the life saving crew yesterday at Harvey Cedars was later identified by Captain Hawkins, of the wrecked bark Abiel Abbott, as that of Henry Carten, of New York, one of the seamen drowned when the vessel was wrecked on Wednesday morning. Four men were drowned and one seaman died after being rescued. The bodies of three of the drowned have been recovered; that of Timothy Brandt is still missing. The Abiel Abbott has completely broken up.

Massachusetts Investigating.

Boston, Jan. 24.—An investigation of the coal situation by a special legislative committee was began here yesterday. The chairman announced in opening the session that the committee was sitting for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions as to the supply of coal, the methods of transportation and the price for which it was or is being sold.

Italians on Strike.

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—Work on the Harrisburg cut-off on the Northern Central railway between Enola and Goldsboro has been temporarily suspended by a strike of 400 Italian laborers employed by Contractor H. S. Karbaugh & Co., who demand $1.50 for a day's work of nine hours and coal for their shanties.

Chief Deitsch Dead.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Colonel Philip Deitsch, superintendent of police and widely known to members of his calling, died yesterday.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Dublin, Jan. 24.—Timothy Harrington, M. P., was yesterday re-elected lord mayor of Dublin for the third successive time.

London, Jan. 24.—Westminster chapel, one of the best known churches in London, has decided to invite Rev. Samuel George Smith, of St. Paul, Minn., to fill the pulpit.

London, Jan. 24.—Colonel Lynch was found guilty of high treason yesterday and was sentenced to death. Although formally sentenced to be hanged, Lynch's sentence will no doubt be commuted.

Genoa, Italy, Jan. 24.—The condition of Hubbard T. Smith, United States consul general at Cairo, who is in the Protestant hospital here, is growing worse. He is suffering with dropsy of the kidneys.

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very close; consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —I have been ailing from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruation with fearful headaches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone.

"I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. MINNIE TIETZ, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more.

"I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial."—MRS. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Free Medical Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women to write to her for advice. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will be seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigeston and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health.

"I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. BERTHA E. DEIRKINS, 25½ Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Ancient Decorative Art.

Though it is difficult to say where the decorative value of pottery and of china began to be appreciated, there is little doubt that it originated in the east. Ancient Chinese drawings still in existence show that the process of manufacture has varied but little in the course of the years and that many contrivances claimed as modern European inventions have been known for centuries in the east.

In Chinese official annals, which are said to be perfectly authentic, the invention of porcelain is dated at about 200 years before the Christian era, although Father Entrecolles, residing in China at the commencement of the seventeenth century, dates it long before this, and tells us in a most interesting manner of the great porcelain works of King Te Ching, one of the most ancient and celebrated of the Chinese factories. He says that in his time there were no fewer than 3,000 ovens at work, which gave to the town at night the appearance of one vast furnace with innumerable chimneys.

Knew What She Wrote.

The need of a lead pencil caused a lady who rode in a street car the other day no small embarrassment.

She sat running over her shopping list when suddenly she thought of something to add to it. She looked in her pocketbook and ransacked all its divisions, cardcase and all, but no pencil did she find. Modestly she hesitated about asking her neighbors, but with a quick resolve she finally leaned toward a gentleman seated by her and, holding up her list, said loud enough for those in adjacents seats to hear, "Excuse me, sir, may I borrow your necktie a moment?"

The gentleman's astonishment was expressed in his silent facial contortions until the lady reddened deeply.

"My necktie, madam?" he replied, with arched eyebrows.

"Didn't I say 'pencil?'" she asked. And then everybody, grinning behind newspapers, knew what the lady added to her list.—Exchange.

Brutes Can Speak.

"Do brutes have a language?" asked the president of the Millville Literary circle at a recent meeting.

"Do they?" replied the secretary. "You ought to hear my husband when he loses his collar button."

A Dainty Lunch.

That word "dainty" never being used to describe the lunch spread for men, we have decided that it means there is not enough to eat.—Atchison Globe.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Maver, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptons of kidney distress passed away."

FASHION FANCIES.

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de soie, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

SENATE DOES LITTLE.

Statehood Bill Again Occupies Entire Time of Upper National Body.

PRIVATE PENSIONS IN HOUSE.

Widow of General Franz Siegel Allowed $100 a Month, Widow of General Negley $50 and Widow of Rear Admiral Picking $40—Cabinet Meets.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate yesterday. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred, in which senators on both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill. After an executive session the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of General Franz Siegel, at $100 a month; the widow of General James S. Negley, at $50, and the widow of Rear Admiral Henry F. Picking, at $40.

The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the Fifty-eighth congress.

Lessler Hearing Begins.

The house committee on naval affairs yesterday began the investigation authorized by the house in consequence of the charges made by Representative Lessler, of New York, during a recent session of the naval affairs committee, that he had been approached with an offer of money for his vote in committee in favor of construction of submarine torpedo boats.

Adopted Anti-Trust Bill.

The judiciary committee of the house yesterday adopted the anti-trust bill which was prepared by the sub-committee of which Representative Littlefield, of Maine, is chairman. The bill was reported to the full committee yesterday by the sub-committee as a substitute for the Littlefield publicity bill. The committee authorized the bill to be favorably reported to the house.

Panama Canal Treaty.

Yesterday's meeting of the cabinet was one of the most important held in several weeks. All the members of the cabinet were present. Secretary Moody presented a draft of the Panama canal treaty, signed Thursday evening, and both the president and his associates in the cabinet expressed satisfaction with the results achieved through the long and difficult negotiations.

The treaty is identical with that drawn by this government several months ago and at that time submitted to the Colombian government, with the single exception of the amount of annuity to be paid Colombia for the right of way of the canal.

Accepted Annuity of $250,000.

The Colombian government, through Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires here, agreed to accept an annuity of $250,000. This was entirely satisfactory to the president and Secretary Hay, and while it is a larger amount than was offered at first it is believed by administration officials that the senate undoubtedly will accept the figure named in the treaty, particularly after it is made clear that a lesser amount would deprive Colombia of income which she is now actively receiving. The treaty was sent to the senate late yesterday afternoon.

Venezuelan Situation.

The Venezuelan situation was discussed at length, but it can be said by authority that no change in the attitude of the United States is in contemplation at this time. This government will continue its policy of sitting tight. The bombardment by the German warships of Fort San Carlos is regretted sincerely by officials of the administration, because of their apprehension that it may complicate seriously the pending negotiations between Minister Bowen as the representative of Venezuela and the representatives of the powers. However, while the administration regards the bombardment as unwarranted, the United States has no intention of taking official cognizance of it.

Anti-Trust Legislation Considered.

Some consideration was given to the proposed anti-trust legislation now pending in congress. Regret was expressed that the impression prevailed in some quarters that the bill reported to the house from the judiciary committee was an "administration measure." It is made clear that it is not an administration measure, and does not represent entirely the views of the administration on what anti-trust legislation should be enacted by congress. It can be said to be the hope of the president and his cabinet that anti-trust legislation along the lines indicated by Attorney General Knox in the bills which he submitted to the house judiciary committee may be enacted at this session.

BISHOP BURGESS ON DIVORCE.

Says Roman Catholic Church Has Stood Like Bulwark for Inviolability of Marriage Tie.

New York, Jan. 24.—Bishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island, made an address at the annual dinner of the Church club Thursday night, in which he commended the attitude of the Roman Catholic church on the divorce question. The bishop said in part:

"The Roman Catholic church has stood like a bulwark against divorce. It has stood for the inviolability of the marriage tie and the unity of the home. Because of that it is in the world today one of the greatest forces for progress and for Christianity.

"Our prayer book says one thing and that thing is all right, but our canons tell quite a different story. The great work of the Protestant Episcopal church is to harmonize prayer books and canons. When our canons declare that communicants in our faith once married are married for life, then the Protestant Episcopal church will have done what it ought to do for the cause of civilization and the cause of Christ."

The bishop said that the young people of today grow up with the idea that there is nothing binding in the marriage tie and that it can be broken almost as soon as assumed.

Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws.

New York, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane, of Albany, has been made chairman and Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary. The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage. Work is to be undertaken at once by the secretary of the committee.

Coal Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The independent operators of the Wyoming and Lackawanna region, in which Scranton and Wilkesbarre are situated, occupied the time of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. The attorneys representing the 30 companies in these two regions called about a dozen witnesses who represented different concerns. In the examination of witnesses the lawyers tried to avoid as much as possible the repetition of testimony already presented by the larger companies. Therefore the examination yesterday was confined to the particular company with which it was called. Nothing of importance was elicited. There was unanimity of opinion, however, that the lack of discipline among the miners and the restriction of their earning capacity, testified by witnesses for the large coal companies, is more pronounced since the union came into the anthracite field than it was before the men organized. The independent operators in the Hazleton regions opened their case today. The firm of G. B. Markle & Co. is among these operators.

Body Identified.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 24.—A body found by the life saving crew yesterday at Harvey Cedars was later identified by Captain Hawkins, of the wrecked bark Abiel Abbott, as that of Henry Carten, of New York, one of the seamen drowned when the vessel was wrecked on Wednesday morning. Four men were drowned and one seaman died after being rescued. The bodies of three of the drowned have been recovered; that of Timothy Brandt is still missing. The Abiel Abbott has completely broken up.

Massachusetts Investigating.

Boston, Jan. 24.—An investigation of the coal situation by a special legislative committee was began here yesterday. The chairman announced in opening the session that the committee was sitting for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions as to the supply of coal, the methods of transportation and the price for which it was or is being sold.

Italians on Strike.

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—Work on the Harrisburg cut-off on the Northern Central railway between Enola and Goldsboro has been temporarily suspended by a strike of 400 Italian laborers employed by Contractor H. S. Karbaugh & Co., who demand $1.50 for a day's work of nine hours and coal for their shanties.

Chief Deitsch Dead.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Colonel Philip Deitsch, superintendent of police and widely known to members of his calling, died yesterday.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Dublin, Jan. 24.—Timothy Harrington, M. P., was yesterday re-elected lord mayor of Dublin for the third successive time.

London, Jan. 24.—Westminster chapel, one of the best known churches in London, has decided to invite Rev. Samuel George Smith, of St. Paul, Minn., to fill the pulpit.

London, Jan. 24.—Colonel Lynch was found guilty of high treason yesterday and was sentenced to death. Although formally sentenced to be hanged, Lynch's sentence will no doubt be commuted.

Genoa, Italy, Jan. 24.—The condition of Hubbard T. Smith, United States consul general at Cairo, who is in the Protestant hospital here, is growing worse. He is suffering with [illegible]

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very close; consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — I have been ailing from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruation with fearful headaches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone.

"I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. MINNIE TIETZ, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more.

"I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial."—MRS. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Free Medical Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women to write to her for advice. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will be seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigeston and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health.

"I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. BERTHA E. DEIRKINS, 25½ Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Ancient Decorative Art.

Though it is difficult to say where the decorative value of pottery and of china began to be appreciated, there is little doubt that it originated in the east. Ancient Chinese drawings still in existence show that the process of manufacture has varied but little in the course of the years and that many contrivances claimed as modern European inventions have been known for centuries in the east.

In Chinese official annals, which are said to be perfectly authentic, the invention of porcelain is dated at about 200 years before the Christian era, although Father Entrecolles, residing in China at the commencement of the seventeenth century, dates it long before this, and tells us in a most interesting manner of the great porcelain works of King Te Ching, one of the most ancient and celebrated of the Chinese factories. He says that in his time there were no fewer than 3,000 ovens at work, which gave to the town at night the appearance of one vast furnace with innumerable chimneys.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptons of kidney distress passed away."

Knew What She Wrote.

The need of a lead pencil caused a lady who rode in a street car the other day no small embarrassment.

She sat running over her shopping list when suddenly she thought of something to add to it. She looked in her pocketbook and ransacked all its divisions, cardcase and all, but no pencil did she find. Modestly she hesitated about asking her neighbors, but with a quick resolve she finally leaned toward a gentleman seated by her and, holding up her list, said loud enough for those in adjacents seats to hear, "Excuse me, sir, may I borrow your necktie a moment?"

The gentleman's astonishment was expressed in his silent facial contortions until the lady reddened deeply.

"My necktie, madam?" he replied, with arched eyebrows.

"Didn't I say 'pencil?'" she asked. And then everybody, grinning behind newspapers, knew what the lady added to her list.—Exchange.

Brutes Can Speak.

"Do brutes have a language?" asked the president of the Milliville Literary circle at a recent meeting.

"Do they?" replied the secretary. "You ought to hear my husband when he loses his collar button."

FASHION FANCIES.

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

Squirrel will not last in the popular favor long, although the trying gray color is becoming to a few, and it certainly is much cheaper than chinchilla.

The rage for embroideries and incrustations of lace is greater than ever, and we shall do well, therefore, to use any we may have by us.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de soie, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Both Involved.

Mr. Younghusband (reading from paper)—"Married—Blanche de Smythe to Walter Wellington Beere." What old memories that name awakens!

Mr. Y. (chillingly)—I was alluding to Blanche.

Feminine Egotism.

Husband (during the spat)—I must have been a fool when I married you.

Wife—Undoubtedly. But the old adage still holds good.

Husband—What's that?

Wife—A fool for luck.—Chicago News.

Experienced.

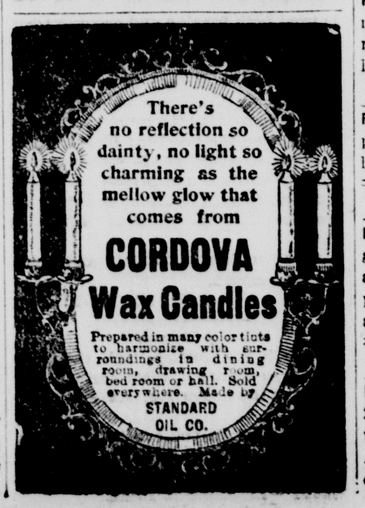

"How was it that he managed to pull the wool over your eyes?"

"Well, he had fleeced several fellows before I met him."

There are plenty of actors who act like actors, too few who act like real human beings.—Ohio State Journal.

SENATE DOES LITTLE.

Statehood Bill Again Occupies Entire Time of Upper National Body.

PRIVATE PENSIONS IN HOUSE.

Widow of General Franz Siegel Allowed $100 a Month, Widow of General Negley $50 and Widow of Rear Admiral Picking $40—Cabinet Meets

Washington, Jan. 24.—The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate yesterday. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred, in which senators on both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill. After an executive session the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of General Franz Siegel, at $100 a month; the widow of General James S. Negley, at $50, and the widow of Rear Admiral Henry F. Picking, at $40.

The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the Fifty-eighth congress.

Lessler Hearing Begins.

The house committee on naval affairs yesterday began the investigation authorized by the house in consequence of the charges made by Representative Lessler, of New York, during a recent session of the naval affairs committee, that he had been approached with an offer of money for his vote in committee in favor of construction of submarine torpedo boats.

Adopted Anti-Trust Bill.

The judiciary committee of the house yesterday adopted the anti-trust bill which was prepared by the sub-committee of which Representative Littlefield, of Maine, is chairman. The bill was reported to the full committee yesterday by the sub-committee as a substitute for the Littlefield publicity bill. The committee authorized the bill to be favorably reported to the house.

Panama Canal Treaty.

Yesterday's meeting of the cabinet was one of the most important held in several weeks. All the members of the cabinet were present. Secretary Moody presented a draft of the Panama canal treaty, signed Thursday evening, and both the president and his associates in the cabinet expressed satisfaction with the results achieved through the long and difficult negotiations.

The treaty is identical with that drawn by this government several months ago and at that time submitted to the Colombian government, with the single exception of the amount of annuity to be paid Colombia for the right of way of the canal.

Accepted Annuity of $250,000.

The Colombian government, through Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires here, agreed to accept an annuity of $250,000. This was entirely satisfactory to the president and Secretary Hay, and while it is a larger amount than was offered at first it is believed by administration officials that the senate undoubtedly will accept the figure named in the treaty, particularly after it is made clear that a lesser amount would deprive Colombia of income which she is now actively receiving. The treaty was sent to the senate late yesterday afternoon.

Venezuelan Situation.

The Venezuelan situation was discussed at length, but it can be said by authority that no change in the attitude of the United States is in contemplation at this time. This government will continue its policy of sitting tight. The bombardment by the German warships of Fort San Carlos is regretted sincerely by officials of the administration, because of their apprehension that it may complicate seriously the pending negotiations between Minister Bowen as the representative of Venezuela and the representatives of the powers. However, while the administration regards the bombardment as unwarranted, the United States has no intention of taking official cognizance of it.

Anti-Trust Legislation Considered.

Some consideration was given to the proposed anti-trust legislation now pending in congress. Regret was expressed that the impression prevailed in some quarters that the bill reported to the house from the judiciary committee was an "administration measure." It is made clear that it is not an administration measure, and does not represent entirely the views of the administration on what anti-trust legislation should be enacted by congress. It can be said to be the hope of the president and his cabinet that anti-trust legislation along the lines indicated by Attorney General Knox in the bills which he submitted to the house judiciary committee may be enacted at this session.

BISHOP BURGESS ON DIVORCE.

Says Roman Catholic Church Has Stood Like Bulwark for Inviolability of Marriage Tie.

New York, Jan. 24.—Bishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island, made an address at the annual dinner of the Church club Thursday night, in which he commended the attitude of the Roman Catholic church on the divorce question. The bishop said in part:

"The Roman Catholic church has stood like a bulwark against divorce. It has stood for the inviolability of the marriage tie and the unity of the home. Because of that it is in the world today one of the greatest forces for progress and for Christianity.

"Our prayer book says one thing, and that thing is all right, but our canons tell quite a different story. The great work of the Protestant Episcopal church is to harmonize prayer books and canons. When our canons declare that communicants in our faith once married are married for life, then the Protestant Episcopal church will have done what it ought to do for the cause of civilization and the cause of Christ."

The bishop said that the young people of today grow up with the idea that there is nothing binding in the marriage tie and that it can be broken almost as soon as assumed.

Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws.

New York, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane, of Albany, has been made chairman and Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary. The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage. Work is to be undertaken at once by the secretary of the committee.

Coal Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The independent operators of the Wyoming and Lackawanna region, in which Scranton and Wilkesbarre are situated, occupied the time of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. The attorneys representing the 30 companies in these two regions called about a dozen witnesses who represented different concerns. In the examination of witnesses the lawyers tried to avoid as much as possible the repetition of testimony already presented by the larger companies. Therefore the examination yesterday was confined to the particular company with which it was called. Nothing of importance was elicited. There was unanimity of opinion, however, that the lack of discipline among the miners and the restriction of their earning capacity, testified by witnesses for the large coal companies, is more pronounced since the union came into the anthracite field than it was before the men organized. The independent operators in the Hazleton regions opened their case today. The firm of G. B. Markle & Co. is among these operators.

Body Identified.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 24.—A body found by the life saving crew yesterday at Harvey Cedars was later identified by Captain Hawkins, of the wrecked bark Abiel Abbott, as that of Henry Carten, of New York, one of the seamen drowned when the vessel was wrecked on Wednesday morning. Four men were drowned and one seaman died after being rescued. The bodies of three of the drowned have been recovered; that of Timothy Brandt is still missing. The Abiel Abbott has completely broken up.

Massachusetts Investigating.

Boston, Jan. 24.—An investigation of the coal situation by a special legislative committee was began here yesterday. The chairman announced in opening the session that the committee was sitting for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions as to the supply of coal, the methods of transportation and the price for which it was or is being sold.

Italians on Strike.

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—Work on the Harrisburg cut-off on the Northern Central railway between Enola and Goldsboro has been temporarily suspended by a strike of 400 Italian laborers employed by Contractor H. S. Karbaugh & Co., who demand $1.50 for a day's work of nine hours and coal for their shanties.

Chief Deitsch Dead.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Colonel Philip Deitsch, superintendent of police and widely known to members of his calling, died yesterday.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Dublin, Jan. 24.—Timothy Harrington, M. P., was yesterday re-elected lord mayor of Dublin for the third successive time.

London, Jan. 24.—Westminster chapel, one of the best known churches in London, has decided to invite Rev. Samuel George Smith, of St. Paul, Minn., to fill the pulpit.

London, Jan. 24.—Colonel Lynch was found guilty of high treason yesterday and was sentenced to death. Although formally sentenced to be hanged, Lynch's sentence will no doubt be commuted.

Genoa, Italy, Jan. 24.—The condition of Hubbard T. Smith, United States consul general at Cairo, who is in the Protestant hospital here, is growing worse. He is suffering with [illegible] of the kidneys.

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very close; consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been ailing from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruation with fearful headaches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone.

"I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. MINNIE TIETZ, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more.

"I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial."—MRS. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Free Medical Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women to write to her for advice. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will be seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigeston and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health.

"I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. BERTHA E. DEIRKINS, 25½ Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Ancient Decorative Art.

Though it is difficult to say where the decorative value of pottery and of china began to be appreciated, there is little doubt that it originated in the east. Ancient Chinese drawings still in existence show that the process of manufacture has varied but little in the course of the years and that many contrivances claimed as modern European inventions have been known for centuries in the east.

In Chinese official annals, which are said to be perfectly authentic, the invention of porcelain is dated at about 200 years before the Christian era, although Father Entrecolles, residing in China at the commencement of the seventeenth century, dates it long before this, and tells us in a most interesting manner of the great porcelain works of King Te Ching, one of the most ancient and celebrated of the Chinese factories. He says that in his time there were no fewer than 3,000 ovens at work, which gave to the town at night the appearance of one vast furnace with innumerable chimneys.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptons of kidney distress passed away."

Knew What She Wrote.

The need of a lead pencil caused a lady who rode in a street car the other day no small embarrassment.

She sat running over her shopping list when suddenly she thought of something to add to it. She looked in her pocketbook and ransacked all its divisions, cardcase and all, but no pencil did she find. Modestly she hesitated about asking her neighbors, but with a quick resolve she finally leaned toward a gentleman seated by her and, holding up her list, said loud enough for those in adjacents seats to hear, "Excuse me, sir, may I borrow your necktie a moment?"

The gentleman's astonishment was expressed in his silent facial contortions until the lady reddened deeply.

"My necktie, madam?" he replied, with arched eyebrows.

"Didn't I say 'pencil?'" she asked. And then everybody, grinning behind newspapers, knew what the lady added to her list.—Exchange.

Brutes Can Speak.

"Do brutes have a language?" asked the president of the Millville Literary circle at a recent meeting.

"Do they?" replied the secretary. "You ought to hear my husband when he loses his collar button."

FASHION FANCIES.

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

Squirrel will not last in the popular favor long, although the trying gray color is becoming to a few, and it certainly is much cheaper than chinchilla.

The rage for embroideries and incrustations of lace is greater than ever, and we shall do well, therefore, to use any we may have by us.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de soie, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Both Involved.

"Well, he had fleeced several fellows before I met him."

HAS BEEN NO MATERIAL CHANCE

President of State of Maracaibo Issues Decree Calling to Arms All Citizens from Sixteen to Sixty Years of Age Members of Militia.

Maracaibo, Jan. 24.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Fort San Carlos was in the possession of the government forces and the bombardment by the German warships was still going on. There has been no material change in the situation. The gunboat Panther was the only vessel to come inside the bar. Communication with the fort is very difficult. Great excitement prevails in Maracaibo.

President Aranguren, of the state of Maracaibo, has, by a decree published Thursday night, called to arms all citizens, from 16 to 60 years of age, belonging to the militia, in order to resist the possible landing of German forces at Lake Maracaibo. About 500 men immediately answered the call.

Rifle Shots Were Heard.

La Guaira, Jan. 24.—The former Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador, now in the possession of the Germans, arrived here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Puerto Cabello and anchored near the shore. Her presence caused great popular indignation. At 3 o'clock several rifle shots were heard in the distance. Shortly afterward the Restaurador left her anchorage and moved to a position outside the harbor and under the protection of the guns of the British cruiser Tribune.

Died of Hunger and Thirst.

Caracas, Jan. 24.—It developed that the Dutch cruiser De Puyter, which arrived at La Guaira on Wednesday from the island of Los Poques, which is mostly inhabited by charcoal burners trading with La Guaira, found that 12 men and 5 women had died of hunger and thirst, as a result of the blockade measures of the allied powers, which prohibited schooners from carrying provisions and water to the island.

As previously cabled the De Puyter left provisions and water sufficient to last eight days with the inhabitants of Los Poques, who are to be conveyed in a schooner to Curacao at the earliest possible date.

Scheder's Official Report.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—Commodore Scheder, commander of the German fleet in Venezuelan waters, officially reported the bombardment of Fort San Carlos from Maracaibo, under date of Jan. 21, as follows:

"On the 17th instant, while the Panther was passing the Maracaibo bay, she was unexpectedly attacked by Fort San Carlos, which opened a heavy fire on her. On this the Panther replied and a cannonade was exchanged for half an hour. Owing to the difficulties of navigation the Panther then desisted.

"In order to exact an immediate punishment for this attack, the more so as the Venezuelan government had proclaimed it a victory, I bombarded the fort, with the Vineta, on the 21st instant, and destroyed it."

Fired Shot as Warning.

London, Jan. 24.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"On Wednesday the German gunboat Panther, which was insecurely anchored off San Carlos, moved in close to the Castillo battery, which fired one shot as a warning. The Panther disregarded the hint. Another shot was fired from the Castillo battery. Thereupon the Panther opened fire and continued the cannonade for half an hour, when she retired. The Vineta immediately began a heavy bombardment of Fort San Carlos, seriously damaging the fort and the houses in the vicinity."

Believed Acting Under Orders.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Notwithstanding the irritation felt here in government circles as what is regarded as the purely needless and revengeful bombardment of the Venezuelan forts by the German warships, the conclusion at the present time is that this incident will not prevent Mr. Bowen from successfully carrying out his mission of peace. The utterances of Count von Buelow in the German reichstag Thursday are regarded here as conveying the intimation that the German warships are acting by direct orders from their home government, with the purpose of avenging themselves for the repulse of the Panther in its first attacks upon the forts. However this may be, the United States government cannot at this moment make proper excuse for entering into this quarrel between Germany and Venezuela. It is again and emphatically stated that when the United States exercised its good offices to the extent of bringing the allies and the Venezuelan government into negotiations it exhausted its proper functions in that direction and could not do more. Mr. Bowen is again declared to be not the representative of the United States, but of Venezuela, and the state department is very careful to preserve the appearance of independence on Mr. Bowen's part by declining to receive any reports from him or even encouraging his visits.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Much Complaint Regarding the Slow Movement of Freight—Fuel Situation Still Serious.

New York, Jan. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says in part:

Heavy transactions in merchandise are reported, but there is much complaint regarding the slow movement of freight. The situation as to general lines is aggravated by the precedence given fuel over all other freight except live stock and perishable goods. Notwithstanding the extensive increase in transportation facilities during the past year, some roads have been compelled to decline consignments, and in many cases where a large number of cars were desired only one was provided. Earnings thus far available for January surpass last year's by 5 per cent. It is conspicuous in practically every section of the country that, despite high prices, buying is liberal and of the better qualities of goods, while dealings as a rule are on more of a cash basis. Demand for building materials is unusually brisk for the season, and prices of lumber at the south have advanced. Although fortunate sections are receiving a better supply of fuel, the situation is still serious, and many pig iron furnaces have been added to the idle list. As producers have sold their capacity for some time there is little new business and no effort on the part of sellers to secure contracts Hence prices of pig iron are steady and new transactions light.

As to the demand for finished products requirements are still pressing in railway equipment, both structural and rolling stock, and it is stated that orders have been placed for as many tons of steel rails as were produced in the full year 1902. Steel for buildings, bridges and ships finds a ready market and implement makers are becoming more active. New orders for merchant steel are light, but old contracts are still numerous.

With the exception of a few of the finest grades, woolen goods for the fall of 1903 are now fully opened Firmness has characterized the course of the leading staples, an abundant demand being in evidence, while available supplies are restricted by traffic conditions.

Failures for the week numbered 265 in the United States, against 301 last year, and 27 in Canada, compared with 28 a year ago.

BURGLARS GET $6,000 IN CASH

They Then Engage in Revolver Duel With Citizens and Bank Officers and Finally Escape.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 24.—At Somerton, O., early yesterday morning, seven men blew up the safe in the Belmont bank, owned by E. J. Hoge & Co., secured $6,000 in cash, and escaped towards the Ohio river in a buggy and light spring wagon stolen from farmers living near the town. The explosion awoke neighbors and a posse started in pursuit.

The men entered Powhattan, O., in three parties. Two men, one carrying a satchel, were ferried across to the West Virginia shore. Three others crossed in a skiff which they stole and engaged in a revolver duel with 30 citizens and officers of the bank Two others were pursued by officers, running north of town to a railroad bridge, where they made a stand and fought the posse until the ammunition of the officers was exhausted and they were compelled to retreat. None have been arrested.

Will Ask for Increase.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—It is announced here that the engineers of the Erie railroad will ask for an increase in wages when the general board of engineers will be in New York, on Feb. 15. The present rate of wages is said to be 5½ cents per mile. The men state that they have not had an increase in their wages in 15 years. The engineers have been holding meetings for some time past, and the schedules to be asked for were made up at these conferences.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Entirely Colorless and Activity Lowest of the Year—Money on Call Steady—Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 24.—Yesterday's stock market was entirely colorless again and the level of activity fell below that of Thursday, which was the lowest since the opening of the year.

The large gains in cash by the banks both from the interior and on sub-treasury operations promised a rise in reserves of nearly $7,000,000. There may be large loans to figure in that item of the banks. The market closed steady, but near the lowest.

Money on call steady at 3¾@4 per cent, closing at 3¾. Time money in light demand; 60 days, 4½@4¾ per cent; 90 days, 4½@4¾ per cent; six months, 4½@4¾.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,840,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Conspiracy Hearing Begun.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The fight of the indicted coal men to clear themselves of guilt of "conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade," was begun before Judge Horton late yesterday, when the case against the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association was called for preliminary hearing. Motion to quash in behalf of each of the 18 corporations composing the association were quickly overruled and pleas of "not guilty" entered. A stipulation of facts was then presented to the court, which had been agreed to by all parties to the suit, and it was announced that a date for the hearing of arguments and the filing of briefs would be fixed early next week. At the request of State Attorney Deneen the case against the Braceville Coal company was dismissed.

Three Killed.

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—Three men were killed, three so badly injured that there is no chance for recovery, and two others were seriously hurt, in an explosion of dynamite in the shaft of the Wabash tunnel, on Mt. Washington. The dead men were blown to atoms. Two of the injured are so badly torn and broken that there is not the slightest chance for their recovery. The dead are Frank Taylor, white; Harry Florence, white, and Thomas Harvey, colored. Injured: James McGovern, white; —— Hill, white, and —— Struthers, colored. The cause of the explosion is a mystery, but an investigation has been started.

Despondent Boy Kills Himself.

Burton, O., Jan. 24.—Ray Burgess, aged 11, committed suicide at his home in Grove, near here, Thursday night. He had been despondent for a week or more and Thursday he came from school and went direct to his room. About supper time a revolver shot was heard, and his parents, rushing to his room, found him dead upon the floor.

Constipation

Ruined Dr. Dill's Health.

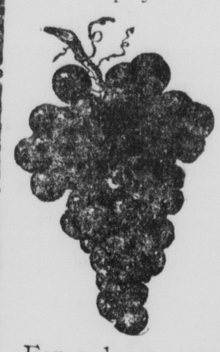

DR. DILL, St. Louis, Mo.

It will treat you the same way. You can not be constipated and remain strong and well. Indigestion and dyspepsia are its symptoms. If you belch you have constipation. Dr. Dill first got constipation, then he lost his appetite, he became weak and sick, his kidneys went back on him and he had to give up his practice.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

just as it will cure you. Constipation is the rotting of undigested food in the stomach. A physic won't cure. It makes it worse. Pills, Castor-oil, Salts and other such treatments are no good in a case like this. Dr. Dill tried them all. Mull's Grape Tonic will not physic a well man. Its action on a constipated person is quick and permanent.

A St. Louis Doctor Tells How He Was Cured.

Gentlemen:—I beg to thank you for calling my attention to Mull's Grape Tonic, some time ago.
My profession requires close application and confinement to the office, and after several years of this indoor, sedentary life, my health completely broke down; my stomach was bad, my liver out of sorts and I felt tired and worn-out all the time.
When you first showed me Mull's Grape Tonic I was skeptical, but took your word for it, and now after taking several bottles, feel as well as I ever did in my life. It is a splendid medicine for the stomach and bowels, and the best general tonic I ever saw. I thank you again for calling my attention to Mull's Grape Tonic. Yours very respectfully,
810 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo. DR. E. A. DILL.

This is not the only doctor who recommends this great cure. Mull's Grape Tonic is pleasant to take. It will cleanse the entire system of all disease. It will make strong muscles and solid flesh because it makes pure rich blood. If it fails, you can have your money back. The grape is the greatest flesh-builder known. Mull's Grape Tonic is in no way like cathartics and pills. Most people who are run down are sufferers from constipation. Cod-liver oil won't help them because it increases the constipation habit. Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure. For a large sample bottle send 10 cents to cover postage to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill. All druggists sell Mull's Grape Tonic. 50 cents a bottle.

ON TH' TRAIN.

When me an' my pa took a trip on th' cars
From here clean t' Kansas, one time,
We slep' in a sleeper both nights on th' way,
An' pa gived th' porter a dime!
We done lots of things that big travelers does,
An' pa wasn't rattled a grain,
But one thing I 'member th' best of all wuz
A feller we met on th' train.

That feller had traveled th' awfullest lot!
He'd been t' Tacomy an' back;
He'd been t' El Paso one time when his train
Runned into another, right smack;
He'd et in th' diner till things didn't taste
No good 'cause they served 'em too plain;
I wish I wuz half as well posted as him—
Th' feller we met on th' train!

He set an' told pa of th' times he had bluffed
Conductors an' brakemen an' all
An' made 'em take tickets 'at wasn't no good;
"Just done it," he said, "on my gall."
He'd fooled th' train robbers—'twasn't no trick;
These skeered people give in a pain,
My pa set an' looked an' just listened t' him,
This feller we met on th' train.

I said t' my pa when th' feller got off,
"I wisht we'd been t' places that way."
An' pa he just smiled kind of pitiful like
An' didn't have nothin' to say.
But when we got home I wuz tellin' th' folks
An' pa said: "Let up on that strain,
When you git as old as your pa, you'll forgit
Th' liars you meet on th' train."

Character in the Hat.

"Does the hat reveal character?" said an observant person whose specialty is character reading. "Of course it does.

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments.

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas, and their big hats will often be found in conjunction with loose, easy fitting clothes, for in this, as in other matters, the body reflects the mind.

"I distrust equally the man who wears his hat at the back of his head and he who habitually goes about with it tilted to one side. The first is of a candid, easy going type, but apt to be flighty; the latter, with a disposition for sport and frolic, is at the same time often frivolous and conceited. Neither of them, however, will be a coxcomb, like the man whose hat is too small for him, nor 'deep' and crafty, like the wearer of a hat which is always pulled down over the eyes."

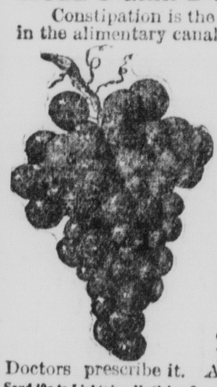

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Constipation Makes Bad Blood.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CURES CONSTIPATION

Constipation is the rotting and decaying of undigested food in the alimentary canal. Disease germs arise from this festering mass, which find their way into the blood. The blood becomes impure and shortly the entire system gives way to the unhealthy condition.

You cannot cure a case like this by taking pills or other common cathartics. A laxative will not do. A blood medicine is ineffective. Mull's Grape Tonic is a gentle and mild laxative in addition to being a blood-making and strength-giving tonic which immediately builds up the wasted body and makes rich, red blood that carries its health-giving strength to every tissue at every heart beat.

Mull's Grape Tonic is made of pure crushed fruit juices and is sold under a positive guarantee.

Doctors prescribe it. All druggists sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

Send 10c to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., to cover postage on large sample bottle.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

Mrs. Helena Blau.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

The explosion awoke neighbors and a posse started in pursuit.

The men entered Powhattan, O., in three parties. Two men, one carrying a satchel, were ferried across to the West Virginia shore. Three others crossed in a skiff which they stole and engaged in a revolver duel with 30 citizens and officers of the bank. Two others were pursued by officers, running north of town to a railroad bridge, where they made a stand and fought the posse until the ammunition of the officers was exhausted and they were compelled to retreat. None have been arrested.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The fight of the indicted coal men to clear themselves of guilt of "conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade," was begun before Judge Horton late yesterday, when the case against the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association was called for preliminary hearing. A stipulation of facts was then presented to the court, which had been agreed to by all parties to the suit, and it was announced that a date for the hearing of arguments and the filing of briefs would be fixed early next week. At the request of State Attorney Deneen the case against the Braceville Coal company was dismissed.

ON TH' TRAIN.

When me an' my pa took a trip on th' cars
From here clean t' Kansas, one time,
We step' in a sleeper both nights on th' way.
An' pa gived th' porter a dime!
We done lots of things that big travelers does,
An' pa wasn't rattled a grain,
But one thing I 'member th' best of all wuz
A feller we met on th' train.

That feller had traveled th' awfullest lot!
He'd been t' Tacomy an' back;
He'd been t' El Paso one time when his train
Runned into another, right smack!
He'd et in th' diner till things don't taste
No good 'cause they served 'em too plain.
I wish I wuz half as well posted as him—
Th' feller we met on th' train!

He set an' told pa of th' times he had bluffed
Conductors an' brakemen an' all
An' made 'em take tickets 'at wasn't no good;
"Jist done it," he said, "on my gall."
He'd fooled th' train robbers—'twasn't no trick;
These skeered people give 'im a pain.
My pa set an' looked an' jist listened t' him.
This feller we met on th' train.

I said t' my pa when th' feller got off,
"I wisht we'd been t' places that was."
An' pa he just smiled kind of pitiful like
An' didn't have nothin' t' say.
But when we got home I wuz tellin' th' folks,
An' pa said: "Let up on that strain.
When you git as old as your pa, you'll forgit
Th' liars you meet on th' train."

Character in the Hat.

"Does the hat reveal character?" said an observant person whose specialty is character reading. "Of course it does.

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments.

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas, and their big hats will often be found in conjunction with loose, easy fitting clothes, for in this, as in other matters, the body reflects the mind.

"I distrust equally the man who wears his hat at the back of his head and he who habitually goes about with it tilted to one side. The first is of a candid, easy going type, but apt to be flighty; the latter, with a disposition for sport and frolic, is at the same time often frivolous and conceited. Neither of them, however, will be a coxcomb, like the man whose hat is too small for him, nor 'deep' and crafty, like the wearer of a hat which is always pulled down over the eyes."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Constipation Makes Bad Blood.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CURES CONSTIPATION

Constipation is the rotting and decaying of undigested food in the alimentary canal. Disease germs arise from this festering mass, which find their way into the blood. The blood becomes impure and shortly the entire system gives way to the unhealthy condition.

You cannot cure a case like this by taking pills or other common cathartics. A laxative will not do. A blood medicine is ineffective. Mull's Grape Tonic is a gentle and mild laxative in addition to being a blood-making and strength-giving tonic which immediately builds up the wasted body and makes rich, red blood that carries its health-giving strength to every tissue at every heart beat.

Mull's Grape Tonic is made of pure crushed fruit juices and is sold under a positive guarantee.

Doctors prescribe it. All druggists sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

Send 10c to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock, Island, Ill., to cover postage on large sample bottle.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

Mrs. Helena Blau.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

SAN CARLOS DEFIANT.

Fort Still in Possession of Venezuelans and Bombardment Is Going On.

President of State of Maracaibo Issues Decree Calling to Arms All Citizens from Sixteen to Sixty Years of Age Members of Militia.

Maracaibo, Jan. 24.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Fort San Carlos was in the possession of the government forces and the bombardment by the German warships was still going on. There has been no material change in the situation. The gunboat Panther was the only vessel to come inside the bar. Communication with the fort is very difficult. Great excitement prevails in Maracaibo.

President Aranguren, of the state of Maracaibo, has, by a decree published Thursday night, called to arms all citizens, from 16 to 60 years of age, belonging to the militia, in order to resist the possible landing of German forces at Lake Maracaibo. About 500 men immediately answered the call.

Rifle Shots Were Heard.

La Guaira, Jan. 24.—The former Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador, now in the possession of the Germans, arrived here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Puerto Cabello and anchored near the shore. Her presence caused great popular indignation. At 3 o'clock several rifle shots were heard in the distance. Shortly afterward the Restaurador left her anchorage and moved to a position outside the harbor and under the protection of the guns of the British cruiser Tribune.

Died of Hunger and Thirst.

Caracas, Jan. 24.—It developed that the Dutch cruiser De Puyter, which arrived at La Guaira on Wednesday from the island of Los Poques, which is mostly inhabited by charcoal burners trading with La Guaira, found that 12 men and 5 women had died of hunger and thirst, as a result of the blockade measures of the allied powers, which prohibited schooners from carrying provisions and water to the island.

As previously cabled the De Puyter left provisions and water sufficient to last eight days with the inhabitants of Los Poques, who are to be conveyed in a schooner to Curacao at the earliest possible date.

Scheder's Official Report.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—Commodore Scheder, commander of the German fleet in Venezuelan waters, officially reported the bombardment of Fort San Carlos from Maracaibo, under date of Jan. 21, as follows:

"On the 17th instant, while the Panther was passing the Maracaibo bay, she was unexpectedly attacked by Fort San Carlos, which opened a heavy fire on her. On this the Panther replied and a cannonade was exchanged for half an hour. Owing to the difficulties of navigation the Panther then desisted.

"In order to exact an immediate punishment for this attack, the more so as the Venezuelan government had proclaimed it a victory, I bombarded the fort, with the Vineta, on the 21st instant, and destroyed it."

Fired Shot as Warning.

London, Jan. 24.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"On Wednesday the German gunboat Panther, which was insecurely anchored off San Carlos, moved in close to the Castillo battery, which fired one shot as a warning. The Panther disregarded the hint. Another shot was fired from the Castillo battery. Thereupon the Panther opened fire and continued the cannonade for half an hour, when she retired. The Vineta immediately began a heavy bombardment of Fort San Carlos, seriously damaging the fort and the houses in the vicinity."

Believed Acting Under Orders.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Notwithstanding the irritation felt here in government circles as what is regarded as the purely needless and revengeful bombardment of the Venezuelan forts by the German warships, the conclusion at the present time is that this incident will not prevent Mr. Bowen from successfully carrying out his mission of peace. The utterances of Count von Buelow in the German reichstag Thursday are regarded here as conveying the intimation that the German warships are acting by direct orders from their home government, with the purpose of avenging themselves for the repulse of the Panther in its first attacks upon the forts. However this may be, the United States government cannot at this moment make proper excuse for entering into this quarrel between Germany and Venezuela. It is again and emphatically stated that when the United States exercised its good offices to the extent of bringing the allies and the Venezuelan government into negotiations it exhausted its proper functions in that direction and could not do more. Mr. Bowen is again declared to be not the representative of the United States, but of Venezuela, and the state department is very careful to preserve the appearance of independence on Mr. Bowen's part by declining to receive any reports from him or even encouraging his visits.

WHAT MUST HAPPEN TO THE FILIPINOS

By JACOB GOULD SCHURMAN, President of Cornell University

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has said that the flag will stay in the Philippines as long as it will stay in Alaska. That means forever.

I HOPE OUR FLAG WILL STAY IN THOSE ISLANDS UNTIL ITS WORK THERE IS DONE.

But if it is to stay forever one of two things must happen—WE SHALL EITHER HOLD THE FILIPINOS IN SUBJECTION OR WE MUST ADMIT THE ISLAND OF LUZON AND THE VISCAYAN ISLANDS AS UNITED STATES TERRITORIES.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Much Complaint Regarding the Slow Movement of Freight—Fuel Situation Still Serious.

New York, Jan. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says in part:

Heavy transactions in merchandise are reported, but there is much complaint regarding the slow movement of freight. The situation as to general lines is aggravated by the precedence given fuel over all other freight except live stock and perishable goods. Notwithstanding the extensive increase in transportation facilities during the past year, some roads have been compelled to decline consignments, and in many cases where a large number of cars were desired only one was provided. Earnings thus far available for January surpass last year's by 5 per cent. It is conspicuous in practically every section of the country that, despite high prices, buying is liberal and of the better qualities of goods, while dealings as a rule are on more of a cash basis. Demand for building materials is unusually brisk for the season, and prices of lumber at the south have advanced. Although fortunate sections are receiving a better supply of fuel, the situation is still serious, and many pig iron furnaces have been added to the idle list. As producers have sold their capacity for some time there is little new business and no effort on the part of sellers to secure contracts. Hence prices of pig iron are steady and new transactions light.

As to the demand for finished products requirements are still pressing in railway equipment, both structural and rolling stock, and it is stated that orders have been placed for as many tons of steel rails as were produced in the full year 1902. Steel for buildings, bridges and ships finds a ready market and implement makers are becoming more active. New orders for merchant steel are light, but old contracts are still numerous.

With the exception of a few of the finest grades, woolen goods for the fall of 1903 are now fully opened. Firmness has characterized the course of the leading staples, an abundant demand being in evidence, while available supplies are restricted by traffic conditions.

Failures for the week numbered 265 in the United States, against 301 last year, and 27 in Canada, compared with 28 a year ago.

BURGLARS GET $6,000 IN CASH

They Then Engage in Revolver Duel With Citizens and Bank Officers and Finally Escape.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 24.—At Somerton, O., early yesterday morning, seven men blew up the safe in the Belmont bank, owned by E. J. The explosion awoke neighbors and a posse started in pursuit.

The men entered Powhattan, O., in three parties. Two men, one carrying a satchel, were ferried across to the West Virginia shore. Three others crossed in a skiff which they stole and engaged in a revolver duel with 30 citizens and officers of the bank. ON TH' TRAIN.

When me an' my pa took a trip on th' cars
From here clean t' Kansas, one time,
We step in a sleeper both nights on th' way,
An' pa gived th' porter a dime!
We done lots of things that big travelers does,
An' pa wasn't rattled a grain,
But one thing I 'member th' best of all wuz
A feller we met on th' train.

That feller had traveled th' awfullest lot!
He'd been t' Tacoma an' back;
He'd been t' El Paso one time when his train
Runned into another, right smack;
He'd et in th' diner till things didn't taste
No good 'cause they served 'em too plain,
I wish I wuz half as well posted as him—
Th' feller we met on th' train!

He set an' told pa of th' times he had bluffed
Conductors an' brakemen an' all
An' made 'em take tickets 'at wasn't no good;
"Just done it," he said, "on my gall."
He'd fooled th' train robbers—twasn't no trick;
These skeered people give 'im a pain.
My pa set an' looked an' jist listened t' him.
This feller we met on th' train.

I said t' my pa when th' feller got off,
"I wisht we'd been t' places that way."
An' pa he just smiled kind of pitiful like
An' didn't have nothin' t' say.
But when we got home I wuz tellin' th' folks
An' pa said: "Let up on that strain.
When you git as old as your pa, you'll fergit
Th' liars you meet on th' train."

Character in the Hat.

"Does the hat reveal character?" said an observant person whose specialty is character reading. "Of course it does.

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments.

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas, and their big hats will often be found in conjunction with loose, easy fitting clothes, for in this, as in other matters, the body reflects the mind.

"I distrust equally the man who wears his hat at the back of his head and he who habitually goes about with it tilted to one side. The first is of a candid, easy going type, but apt to be flighty; the latter, with a disposition for sport and frolic, is at the same time often frivolous and conceited. Neither of them, however, will be a coxcomb, like the man whose hat is too small for him, nor 'deep' and crafty, like the wearer of a hat which is always pulled down over the eyes."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Constipation Makes Bad Blood.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CURES CONSTIPATION

Constipation is the rotting and decaying of undigested food in the alimentary canal. Disease germs arise from this festering mass, which find their way into the blood. The blood becomes impure and shortly the entire system gives way to the unhealthy condition.

You cannot cure a case like this by taking pills or other common cathartics. A laxative will not do. A blood medicine is ineffective. Mull's Grape Tonic is a gentle and mild laxative in addition to being a blood-making and strength-giving tonic which immediately builds up the wasted body and makes rich, red blood that carries its health-giving strength to every tissue at every heart beat.

Mull's Grape Tonic is made of pure crushed fruit juices and is sold under a positive guarantee.

Doctors prescribe it. All druggists sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

Send 10c to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock, Island, Ill., to cover postage on large sample bottle.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

Mrs. Helena Blau.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

Report Exaggerated—The statement in another newspaper today that Harry Dixon, of Walnut street, one of the best known residents of the city, was dangerously ill, is vigorously denied by that gentleman, who is much annoyed at the report. He has been ill, but this morning was able to be up and hopes to be in his usual health in a few days.

Biddle Show Forbidden.

The Biddle Bros.' show, "A Desperate Chance," which showed to record-breaking houses in surrounding towns, got called hard at McDonald, Pa., where the show was to appear Thursday evening. Burgess Campbell notified the company as soon as it got in the city that it would not be allowed to show there. The manager protested, but the burgess had the police around the opera house, so he called the performance off. The two Soffel children are at McDonald, which is given as the reason for stopping the show. The citizens there backed up the official in his action.

A BRILLIANT SINGER

Douglas Powell Has Made a Remarkable Success in Various Roles.

The possibilities of a vocalist endowed with the gift of versatility is exemplified in the career of Mr. Douglas Powell, who, by his masterly interpretation of very varied roles, has won for himself such a great success in England and Australia. Possessing a very powerful, resonant and extended baritone voice, ranging from the low E to the high G, being a good musician and a linguist of no mean capability, Mr. Powell is enabled to have a very extensize repertoire of the most beautiful in vocal music, and to render it in English, French, German or Italian.

His renditions not only display an intimate acquaintance with the form and style of the different composers, and the periods of their music, but also have that atmosphere of nationality which is so essential to all good interpretations will appear at the Grand next Monday evening with the Pittsburg Orchestra under the auspices of the B. Perique Strong as Poison.

In many of the tobacconists' shops perique tobacco chopped into granulated form is displayed for use by pipe smokers. This is the same perique that has been grown by Frenchmen and Spaniards in Louisiana since before our Revolutionary war. It is a jet black, intensely strong tobacco, famous for its flavor and its ability to wreck the nerves.

It is grown and made in St. James parish, Louisiana, and the crop only amounts to about 100,000 pounds a year.

The makers follow the primitive processes which were in use 150 years ago. The stems are taken from the leaves and the latter put into a box under a heavy gradual pressure. This causes the juice to run out, even through the wood of the boxes. A gradual process of fermentation and curing takes place.

At the end of three months the tobacco is rolled into "carrots" and wrapped in cloths tightly bound with ropes. It is left in that way for a year before it is ready for market.

The flavor of perique is considered delicious by all pipe smokers, but is too strong. The tendency of smokers is continually toward lighter and lighter tobacco, and perique is now used almost solely for mixing with very mild tobaccos to flavor it.

The Rally For Liberty.

"Gentlemen," said the speaker, rising to his full height and almost carrying his hearers off their feet with his matchless eloquence, "the time has come for us to assert our independence. We are freeborn citizens. God has given us as a birthright the privilege of governing ourselves as we see fit. We bow our knee to no kings and no princes. We have only ourselves to blame if we permit others to deny the liberty that our fathers have bequeathed to us—the liberty made sacred by their hallowed blood. I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to arise in your might. Let us exhibit our manhood. Let us teach the world the great lesson of independence. Let us"—

"Say, gents," yelled the janitor as he suddenly stepped out upon the platform, "I'm goin' to shut this hall up now. Clear out o' here. I've been up three nights with the toothache, and I'm goin' to bed early. Git, before I turn out the lights on you!"

One minute and seven seconds later the doors were locked, and the great rally for liberty was one of the things that had been.—Chicago Record-Herald.

COSTLY FURS.

Complete Suits Are Made From Lightweight Skins.

Furs were never more beautiful than they are this year, and women are not content with fur wraps only, but must have suits of fur.

Moleskin has more or less taken the place of sealskin, and it lends itself admirably to almost any shape. As a matter of fact moleskin is not heavy, and is therefore one of the best skins to use for blouse and skirts. The prettiest way of treating these skirts is to let in on the hips some stitched cloth of the same shade, fitting the skirt tightly to the knees, where some strappings of cloth may be arranged at the top of a shaped flounce. There must be a certain amount of fullness in these plain skirts, and the flounce should just clear the ground. The bolero or short blouse to correspond can be finished with a cloth or stitched silk band, thereby avoiding necessary bulk at the waist.

EVENING COAT.

Fur as well as cloth coats are usually lined with cream satin with inner frills of lace when an extra elaborate effect is desired at the neck and sleeves.

Enamel or paste buttons are also added, and these sometimes figure as ornaments on the large fur toques which go with these suits. A large moleskin toque relieved with white chiffon and white ostrich feathers is very smart.

A Bit of Diplomacy.

An American from Texas got into trouble with a gendarme in the City of Mexico during the Spanish-American war, when foreign and local sentiment was against the United States. The offense consisted largely in the fact that the stranger was an American, but he landed in jail nevertheless. Not wishing to see the Texan spend the night in jail, his friends sallied forth to obtain his release. First they visited the home of the American ambassador and found he was out of the city. Then they went to the home of the English minister and found him in bed. By dint of insistence they succeeded in getting into the house and were met on the staircase by the minister himself, arrayed in official pajamas. Carefully disguising the fact that their imprisoned friend was an American, they appealed for assistance. "Ah," said the minister cautiously, "your man is in jail, is he? But tell me, is he a British subject?" "Your excellency," said General Agremonte, who acted as spokesman, "the prisoner speaks English perfectly." "Ah," said the minister, "then the presumption is in his favor!" Half an hour later, thanks to the personal intervention of the British minister, the Texan was released from the Mexican jail.

The Tune Was Familiar.

An interesting anecdote is told of the old tune to which a well known song is now sung. The story runs that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt in 1799 the camp for awhile was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing, and the natives of the desert had collected and were listening to the music. Nothing unusual happened until the band struck up a tune which we now hear under the name of "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." Instantly there were the wildest demonstrations of joy among the Bedouins. They embraced each other and shouted and danced in the delirium of their pleasure. The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest tune of their people. The tune had been taken to Europe from Africa in the eleventh century and had lived separately in both countries for over 700 years.

The makers follow the primitive processes which were in use 150 years ago. The stems are taken from the leaves and the latter put into a box under a heavy gradual pressure. This causes the juice to run out, even through the wood of the boxes. A gradual process of fermentation and curing takes place.

At the end of three months the tobacco is rolled into "carrots" and wrapped in cloths tightly bound with ropes. It is left in that way for a year before it is ready for market.

The flavor of perique is considered delicious by all pipe smokers, but is too strong. The tendency of smokers is continually toward lighter and lighter tobacco, and perique is now used almost solely for mixing with very mild tobaccos to flavor it.

The Rally For Liberty.

"Gentlemen," said the speaker, rising to his full height and almost carrying his hearers off their feet with his matchless eloquence, "the time has come for us to assert our independence. We are freeborn citizens. God has given us as a birthright the privilege of governing ourselves as we see fit. We bow our knee to no kings and no princes. We have only ourselves to blame if we permit others to deny the liberty that our fathers have bequeathed to us—the liberty made sacred by their hallowed blood. I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to arise in your might. Let us exhibit our manhood. Let us teach the world the great lesson of independence. Let us"—

"Say, gents," yelled the janitor as he suddenly stepped out upon the platform, "I'm goin' to shut this hall up now. Clear out o' here. I've been up three nights with the toothache, and I'm goin' to bed early. Git, before I turn out the lights on you!"

One minute and seven seconds later the doors were locked, and the great rally for liberty was one of the things that had been.—Chicago Record-Herald.

and is therefore one of the best skins to use for blouse and skirts. The prettiest way of treating these skirts is to let in on the hips some stitched cloth of the same shade, fitting the skirt tightly to the knees, where some strappings of cloth may be arranged at the top of a shaped flounce. There must be a certain amount of fullness in these plain skirts, and the flounce should just clear the ground. The bolero or short blouse to correspond can be finished with a cloth or stitched silk band, thereby avoiding necessary bulk at the waist.

Fur as well as cloth coats are usually lined with cream satin with inner frills of lace when an extra elaborate effect is desired at the neck and sleeves.

Enamel or paste buttons are also added, and these sometimes figure as ornaments on the large fur toques which go with these suits. A large moleskin toque relieved with white chiffon and white ostrich feathers is very smart.

A Bit of Diplomacy.

An American from Texas got into trouble with a gendarme in the City of Mexico during the Spanish-American war, when foreign and local sentiment was against the United States. The offense consisted largely in the fact that the stranger was an American, but he landed in jail nevertheless. Not wishing to see the Texan spend the night in jail, his friends sallied forth to obtain his release. First they visited the home of the American ambassador and found he was out of the city. Then they went to the home of the English minister and found him in bed. By dint of insistence they succeeded in getting into the house and were met on the staircase by the minister himself, arrayed in official pajamas. Carefully disguising the fact that their imprisoned friend was an American, they appealed for assistance. "Ah," said the minister cautiously, "your man is in jail, is he? But tell me, is he a British subject?" "Your excellency," said General Agremonte, who acted as spokesman, "the prisoner speaks English perfectly." "Ah," said the minister, "then the presumption is in his favor!" Half an hour later, thanks to the personal intervention of the British minister, the Texan was released from the Mexican jail.

The Tune Was Familiar.

An interesting anecdote is told of the old tune to which a well known song is now sung. The story runs that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt in 1799 the camp for awhile was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing, and the natives of the desert had collected and were listening to the music. Nothing unusual happened until the band struck up a tune which we now hear under the name of "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." Instantly there were the wildest demonstrations of joy among the Bedouins. They embraced each other and shouted and danced in the delirium of their pleasure. The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest tune of their people. The tune had been taken to Europe from Africa in the eleventh century and had lived separately in both countries for over 700 years.

A BRILLIANT SINGER

Douglas Powell Has Made a Remarkable Success in Various Roles.

The possibilities of a vocalist endowed with the gift of versatility is exemplified in the career of Mr. Douglas Powell, who, by his masterly interpretation of very varied roles, has won for himself such a great success in England and Australia. Possessing a very powerful, resonant and extended baritone voice, ranging from the low E to the high G, being a good musician and a linguist of no mean capability, Mr. Powell is enabled to have a very extensize repertoire of the most beautiful in vocal music, and to render it in English, French, German or Italian.

His renditions not only display an intimate acquaintance with the form and style of the different composers, and the periods of their music, but also have that atmosphere of nationality which is so essential to all good interpretations will appear at the Grand next Monday evening with the Pittsburg Orchestra under the auspices of the B. Perique Strong as Poison.

In many of the tobacconists' shops perique tobacco chopped into granulated form is displayed for use by pipe smokers. This is the same perique that has been grown by Frenchmen and Spaniards in Louisiana since before our Revolutionary war. It is a jet black, intensely strong tobacco, famous for its flavor and its ability to wreck the nerves.

It is grown and made in St. James parish, Louisiana, and the crop only amounts to about 100,000 pounds a year.

The makers follow the primitive processes which were in use 150 years ago. The stems are taken from the leaves and the latter put into a box under a heavy gradual pressure. This causes the juice to run out, even through the wood of the boxes. A gradual process of fermentation and curing takes place.

There are three vials in the treatment, Vial "D" controlling the hectic fever and heat; Vial "E" for debility, night sweats, loss of flesh, etc.; Vial "F" for preventing the metamorphosis of waste tissues into tubercles. The latter stops the progress of the disease at once, the only remaining difficulty being to get rid of those already formed. This is done by absorption. Patients in advanced stages of the disease are invited to write for advice and information regarding the proper use and action of this remedy for which no charge is made. Complete treatment costs $3.00.

THREAT OF THE GOVERNOR

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 24.—The glass and pottery interests of New Jersey are anxiously awaiting the outcome of Governor Murphy's threat to bring suit in the name of the commonwealth against every factory proprietor in the state who is found employing child labor. No movement inaugurated by organized labor in New Jersey has ever received so much attention as the attempt on the part of the New Jersey Federation of Labor to force Governor Murphy to compel State Factory Inspector Ward to rid the factories of children whose ages do not conform with the legal limitations.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the state legislature in such a forceful manner, that the first bill introduced at the opening session was one providing that the age limit be raised to fifteen years and empowers the governor at any time to discharge the factory inspector for neglect of his duties or failure to perform them. This bill is in line with the recommendation made by Governor Murphy in his annual message to the legislature last week.

The feeling among the labor unions against Ward grew out of his failure to recognize the flagrant violations with which the child labor law was being met in the glass works at Minitola and in the potteries of the city.

Local interest in the bill has been greatly aroused because of the suit brought against Charles Howell Cook, president of the Cook Pottery company and the former head of the United States Potters' association. Mr. Cook is indignant at the action of Governor Murphy in instructing Ward to renew the suits after they were thrown out of court because of a defect in the summons. He denounces the governor's action in no mild terms and has announced that he will decline a reappointment from the chief executive to the board of directors of the Trenton School of Industrial Art, which claims him as one of its principal supporters.

Mr. Cook said to the News Review correspondent yesterday: "I cannot help but feel that the suits recently begun against me by State Factory Inspector Ward at the instance of Governor Murphy had no purpose but to make me the scapegoat by which to draw the protests coming from the labor organizations against the wholesale violations with which the child labor law is being met.

"I do not deny that Assistant Factory Inspector Milburn found children under the age prescribed by law employed in my factory. But I do deny that I had any knowledge that they were not eligible to go to work. They were hired by jiggermen over whose actions I have no control. I can safely say that there is not a pottery in the state which is observing the child labor law to the letter. The law is defective. It provides that children must attend night school five nights in the week while this city only provides them with school during four. I know of potteries in this city which this factory inspector has not visited in five years while he frequently comes to my plant where I endeavor to keep a certificate on file of the ages of every child employed there.

"If Governor Murphy was so anxious to have the law against the employment of child labor enforced, why didn't he begin suit against the big glass factories in South Jersey where cruelties exist to such an extent as to be brought to the attention of the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor"

The presence of children who are under fourteen years of age, working in the local potteries is largely due to the failure to adopt the uniform price list and thereby insure the men against having to employ cheap labor. As it is, jiggermen and pressers are working far below the price lists in force in the west and young boys are employed at a paltry sum in order to make up this loss in wages.

Pottery owners who are receiving the benefits from this class of labor are inclined to overlook any violations of the child labor law and to shield themselves by putting the blame upon their employes.

This opinion yesterday was voiced by Vice President Frank H. Hutchins. "In almost every instance the manufacturers are to blame," said Mr. Hutchins, "for having children at work in their potteries. In the general ware shops where we find jiggermen, pressers and dishmakers working at a reduction we see them hiring the cheap labor to make up the loss in wages.

"I am glad to say that none of our members are guilty of these violations and we have always strived hard to improve shop conditions. It is a sin and a shame to put a boy of tender years to work in a pottery. A boy is not any too careful with dust and glaze and the result is that at an early age in life we find them victims of lung trouble.

"I feel that if we had a factory inspector who knew his duty such a condition as this would not prevail. I know of potteries in Trenton which the factory inspector seldom visits and when he does come word is sent out from the office and the boys of doubtful ages are sent out into the yard until he goes away. It is hardly necessary to make new laws prohibiting child labor. The present law is ample enough if it were only enforced."

MORE SMALLPOX AT BETHANY COLLEGE

Another Case Causes Two Girls to Make Desperate Attempt to Escape.

The excitement at Bethany is intensified by the developments of another case of smallpox. This is S. W. Watson, of Waynesburg, Pa. Mr. Watson was taken ill Wednesday and on the following day symptoms of smallpox developed. Watson is quarantined in Lockhart's boarding house. There are about a half dozen other students quarantined in the boarding house with Watson.

Miss Smith, who lives on a farm back of Wheeling, is sick, but the doctors say that there are no alarming symptoms, and it is merely an attack of grip.

The young men are still helping the girls in their efforts to escape, but the guard is so strict that any attempt at escape is futile. The professors are still quarantined in Phillips' hall, and are endeavoring to keep up school. Every effort is being made on the part of the physicians and citizens to quell the excitement and prevent further spread of the disease.

The strict quarantine established by the county board of health makes it absolutely impossible for any more of the students to make their escape from the institution during the day. Owing to the wholesale escape of students the first two days, there are not over 70 left. They are quarantined in the main school building. Miss Saylor has not as yet reached the critical stage, but is doing very nicely.

An attempt on the part of two young ladies to escape Thursday morning about half-past eight o'clock, was a diversion, and afforded some excitement. They were Miss Alice Briggs, of Wellsburg, and Miss Kidd, of McKee's Rocks, Pa. Between recitation periods they got out the back of the building leaving everything behind but the clothing and hats they had on. When about 100 yards from the recitation hall, they were seen by one of the guards, who a moment had relaxed his vigilance. An exciting chase followed. The young ladies were finally overtaken and led back to school.

Especial care is now taken by the guards to see that none of the quarantined students escape under cover of the darkness, but they expect attempts will be made. The majority of the remaining students are young ladies.

NATIONAL AID IN ROAD BUILDING

The Pressure Upon Congress Grows Stronger Each Year.

It is nothing new to have efforts made in congress to interest the federal government in the improvement and construction of roads in various parts of the country. That is naturally an old story, in a land as deficient as the United States is in well-made highways. But it is worthy of note that the pressure in the direction of national aid in road building is becoming stronger, from year to year.

This change will grow more important with the filling up of the country, especially with the increase in the number of city people who maintain rural or suburban homes. The necessity of calling upon greater resources than those of the strictly agricultural population for the development of an adequate system of good highways is certain to be more clearly perceived as the statistical side of road building receives more careful attention.

To make good roads such as can fairly be counted on to resist the action of frost, intense heat and all the changes of the American climate, costs a great deal of money. It requires greater expenditures than rural taxpayers can properly be asked to make, in nearly all sections and districts. The cities send an increasing army of pleasure seekers into the country every year and such roads as their automobiles horse vehicles and bicycles need cannot be constructed without some use of the wealth accumulated in great centers of trade and industry.

It is difficult, of course, says the Cleveland Leader, to arrange a satisfactory division of authority and financial responsibility, between the nation, the states and local governmental bodies, in the building and maintenance of roads, but it is easier to solve that problem than it is to discover any way of making the United States what the leading countries of Europe are in the matter of public highways, without help from the national treasury. For that reason the question of federal participation in road building is likely soon to be brought out of the field of speculation into the realm of practical government though not, it is to be hoped, into the arena of party politics.

A FEED FAMINE IN STEUBENVILLE

Scarcity of Oats, Hay And Corn Seriously Embarrasses Owners of Horses.

Steubenville, January 24.—Steubenville has not felt the coal famine but now it is undergoing a feed famine, for which there is no indication of relief. For more than a week the hay and grain merchants have needed oats and corn, but mostly oats, as they generally stock up with corn in the fall. To get oats, however, is impossible, and as a result there are very few of the grain men who can fill even small orders for such feed. A couple of feed stores have been without oats for more than a week, and the only grain they can supply is corn. There have been several days when there was not a bushel of oats to be purchased in the city, and the scarcity has made it necessary for owners of horses to use corn almost entirely in feeding.

The livery stables have had a good supply of oats, but it is decreasing rapidly, and liverymen, who feel the shortage more than anyone else, hope that the new supplies can be brought to the city before many days. The lack of grain is not due to its scarcity, but to the fact that it can't be brought to the city either by rail or wagon. There is plenty of oats throughout the country, so much in fact, that they have fallen almost one-third in price since last summer, but now even if the price was greater than at that time they could not be obtained. In the loose hay market there is also a scarcity.

A MINISTER'S PRAISE FOR LABOR UNIONS

Dr. L. A. Banks, of New York, Tells What Organization Has Accomplished.

In the course of a sermon in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church New York city, Rev. Dr. Louis A. Banks said:

"The old days when the employer and the employe lived in the same street, in the same town, and met in friendly and social relations are gone. Now the employer may be made up of ten or a score or a hundred thousand men scattered all over the country who never see the men at work in their factories and are utterly removed from all sympathetic and personal touch. Furthermore, the employer has probably pooled his entire investment with other investments like it, and a giant trust controls. It is a mere question of dividends. And unless labor be organized it has no chance of fair treatment.

"In my judgment the labor unions are perfectly logical in their demands for the recognition of their unions and to sell their labor where they desire to do so through the officers of their union. The employers unite in trusts and appoint one or more men to represent them, and to say the laboring men shall not have the same privilege is an intolerable assumption of superiority on the part of the employers over the employes.

"There is nothing in the world that would allay the suspicion and unrest in the industrial world today so much as for employers everywhere to frankly recognize labor unions. In so doing they recognize the equality of the men who work for them with themselves, and you can never have perfect peace without that."

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fillbridge, West Cornwall, Conn.

MINERS' NEW SCALE.

Increase of 20 Per Cent in Wages Demanded on Run-of-Mine Basis.

RAISE WANTED FOR LABORERS.

Will Meet With Strongest Kind of Opposition When Presented to Operators for Approval—Mine Owners Not Altogether Harmonious.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—In executive session yesterday afternoon the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers returned its report.

The miners will demand: First, the establishment of a straight run-of-mine basis; second, an advance amounting to 20 per cent; third, an increase in wages paid all outside and inside common laborers; fourth, a flat differential of 7 cents on the ton between pick and machine-mined coal; fifth, a flat increase, if not on that basis, of 12½ cents on the ton.

The scale, of course, applies only to the five states included within the central competitive district, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois, but it forms the basis nevertheless for the wage scale agreements in other states. Although the wage committee's report will receive the sanction and approval of the convention, it will meet with the strongest kind of opposition when it is presented to the joint conference between the committee selected by the operators to act upon the demands and the miners' scale committee.

Will Not Find Perfect Harmony.

It is is already evident, however, that the operators will not find perfect harmony in their own ranks. Illinois will insist that if the miners do not force the adoption of the run-of-mine basis upon the operators of Pennsylvania and the other states, and stand solidly for its establishment the operators of that state also will demand its withdrawal from the field where is is already established. The operators of this state, where the basis is established, assert that they operate under a greater expense. If the miners will insist upon the general adoption of the run-of-mine, the Illinois operators will support the miners in their other demands.

The convention does not frame demands on the anthracite operators.

Yesterday morning the resolutions committee began reading the usual accumulation of resolutions reported from local unions.

A resolution against Immigration Commissioner Frank Sargent's plan to remove the immigration office from Pittsburg was concurred in. There was a denunciation of laws that tend to disfranchise any citizen, regardless of nationality or color.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring one meeting a month in the locals to be devoted to the discussion of economic questions.

Asks Mayor for Proof.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—A committee representing union labor of this city recently submitted a report on the feasibility of 3-cent fares for street car service. The report showed that it would not be profitable for the street car companies to carry passengers for such a sum. A day or two after the publication of the report Mayor Johnson was quoted as having said that the report was probably written by the attorneys for the street railroad companies. At a meeting of the trades unions last night a resolution was adopted asking the mayor to prove his assertion.

Will Soon Be Ready.

New York, Jan. 24.—Marconi arrived here yesterday. He said that his system would be ready for commercial use by the public in an exceedingly short time, within two or three months at the latest. This statement was made at the office of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America, at the close of a meeting of the board of directors of the company, called in order that Marconi might personally acquaint the members of the board with the results of his recent experiments and work at Wellfleet. Marconi expects to sail for Europe on Wednesday.

CHILD LABOR A LIVE ISSUE

The Question Arousing Warm Interest in Trenton Pottery Circles.

THREAT OF THE GOVERNOR

To Bring Suit Against Every Factory in the State Defying the Law—Vice President Hutchins Thinks Manufacturers Are to Blame.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 24.—The glass and pottery interests of New Jersey are anxiously awaiting the outcome of Governor Murphy's threat to bring suit in the name of the commonwealth against every factory proprietor in the state who is found employing child labor. No movement inaugurated by organized labor in New Jersey has ever received so much attention as the attempt on the part of the New Jersey Federation of Labor to force Governor Murphy to compel State Factory Inspector Ward to rid the factories of children whose ages do not conform with the legal limitations.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the state legislature in such a forceful manner, that the first bill introduced at the opening session was one providing that the age limit be raised to fifteen years and empowers the governor at any time to discharge the factory inspector for neglect of his duties or failure to perform them. This bill is in line with the recommendation made by Governor Murphy in his annual message to the legislature last week.

The feeling among the labor unions against Ward grew out of his failure to recognize the flagrant violations with which the child labor law was being met in the glass works at Minitola and in the potteries of the city.

Local interest in the bill has been greatly aroused because of the suit brought against Charles Howell Cook president of the Cook Pottery company and the former head of the United States Potters' association. Mr. Cook is indignant at the action of Governor Murphy in instructing Ward to renew the suits after they were thrown out of court because of a defect in the summons. He denounces the governor's action in no mild terms and has announced that he will decline a reappointment from the chief executive to the board of directors of the Trenton School of Industrial Art, which claims him as one of its principal supporters.

Mr. Cook said to the News Review correspondent yesterday: "I cannot help but feel that the suits recently begun against me by State Factory Inspector Ward at the instance of Governor Murphy had no purpose but to make me the scapegoat by which to draw the protests coming from the labor organizations against the wholesale violations with which the child labor law is being met.

This extremely prevalent and fatal malady kills a large proportion of the human family and is "down in the books" as incurable. Under ordinary methods it is incurable, but absolutely cures the disease. There are three vials in the treatment, Vial "D" controlling the hectic fever and heat; Vial "E" for debility, night sweats, loss of flesh, etc.; Vial "F" for preventing the metamorphosis of waste tissues into tubercles. The latter stops the progress of the disease at once, the only remaining difficulty being to get rid of those already formed. This is done by absorption. Patients in advanced stages of the disease are invited to write for advice and information regarding the proper use and action of this remedy for which no charge is made. Complete treatment costs $3.00.

We have Seventy Remedies for Seventy Diseases, each being a perfect cure for the condition it is prepared for. Most of these Preparations costs but 25c each.

Our two booklets: "Short Road to Health" and "Treatise on Private Diseases," free by mail or of druggists.

remedies all this. No washboard, no rubbing, no boiling and unwholesome steam,—no hard or wearing work of any kind—just soap the clothes, roll, cover with luke warm water for half an hour; then rinse, wring, and hang out. That's all. The result is clean, white clothes—and a bright, untired, pleased woman. No alkali, and no injury to hands or fabric.

CHILD LABOR A LIVE ISSUE

The Question Arousing Warm Interest in Trenton Pottery Circles.

THREAT OF THE GOVERNOR

To Bring Suit Against Every Factory in the State Defying the Law—Vice President Hutchins Thinks Manufacturers Are to Blame.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 24.—The glass and pottery interests of New Jersey are anxiously awaiting the outcome of Governor Murphy's threat to bring suit in the name of the commonwealth against every factory proprietor in the state who is found employing child labor. No movement inaugurated by organized labor in New Jersey has ever received so much attention as the attempt on the part of the New Jersey Federation of Labor to force Governor Murphy to compel State Factory Inspector Ward to rid the factories of children whose ages do not conform with the legal limitations.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the state legislature in such a forceful manner, that the first bill introduced at the opening session was one providing that the age limit be raised to fifteen years and empowers the governor at any time to discharge the factory inspector for neglect of his duties or failure to perform them. This bill is in line with the recommendation made by Governor Murphy in his annual message to the legislature last week.

The feeling among the labor unions against Ward grew out of his failure to recognize the flagrant violations with which the child labor law was being met in the glass works at Millville and in the potteries of the city.

Local interest in the bill has been greatly aroused because of the suit brought against Charles Howell Cook president of the Cook Pottery company and the former head of the United States Potters' association. Mr. Cook is indignant at the action of Governor Murphy in instructing Ward to renew the suits after they were thrown out of court because of a defect in the summons. He denounces the governor's action in no mild terms and has announced that he will decline a reappointment from the chief executive to the board of directors of the Trenton School of Industrial Art, which claims him as one of its principal supporters.

Mr. Cook said to the News Review correspondent yesterday: "I cannot help but feel that the suits recently begun against me by State Factory Inspector Ward at the instance of Governor Murphy had no purpose but to make me the scapegoat by which to draw the protests coming from the labor organizations against the wholesale violations with which the child labor law is being met.

"I do not deny that Assistant Factory Inspector Milburn found children under the age prescribed by law employed in my factory. But I do deny that I had any knowledge that they were not eligible to go to work. They were hired by jiggermen over whose actions I have no control. I can safely say that there is not a pottery in the state which is observing the child labor law to the letter. The law is defective. It provides that children must attend night school five nights in the week while this city only provides them with school during four. I know of potteries in this city which this factory inspector has not visited in five years while he frequently comes to my plant where I endeavor to keep a certificate on file of the ages of every child employed there.

"If Governor Murphy was so anxious to have the law against the employment of child labor enforced, why didn't he begin suit against the big glass factories in South Jersey where cruelties exist to such an extent as to be brought to the attention of the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor"

The presence of children who are under fourteen years of age, working in the local potteries is largely due to the failure to adopt the uniform price list and thereby insure the men against having to employ cheap labor. As it is, jiggermen and pressers are working far below the price lists in force in the west and young boys are employed at a paltry sum in order to make up this loss in wages.

Pottery owners who are receiving the benefits from this class of labor are inclined to overlook any violations of the child labor law and to shield themselves by putting the blame upon their employes.

This opinion yesterday was voiced by Vice President Frank H. Hutchins "In almost every instance the manufacturers are to blame," said Mr. Hutchins, "for having children at work in their potteries. In the general ware shops where we find jiggermen, pressers and dishmakers working at a reduction, we see them hiring the cheap labor to make up the loss in wages.

"I am glad to say that none of our members are guilty of these violations and we have always strived hard to improve shop conditions. It is a sin and a shame to put a boy of tender years to work in a pottery. A boy is not any too careful with dust and glaze and the result is that at an early age in life we find them victims of lung trouble.

"I feel that if we had a factory inspector who knew his duty such a condition as this would not prevail. I know of potteries in Trenton which the factory inspector seldom visits and when he does come word is sent out from the office and the boys of doubtful ages are sent out into the yard until he goes away. It is hardly necessary to make new laws prohibiting child labor. The present law is ample enough if it were only enforced."

MORE SMALLPOX AT BETHANY COLLEGE

Another Case Causes Two Girls to Make Desperate Attempt to Escape.

The excitement at Bethany is intensified by the developments of another case of smallpox. This is S. W. Watson, of Waynesburg, Pa. Mr. Watson was taken ill Wednesday and on the following day symptoms of smallpox developed. Watson is quarantined in Lockhart's boarding house. There are about a half dozen other students quarantined in the boarding house with Watson.

Miss Smith, who lives on a farm back of Wheeling, is sick, but the doctors say that there are no alarming symptoms, and it is merely an attack of grip.

The young men are still helping the girls in their efforts to escape, but the guard is so strict that any attempt at escape is futile. The professors are still quarantined in Phillips' hall, and are endeavoring to keep up school. Every effort is being made on the part of the physicians and citizens to quell the excitement and prevent further spread of the disease.

The strict quarantine established by the county board of health makes it absolutely impossible for any more of the students to make their escape from the institution during the day. Owing to the wholesale escape of students the first two days, there are not over 70 left. They are quarantined in the main school building. Miss Saylor has not as yet reached the critical stage, but is doing very nicely.

An attempt on the part of two young ladies to escape Thursday morning about half-past eight o'clock, was a diversion, and afforded some excitement. They were Miss Alice Briggs, of Wellsburg, and Miss Kidd, of McKee's Rocks, Pa. Between recitation periods they got out the back of the building leaving everything behind but the clothing and hats they had on. When about 100 yards from the recitation hall, they were seen by one of the guards, who a moment had relaxed his vigilance. An exciting chase followed. The young ladies were finally overtaken and led back to school.

Especial care is now taken by the guards to see that none of the quarantined students escape under cover of the darkness, but they expect attempts will be made. The majority of the remaining students are young ladies.

NATIONAL AID IN ROAD BUILDING

The Pressure Upon Congress Grows Stronger Each Year.

It is nothing new to have efforts made in congress to interest the federal government in the improvement and construction of roads in various parts of the country. That is naturally an old story, in a land as deficient as the United States is in well-made highways. But it is worthy of note that the pressure in the direction of national aid in road building is becoming stronger, from year to year.

This change will grow more important with the filling up of the country, especially with the increase in the number of city people who maintain rural or suburban homes. The necessity of calling upon greater resources than those of the strictly agricultural population for the development of an adequate system of good highways is certain to be more clearly perceived as the statistical side of road building receives more careful attention.

To make good roads such as can fairly be counted on to resist the action of frost, intense heat and all the changes of the American climate, costs a great deal of money. It requires greater expenditures than rural taxpayers can properly be asked to make, in nearly all sections and districts. The cities send an increasing army of pleasure seekers into the country every year and such roads as their automobiles, horse vehicles and bicycles need cannot be constructed without some use of the wealth accumulated in great centers of trade and industry.

It is difficult, of course, says the Cleveland Leader, to arrange a satisfactory division of authority and financial responsibility, between the nation, the states and local governmental bodies, in the building and maintenance of roads; but it is easier to solve that problem than it is to discover any way of making the United States what the leading countries of Europe are in the matter of public highways, without help from the national treasury. For that reason the question of federal participation in road building is likely soon to be brought out of the field of speculation into the realm of practical government, though not, it is to be hoped, into the arena of party politics.

A FEED FAMINE IN STEUBENVILLE

Scarcity of Oats, Hay And Corn Seriously Embarrasses Owners of Horses.

Steubenville, January 24.—Steubenville has not felt the coal famine but now it is undergoing a feed famine, for which there is no indication of relief. For more than a week the hay and grain merchants have needed oats and corn, but mostly oats, as they generally stock up with corn in the fall. To get oats, however, is impossible, and as a result there are very few of the grain men who can fill even small orders for such feed. A couple of feed stores have been without oats for more than a week, and the only grain they can supply is corn. There have been several days when there was not a bushel of oats to be purchased in the city, and the scarcity has made it necessary for owners of horses to use corn almost entirely in feeding.

The livery stables have had a good supply of oats, but it is decreasing rapidly, and liverymen, who feel the shortage more than anyone else, hope that the new supplies can be brought to the city before many days. The lack of grain is not due to its scarcity, but to the fact that it can't be brought to the city either by rail or wagon. There is plenty of oats throughout the country, so much in fact, that they have fallen almost one-third in price since last summer, but now even if the price was greater than at that time they could not be obtained. In the loose hay market there is also a scarcity.

A MINISTER'S PRAISE FOR LABOR UNIONS

Dr. L. A. Banks, of New York, Tells What Organization Has Accomplished.

In the course of a sermon in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church New York city, Rev. Dr. Louis A. Banks said:

"The old days when the employer and the employe lived in the same street, in the same town, and met in friendly and social relations are gone. Now the employer may be made up of ten or a score or a hundred thousand men scattered all over the country who never see the men at work in their factories and are utterly removed from all sympathetic and personal touch. Furthermore, the employer has probably pooled his entire investment with other investments like it, and a giant trust controls. It is a mere question of dividends. And unless labor be organized it has no chance of fair treatment.

"In my judgment the labor unions are perfectly logical in their demands for the recognition of their unions and to sell their labor where they desire to do so through the officers of their union. The employers unite in trusts and appoint one or more men to represent them, and to say the laboring men shall not have the same privilege is an intolerable assumption of superiority on the part of the employers over the employes.

"There is nothing in the world that would allay the suspicion and unrest in the industrial world today so much as for employers everywhere to frankly recognize labor unions. In so doing they recognize the equality of the men who work for them with themselves, and you can never have perfect peace without that."

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fillbridge, West Cornwall, Conn.

MINERS' NEW SCALE.

Increase of 20 Per Cent in Wages Demanded on Run-of-Mine Basis.

RAISE WANTED FOR LABORERS.

Will Meet With Strongest Kind of Opposition When Presented to Operators for Approval—Mine Owners Not Altogether Harmonious.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—In executive session yesterday afternoon the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers returned its report.

The miners will demand: First, the establishment of a straight run-of-mine basis; second, an advance amounting to 20 per cent; third, an increase in wages paid all outside and inside common laborers; fourth, a flat differential of 7 cents on the ton between pick and machine-mined coal; fifth, a flat increase, if not on that basis, of 12½ cents on the ton.

The scale, of course, applies only to the five states included within the central competitive district, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois, but it forms the basis nevertheless for the wage scale agreements in other states. Although the wage committee's report will receive the sanction and approval of the convention, it will meet with the strongest kind of opposition when it is presented to the joint conference between the committee selected by the operators to act upon the demands and the miners' scale committee.

Will Not Find Perfect Harmony.

It is is already evident, however, that the operators will not find perfect harmony in their own ranks. Illinois will insist that if the miners do not force the adoption of the run-of-mine basis upon the operators of Pennsylvania and the other states, and stand solidly for its establishment the operators of that state also will demand its withdrawal from the field where is is already established. The operators of this state, where the basis is established, assert that they operate under a greater expense. If the miners will insist upon the general adoption of the run-of-mine, the Illinois operators will support the miners in their other demands.

The convention does not frame demands on the anthracite operators.

Yesterday morning the resolutions committee began reading the usual accumulation of resolutions reported from local unions.

A resolution against Immigration Commissioner Frank Sargent's plan to remove the immigration office from Pittsburg was concurred in. There was a denunciation of laws that tend to disfranchise any citizen, regardless of nationality or color.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring one meeting a month in the locals to be devoted to the discussion of economic questions.

Asks Mayor for Proof.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—A committee representing union labor of this city recently submitted a report on the feasibility of 3-cent fares for street car service. The report showed that it would not be profitable for the street car companies to carry passengers for such a sum. A day or two after the publication of the report Mayor Johnson was quoted as having said that the report was probably written by the attorneys for the street railroad companies. At a meeting of the trades unions last night a resolution was adopted asking the mayor to prove his assertion.

Will Soon Be Ready.

New York, Jan. 24.—Marconi arrived here yesterday. He said that his system would be ready for commercial use by the public in an exceedingly short time, within two or three months at the latest. This statement was made at the office of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America, at the close of a meeting of the board of directors of the company, called in order that Marconi might personally acquaint the members of the board with the results of his recent experiments and work at Wellfleet. Marconi expects to sail for Europe on Wednesday.

Missing Secretary Found.

New York, Jan. 24.—Willis Hawley, secretary of the Hamilton (O.) Y. M. C. A., who disappeared from his home in that city Jan. 7, under mysterious circumstances, has been found in New York, alive and well, although the various newspapers, the Y. M. C. A. and the police have been hunting for some time for his whereabouts. Yesterday afternoon he appeared and met his wife, who had hastened here from Hamilton to meet him.

Savannah Earthquakes.

Savannah, Jan. 24.—Two distinct and almost immediately successive shocks of earthquake were felt here last night at 8:15 o'clock. Reports from Tybee island are that houses were very perceptibly shaken.

Bubonic Plague.

Mazatlan, Mexico, Jan. 24.—There were five deaths from the plague yesterday. The number of patients in the hospital is 44. The refugees in sheds number 240. Business is demoralized.

FASHION HINTS.

The Possibilities of Lace—Pretty Blouses.

The up to date tailor is a man of great artistic perception; otherwise he could not cope with the changing modes of the day.

The possibilities of lace, instead of dwindling, increase and get more fascinating every day. Lace berthas are particularly useful in renovating an old frock. These berthas are of various shapes, and every woman can find one to suit her style.

The all lace blouse is more charming and effective than ever. It is worn usually over an oriental satin blouse. It is sometimes made of fine ecru net threaded with black velvet or colored ribbons, while in direct contrast coarse

Pretty children's dresses are made of that old fashioned material corded mull. These are made with a deep yoke and roomy bishop sleeves, the skirt displaying a hem surmounted by a cluster of tiny tucks.

Many of the large floppy beaver hats are tied under the child's chin by means of wide satin ribbons. Two huge feather pompons often serve as the entire trimming.

One of the latest skirts is shown in the cut. It is pretty made up in cloth or wool veiling.

The Possibilities of Lace—Pretty Blouses.

The up to date tailor is a man of great artistic perception; otherwise he could not cope with the changing modes of the day.

The possibilities of lace, instead of dwindling, increase and get more fascinating every day. Lace berthas are particularly useful in renovating an old frock. These berthas are of various shapes, and every woman can find one to suit her style.

The all lace blouse is more charming and effective than ever. It is worn usually over an oriental satin blouse. It is sometimes made of fine ecru net threaded with black velvet or colored ribbons, while in direct contrast coarse

Irish crochet or guipure is softened with a lining of chiffon or mousseline and used with an equally good effect.

Panne makes charming winter blouses. Some chic examples are in green, made up with coarse lace in the shape of collars and vests. Very pretty, too, are those of plain oriental satin or tucked chiffon. Blouses worn with a short hanging coat of lace or embroidery are smart.

A useful and up to date flannel blouse is shown in the picture. The tie of folded silk is a recent creation.

Pretty children's dresses are made of that old fashioned material corded mull. These are made with a deep yoke and roomy bishop sleeves, the skirt displaying a hem surmounted by a cluster of tiny tucks.

Many of the large floppy beaver hats are tied under the child's chin by means of wide satin ribbons. Two huge feather pompons often serve as the entire trimming.

One of the latest skirts is shown in the cut. It is pretty made up in cloth or wool veiling.

The up to date tailor is a man of great artistic perception; otherwise he could not cope with the changing modes of the day.

The possibilities of lace, instead of dwindling, increase and get more fascinating every day. Lace berthas are particularly useful in renovating an old frock. These berthas are of various shapes, and every woman can find one to suit her style.

The all lace blouse is more charming and effective than ever. It is worn usually over an oriental satin blouse. It is sometimes made of fine ecru net threaded with black velvet or colored ribbons, while in direct contrast coarse

A useful and up to date flannel blouse is shown in the picture. The tie of folded silk is a recent creation.

"The Billionaire" "The Sultan Of Sulu"

AN undoubted great big success has been won by Harry B. Smith and Gustave Kerker in their new musical farce, "The Billionaire." Every principal is good, almost every voice is good, and the chorus is magnificently costumed and well drilled. Add to this that the company is large and that the scenery is beautiful, and success is spelled in capital letters.

The longest lane has a turning somewhere. Everything comes to those who wait. Here is a farce with a plot, very trifling, it is true, but still needing no interpreter. The music is delightful—breezy, swingy, catchy and any other adjective which means that it will be hummed and whistled all over New York before long. Pretty girls, good looking men, lovely dresses and vivacity never dying in interest, and the certainty is reached that "The Billionaire" will stay on Broadway at Daly's theater until spring or later.

Jerome Sykes is the billionaire, John Doe. He is splendid and has many witty and clever lines, which he utters with so much unction that they tell every time. As Mrs. Peppercorn May Robson is inimitable, and though she has had a brilliant career in her line of character work, I doubt if ever she has had a better part or has done better work. She was great and is to her finger tips an artist. Her two daughters were played by Sallie Fisher and Marie Doro. They were designated on the programme as Flora and Rosalba, and I am confused in my mind as to their identity. Both were good, but I dwell on them for a minute because of the clever work of one of them. In the mimic theater she sang a song about "If You Love Me, Say 'Cuckoo.'" She was made up to look like Anna Held, and she did, but was much prettier. Her song was pretty and her business was bewitching. She has a future in that line and will some day be a big drawing card.

A Strong Cast.

Harry Macdonough as the waiter was at his best, and that is no small height. Julius Steger was a Hungarian officer, and while some of his songs were well rendered, he was not entirely satisfactory. Hans Roberts (Wally Peppercorn), Thomas C. Leary (Mr. Peppercorn), Harry Kelly (Tim Lafferty), John P. Kennedy (M. Petipas) and L. B. Foley as Hot Stuff Jake were all admirable. I have left the sweet little Pansy Good for the last. Nellie Follis played this role and was charming. She is petite, pretty, dainty and sings sweetly if not wonderfully. Her pansy song, with a chorus of pansy girls, was a treat for eye and ear.

"The Billionaire" gives more for the money paid to see it than any show I ever saw. Paris is first visited, and a good idea is given of Americans there with money, full, title crazy and with ignorance paramount. In the hands of May Robson the mother of this family can best be understood. "The Billionaire" sees a heartbroken, would be musician put out of a hotel for board, and as she has a pretty face and needs consolation he gives it to the tune of buildden, is the horse that will strive to win added turf glory for Uncle Sam. He was sold by Mr. Madden last summer to the then newly started turf firm of Whitney & Duryea, composed of Harry Payne Whitney, son of William C. Whitney, and Hermann B. Duryea, another millionaire sportsman who has obtained considerable prominence as a yachtsman. In the fall Acefull won several races for the Whitney-Duryea stable and was then nominated in the Derby. Since that time the firm has dissolved, Mr. Duryea becoming the sole owner of Acefull, and he will bear the expense of the horse's trip abroad.

Martin to Ride Acefull.

Acefull is to be ridden in the Derby by "Skeets" Martin, now under contract to W. C. Whitney. The combination will be hard to beat, although the odds are somewhat against an American victory. Two horses rank favorites for the race. They are Rock Sand and Flotsam. The former will probably be ridden by Danny Maher. Danny has won many races on Rock Sand, and should he keep in good condition he will go to the post carrying the bulk of the public's money, with Flotsam a close second in the betting.

Titus Again Going Across.

In the race for the Diamond sculls at Henley C. S. Titus will once more contest. By his game fight last year, in which he gave the Britishers a large sized scare, the American champion showed that he possessed wonderful ability.

Having had the benefit of experience in a Henley regatta and consequently knowing the conditions with which he will have to contend, Titus should make a still more brilliant showing in the summer. In view of the splendid form he is in, I would not be at all surprised if he captured the treasured trophy. Titus will represent the Atalanta Boat club of New York, having resigned from the Union Boat club because of a disagreement with the officials of the latter.

Jack Munroe Had a "Past."

Jack Munroe, the burly miner boxer from the Montana woods who sent Champion Jim Jeffries to the floor and stayed the four rounds named in Jeff's defi to all comers, was not an "unknown" by any means, as was shown by accounts of his career made public after the bout by people familiar with his past. Munroe has the build of a champion, and his early training gave him a large store of pugilistic knowledge. He was an instructor in boxing in San Francisco at one time and also acted as sparring partner for Ruhlin, Maher and Sharkey.

Munroe is not without ambition to shine in the ring, but he says he is not quite ready to accept challenges yet. He desires to have a little more time in which to perfect himself. There is no doubt that even at present he could make things highly interesting for Ruhlin, Sharkey, McCoy et al, and those venturesome lads should not be too hasty in seeking matches with him. They may possibly discover that Munroe is a surprise party in disguise. As to his being the coming heavyweight champion—that is another question.

A Query For Skaters.

Who is the champion speed skater of America?

Here is a question to puzzle those considering themselves well versed in sporting lore, and the fact that they will have difficulty in answering is no credit to the many experts of the glistening steel runner persuasion.

I do not believe there has been a time in the history of sport, unless it was last year, when the skating supremacy of the United States has been a more unsettled matter. Either interest in this, the greatest of outdoor sports, is lamentably on the decrease or skaters are taking less pride in the development of the possibilities of the pastime. Perhaps, after all, it is true that speed skating is so intricate a science and so arduous a labor that a decade is required in which to produce a Joe Donoghue or a George ("Spider") Phillips. But after a moment's consideration the foregoing statement is seen to be untrue, for there are at least three or four men I now have in mind who could with determined effort forge to national leadership. To do this, however, they must be willing to sacrifice the time required.

Sinnirud and Wood.

Two men now hold the bulk of American championship skating honors. They are Peter Sinnirud, the "Terrible Swede" of the Verona Skating club of Montclair, N. J., and N. Wood of the same organization. Both these men, of course, have their special distances at which they particularly excel, but neither is so pronouncedly superior to the other in his field that he can lay just claim to national supremacy. Sinnirud holds the half, five and ten mile titles, while Wood holds the titles for the quarter and one mile events. Sinnirud is soon to turn "pro," having entered the professional championships to be held in Montreal Feb. 7.

He has the earmarks of a coming world beater, and it is barely possible that a money chasing career will so increase his energy and ability that he will forge to the fore and establish new records. Indeed, the making of one or two new marks would give skating a much desired impetus, for the old records have stood so long that they have become, like the forgotten toys of childhood, hidden away on a shelf in a dark closet and covered an inch deep with the accumulations of dust.

Hockey Rules.

The following are the most important rules of hockey as officially played in the United States:

The game shall be commenced and renewed by a face in the center of the rink. Rink shall be at least 112 feet by 48 feet. A goal is placed in the middle of each goal line composed of two upright posts, four feet in height, placed six feet apart and at least five feet from the end of the ice. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed. In the event of a goal post being displaced or broken the referee shall blow his whistle, and the game shall not proceed until the goal is replaced.

The puck shall be faced by being placed between the sticks of two opponents and the referee then calling play.

Two halves of twenty minutes each, with an intermission of ten minutes between, will be the time allowed for games. A game will be decided by the team scoring the greatest number of goals during that time. In case of a tie after playing the specified time play will continue for ten minutes more when, in the event of the score still being even, another game will be played at a time and place mutually agreed upon, such time to be prior to the next scheduled game. Goals shall be changed after each half.

No change of players shall be made after a game has commenced, except for reasons of accidents or injuries during the game.

Should any player be injured during a game and compelled to leave the ice his side shall have the option of putting on a spare man from the reserve to equalize the teams. In the event of any dispute between the captains as to the injured players' fitness to continue the game the matter shall be decided by the referee.

When a player hits the puck, any one of the same side who at such moment of hitting is nearer the opponent's goal line is offside and may not touch the puck himself or in any way whatever prevent any other player from doing so until the puck has been played. A player must always be on his own side of the puck.

The puck may be stopped, but not carried or knocked on by any part of the body. No player shall raise his stick above the shoulder. Charging from behind, tripping, collaring, kicking or cross checking shall not be allowed, and the referee must rule off the ice for any time in his discretion a player who, in his opinion, has offended deliberately against the above rule.

The goal keeper must not during play lie, kneel or sit upon the ice, but must maintain a standing position.

A goal shall be scored when the puck shall have passed between the goal posts from in front and below an imaginary line across the top of posts.

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

EASTERN TRAP LEAGUE.

It is proposed to form one of the largest trap shooting leagues in the country on Long Island, New York, from the ranks of clubs near Springfield, all of which can be reached by trolley cars and which hold regular competitions during the season on their own grounds.

The Freeport Gun club, Aqueduct Gun club, Hempstead Gun club, Mineola Gun club, Springfield Gun club and other organizations have signified their approval of the league.

It is hoped to reorganize the old time Flushing Gun club and the Queens Gun club, making the circuit one of the largest and most important in the east.

CHAMPION LAD OF KENT.

The breeding and training of pointers was formerly monopolized by Englishmen, but of late years American fanciers have won notable victories with their own product. The pointer is indispensable to the hunters of wild birds and is one of the most intelligent and companionable of dogs. The accompanying illustration shows Champion Lad of Kent, a well known winner of first prizes. He is owned by George Jarvis of New York.

LUCKY FRIDAY.

May Buckley, leading lady of James O'Neill's "The Manxman" company, unlike most members of the theatrical profession, has no dread of the alleged bad luck of Friday. On the contrary, she declares that some of the best engagements she has ever had have been obtained on that day.

WROTE MRS. FISKE'S PLAY.

Paul Heyse, the author of "Mary of Magdala," is the dean of German dramatists. More than sixty of his plays are in the repertories of the leading theaters of Germany.

JEROME SYKES AND MAY ROBSON IN "THE BILLIONAIRE"

An Old Favorite.

Fred Frear and Blanche Chapman, respectively as the private secretary and the judge advocate, were excellent. densed play. Everything of a long play done right before you without stop; costumes changed before the audience and scenes (drops) ascending and descending while you look, conversation continuing on the stage. In this bit May Robson and Jerome Sykes were side splitting. I have never enjoyed a light musical evening more, and all who miss "The Billionaire" will regret it.

"The Sultan of Sulu."

This is indeed the year of comic operas, musical comedy or whatever one may choose to call them. There are two fine productions of the style at two of New York's best theaters. At Wallack's Henry W. Savage presents "The Sultan of Sulu." It is unique in so far as the programme designates it "a musical satire." Frank Moulan is the comedian, and, though not new to New York, he is new to Broadway. He has come there to stay if there are any astute managers still alive. He is funny and has a sweet voice. Usually the funny man is not expected to sing well, but no one will object when a really good voice accompanies the laughmaker. Frank Moulan plays Ki Ram, the sultan of Sulu, and his voice is in evidence as soon as he enters. "Smiling Isle" is his first song and is a good method for a topical song. He has to submit to the United States or be killed, and as he does not intend to do the first he enters fully convinced he has to give up his "Smiling Isle" by death. He at once puts himself in touch with his audience and after that has no further trouble.

"The Sultan of Sulu" is by George Ade, the celebrated slang writer, and in this line he has held the reins well in hand, for the slang does not preponderate. The music is by Alfred G. Wathall. It is very bright, and the ensembles are for the most part the best of the work. It is in the solos that the musician has not been so happy. The numbers are many and the spirit good, but there are only two or three airs that will be remembered, and, to be truthful, only one that haunts me. That is decidedly the gem of the whole, "Since I First Met You." It is so catchy, so swingy and the business is so beautiful that it will help the success of "The Sultan of Sulu" more than anything musical in it. The cast is not bad, yet there are not any good singers except Moulan and Maud Lillian Berri.

GRACE W. ELTON.

New York.

FRANK ERNE'S CAREER.

Frank Erne of Buffalo, the ex-lightweight champion of the world, has retired from the ring. His recent defeat at the hands of Jimmy Britt in San Francisco was a sad disappointment to him, and it was that which caused him to assume the course he has. Erne will return to Buffalo and go into business with his father.

The Buffalo lad has made over $40,000 during the eleven years he has been in the business. As he was not a boy who spent his money lavishly, he has enough left today to keep the wolf from the door for many a day. Erne's winnings since the time he defeated Joe Gans at the Broadway A. C., New York, over two years ago, are:

Defeating Joe Gans, New York	$2,600
Defeating Curley Supples, Fort Erie	2,200
Defeating Jem Maloney, London	1,500
Draw Tom Couhig, Buffalo	500
Losing to Gans, Fort Erie	4,200
Beating Gus Gardner, Chicago	700
Losing to Terry McGovern, New York	8,000
Losing to Jim Ferns, Fort Erie	2,600
Losing to Jimmy Britt	1,575
	$22,375

Aside from this source of revenue Erne has given boxing lessons at the Buffalo club and has had a private class of boxing pupils, from which he must have derived considerable cash.

DUSE AND HER ROLES.

Asked recently if she suffered as the heroine suffers in "The Dead City," Mme. Duse said, "The great joy has been given to me to enter into my roles from the moment I take them up and to remain in them without effort till the end."

The Pepper stable has sold the chestnut gelding King Pepper, four years old, by imp. Kantaka, dam Genevieve, by imp. Stonehenge.

She has a future in that line and will some day be a big drawing card.

A Strong Cast.

Harry Macdonough as the waiter was at his best, and that is no small height. Julius Steger was a Hungarian officer, and while some of his songs were well rendered, he was not entirely satisfactory. Hans Roberts (Wally Peppercorn), Thomas C. Leary (Mr. Peppercorn), Harry Kelly (Tim Lafferty), John P. Kennedy (M. Petipas) and L. E. Foley as Hot Stuff Jake were all admirable. I have left the sweet little Pansy Good for the last. Nellie Follis played this role and was charming. She is petite, pretty, dainty and sings sweetly if not wonderfully. Her pansy song, with a chorus of pansy girls, was a treat for eye and ear.

"The Billionaire" gives more for the money paid to see it than any show I ever saw. Paris is first visited, and a good idea is given of Americans there with money, full, title crazy and with ignorance paramount. In the hands of May Robson the mother of this family can best be understood. "The Billionaire" sees a heartbroken, would be musician put out of a hotel for board, and as she has a pretty face and needs consolation he gives it to the tune of building a theater in two weeks to give her an opportunity to gain fame. Now, we in the legitimate audience see a perfect miniature theater on the stage. Seats, boxes, ushers, drop curtain, scenery and even the man who will pass those seated, the woman who does not remove her hat, the speculator, the manager, the first nighters, the patent moon and the ubiquitous child. It is perfect. The performance goes smoothly on, the ushers leading the applause, often alone, and the new idea of an enterprising manager is at hand—a condensed play. Everything of a long play done right before you without stop; costumes changed before the audience and scenes (drops) ascending and descending while you look, conversation continuing on the stage. In this bit May Robson and Jerome Sykes were side splitting. I have never enjoyed a light musical evening more, and all who miss "The Billionaire" will regret it.

"The Sultan of Sulu."

This is indeed the year of comic operas, musical comedy or whatever one may choose to call them. There are two fine productions of the style at two of New York's best theaters. At Wallack's Henry W. Savage presents "The Sultan of Sulu." It is unique in so far as the programme designates it "a musical satire." Frank Moulan is the comedian, and, though not new to New York, he is new to Broadway. He has come there to stay if there are any astute managers still alive. He is funny and has a sweet voice. Usually the funny man is not expected to sing well, but no one will object when a really good voice accompanies the laughmaker. Frank Moulan plays Ki Ram, the sultan of Sulu, and his voice is in evidence as soon as he enters. "Smiling Isle" is his first song and is a good method for a topical song. He has to submit to the United States or be killed, and as he does not intend to do the first he enters fully convinced he has to give up his "Smiling Isle" by death. He at once puts himself in touch with his audience and after that has no further trouble.

"The Sultan of Sulu" is by George Ade, the celebrated slang writer, and in this line he has held the reins well in hand, for the slang does not preponderate. The music is by Alfred G. Wathall. It is very bright, and the ensembles are for the most part the best of the work. It is in the solos that the musician has not been so happy. The numbers are many and the spirit good, but there are only two or three airs that will be remembered, and, to be truthful, only one that haunts me. That is decidedly the gem of the whole, "Since I First Met You." It is so catchy, so swingy and the business is so beautiful that it will help the success of "The Sultan of Sulu" more than anything musical in it. The cast is not bad, yet there are not any good singers except Moulan and Maud Lillian Berri.

An Old Favorite.

Fred Frear and Blanche Chapman, respectively as the private secretary and the judge advocate, were excellent. I was charmed with the finish and grace of Blanche Chapman.

The general effect of the performance was pleasing, but the book, as I have said, was somewhat "wanting," and the music also. In works of this kind great tunefulness is necessary, and, even though bright, light musical work will not go if lacking in swinging melody. And melody is lacking in the music of "The Sultan of Sulu." Its strong point is that the ensembles are good. Still a few of the numbers were pretty—I mean the solos. Noticeable among these were "Since I First Met You," the gem of the opera, and "Remorse."

The story is of the landing of the American troops on Sulu island, the largest of the southern Philippines. The barbarous ruler is talked with and induced to change his title to governor and get a stated salary, give up his wives, of whom he has eight, and become civilized. The effects of this process is that he insults the judge advocate, who is a woman, by suggesting that she become the ninth wife, and her revenge when divorce is granted the eight is to fix such alimony that no one could pay it, and the former ruler is clapped into jail. Later it develops that the law only goes into effect on certain days of the week, and this was an off day. It is a deep and thrilling plot.

"The Sultan of Sulu" is beautifully mounted and well costumed. Paul Nicholson as an agent and salesman was good and did his little steps and song very amusingly. Victory Gale as a sort of silent Katisha was exceedingly good and furnished some of the best comedy of the piece. Ki Ram, the sultan, calls her his "charter member" of the harem. GRACE W. ELTON.

FRANK MOULAN AS THE SULTAN OF SULU.

The Turf Skating Hockey Pugilism

THERE has been a great deal of talk of late regarding the wide scope of the international sporting events which are to occur during the coming summer. As in other years, England and America will take the lead, and a banner year should result.

England is to send over here a tennis team, a polo contingent and a cricket eleven, etc., while among other things we are going to make strong efforts to capture the Diamond sculls at the Henley regatta, the classic Derby and various important transatlantic track and field events.

In the Derby there is to be but one American entry. Acefull, the speedy three-year-old bred by John E. Madden, is the horse that will strive to win added turf glory for Uncle Sam. He was sold by Mr. Madden last summer to the then newly started turf firm of Whitney & Duryea, composed of Harry Payne Whitney, son of William C. Whitney, and Hermann B. Duryea, another millionaire sportsman who has obtained considerable prominence as a yachtsman. In the fall Acefull won several races for the Whitney-Duryea stable and was then nominated in the Derby. Since that time the firm has dissolved, Mr. Duryea becoming the sole owner of Acefull, and he will bear the expense of the horse's trip abroad.

Martin to Ride Acefull.

Acefull is to be ridden in the Derby by "Skeets" Martin, now under contract to W. C. Whitney. The combination will be hard to beat, although the odds are somewhat against an American victory. Two horses rank favorites for the race. They are Rock Sand and Flotsam. The former will probably be ridden by Danny Maher. Danny has won many races on Rock Sand, and should he keep in good condition he will go to the post carrying the bulk of the public's money, with Flotsam a close second in the betting.

Titus Again Going Across.

In the race for the Diamond sculls at Henley C. S. Titus will once more contest. By his game fight last year, in which he gave the Britishers a large sized scare, the American champion showed that he possessed wonderful ability.

Having had the benefit of experience in a Henley regatta and consequently knowing the conditions with which he will have to contend, Titus should make a still more brilliant showing in the summer. In view of the splendid form he is in, I would not be at all surprised if he captured the treasured trophy. Titus will represent the Atalanta Boat club of New York, having resigned from the Union Boat club because of a disagreement with the officials of the latter.

Jack Munroe Had a "Past."

Jack Munroe, the burly miner boxer from the Montana woods who sent champion Jim Jeffries to the floor and stayed the four rounds named in Jeff's defi to all comers, was not an "unknown" by any means, as was shown by accounts of his career made public after the bout by people familiar with his past. Munroe has the build of a champion, and his early training gave him a large store of pugilistic knowledge. He was an instructor in boxing in San Francisco at one time and also acted as sparring partner for Ruhlin, Maher and Sharkey.

Munroe is not without ambition to shine in the ring, but he says he is not quite ready to accept challenges yet. He desires to have a little more time in which to perfect himself. There is no doubt that even at present he could make things highly interesting for Ruhlin, Sharkey, McCoy et al, and those venturesome lads should not be too hasty in seeking matches with him. They may possibly discover that Munroe is a surprise party in disguise. As to his being the coming heavyweight champion—that is another question.

A Query For Skaters.

Who is the champion speed skater of America?

Here is a question to puzzle those considering themselves well versed in sporting lore, and the fact that they will have difficulty in answering is no credit to the many experts of the glistening steel runner persuasion.

I do not believe there has been a time in the history of sport, unless it was last year, when the skating supremacy of the United States has been a more unsettled matter. Either interest in this, the greatest of outdoor sports, is lamentably on the decrease or skaters are taking less pride in the development of the possibilities of the pastime. Perhaps, after all, it is true that speed skating is so intricate a science and so arduous a labor that a decade is required in which to produce a Joe Donoghue or a George ("Spider") Phillips. But after a moment's consideration the foregoing statement is seen to be untrue, for there are at least three or four men I now have in mind who could with determined effort forge to national leadership. To do this, however, they must be willing to sacrifice the time required.

Sinnirud and Wood.

Two men now hold the bulk of American championship skating honors. They are Peter Sinnirud, the "Terrible Swede" of the Verona Skating club of Montclair, N. J., and N. Wood of the same organization. Both these men, of course, have their special distances at which they particularly excel, but neither is so pronouncedly superior to the other in his field that he can lay just claim to national supremacy. Sinnirud holds the half, five and ten mile titles, while Wood holds the titles for the quarter and one mile events. Sinnirud is soon to turn "pro," having entered the professional championships to be held in Montreal Feb. 7.

He has the earmarks of a coming world beater, and it is barely possible that a money chasing career will so increase his energy and ability that he will forge to the fore and establish new records. Indeed, the making of one or two new marks would give skating a much desired impetus, for the old records have stood so long that they have become, like the forgotten toys of childhood, hidden away on a shelf in a dark closet and covered an inch deep with the accumulations of dust.

Hockey Rules.

The following are the most important rules of hockey as officially played in the United States:

The game shall be commenced and renewed by a face in the center of the rink. Rink shall be at least 112 feet by 68 feet. A goal is placed in the middle of each goal line composed of two upright posts, four feet in height, placed six feet apart and at least five feet from the end of the ice. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed. In the event of a goal post being displaced or broken the referee shall blow his whistle, and the game shall not proceed until the goal is replaced.

The puck shall be faced by being placed between the sticks of two opponents and the referee then calling play.

Two halves of twenty minutes each, with an intermission of ten minutes between, will be the time allowed for games. A game will be decided by the team scoring the greatest number of goals during that time. In case of a tie after playing the specified time play will continue for ten minutes more when, in the event of the score still being even, another game will be played at a time and place mutually agreed upon, such time to be prior to the next scheduled game. Goals shall be changed after each half.

No change of players shall be made after a game has commenced, except for reasons of accidents or injuries during the game.

Should any player be injured during a game and compelled to leave the ice his side shall have the option of putting on a spare man from the reserve to equalize the teams. In the event of any dispute between the captains as to the injured players' fitness to continue the game the matter shall be decided by the referee.

When a player hits the puck, any one of the same side who at such moment of hitting is nearer the opponent's goal line is offside and may not touch the puck himself or in any way whatever prevent any other player from doing so until the puck has been played. A player must always be on his own side of the puck.

The puck may be stopped, but not carried or knocked on by any part of the body. No player shall raise his stick above the shoulder. Charging from behind, tripping, collaring, kicking or cross checking shall not be allowed, and the referee must rule off the ice for any time in his discretion a player who, in his opinion, has offended deliberately against the above rule.

The goal keeper must not during play lie, kneel or sit upon the ice, but must maintain a standing position.

A goal shall be scored when the puck shall have passed between the goal posts from in front and below an imaginary line across the top of posts.

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

EASTERN TRAP LEAGUE.

It is proposed to form one of the largest trap shooting leagues in the country on Long Island, New York, from the ranks of clubs near Springfield, all of which can be reached by trolley cars and which hold regular competitions during the season on their own grounds.

The Freeport Gun club, Aqueduct Gun club, Hempstead Gun club, Mineola Gun club, Springfield Gun club and other organizations have signified their approval of the league.

It is hoped to reorganize the old time Flushing Gun club and the Queens Gun club, making the circuit one of the largest and most important in the east.

CHAMPION LAD OF KENT.

The breeding and training of pointers was formerly monopolized by Englishmen, but of late years American fanciers have won notable victories with their own product. The pointer is indispensable to the hunters of wild birds and is one of the most intelligent and companionable of dogs. The accompanying illustration shows Champion Lad of Kent, a well known winner of first prizes. He is owned by George Jarvis of New York.

LUCKY FRIDAY.

May Buckley, leading lady of James O'Neill's "The Manxman" company, unlike most members of the theatrical profession, has no dread of the alleged bad luck of Friday. On the contrary, she declares that some of the best engagements she has ever had have been obtained on that day.

WROTE MRS. FISKE'S PLAY.

Paul Heyse, the author of "Mary of Magdala," is the dean of German dramatists. More than sixty of his plays are in the repertories of the leading theaters of Germany.

DUSE AND HER ROLES.

The Pepper stable has sold the chestnut gelding King Pepper, four years old, by imp. Kantaka, dam Genevieve, by imp. Stonehenge.

FRANK ERNE'S CAREER.

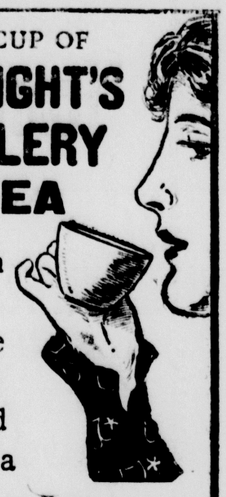

Frank Erne of Buffalo, the ex-lightweight champion of the world, has retired from the ring. His recent defeat at the hands of Jimmy Britt in San Francisco was a sad disappointment to him, and it was that which caused him to assume the course he has. Erne will return to Buffalo and go into business with his father.

The Buffalo lad has made over $40,000 during the eleven years he has been in the business. As he was not a boy who spent his money lavishly, he has enough left today to keep the wolf from the door for many a day. Erne's winnings since the time he defeated Joe Gans at the Broadway A. C., New York, over two years ago, are:

Defeating Joe Gans, New York	$2,600
Defeating Curley Supples, Fort Erie	2,200
Defeating Jem Maloney, London	1,500
Draw Tom Couhig, Buffalo	500
Losing to Gans, Fort Erie	4,200
Beating Gus Gardner, Chicago	700
Losing to Terry McGovern, New York	8,000
Losing to Jim Ferns, Fort Erie	2,600
Losing to Jimmy Britt	1,575
	$22,375

Aside from this source of revenue Erne has given boxing lessons at the Buffalo club and has had a private class of boxing pupils, from which he must have derived considerable cash.

"The Billionaire" "The Sultan Of Sulu"

AN undoubted great big success has been won by Harry B. Smith and Gustave Kerker in their new musical farce, "The Billionaire." Every principal is good, almost every voice is good, and the chorus is magnificently costumed and well drilled. Add to this that the company is large and that the scenery is beautiful, and success is spelled in capital letters.

The longest lane has a turning somewhere. Everything comes to those who wait. Here is a farce with a plot, very trifling, it is true, but still needing no interpreter. The music is delightful—breezy, swingy, catchy and any other adjective which means that it will be hummed and whistled all over New York before long. Pretty girls, good looking men, lovely dresses and vivacity never dying in interest, and the certainty is reached that "The Billionaire" will stay on Broadway at Daly's theater until spring or later.

Jerome Sykes is the billionaire, John Doe. He is splendid and has many witty and clever lines, which he utters with so much unction that they tell every time. As Mrs. Peppercorn May Robson is inimitable, and though she has had a brilliant career in her line of character work, I doubt if ever she has had a better part or has done better work. She was great and is to her finger tips an artist. Her two daughters were played by Sallie Fisher and Marie Doro. They were designated on the programme as Flora and Rosalba, and I am confused in my mind as to their identity. Both were good, but I dwell on them for a minute because of the clever work of one of them. In the mimic theater she sang a song about "If You Love Me, Say 'Cuckoo.'" She was made up to look like Anna Held, and she did, but was much prettier. Her song was pretty and her business was bewitching. She has a future in that line and will some day be a big drawing card.

A Strong Cast.

Harry Macdonough as the waiter was at his best, and that is no small height. Julius Steger was a Hungarian officer, and while some of his songs were well rendered, he was not entirely satisfactory. Sinnirud is soon to turn "pro," having entered the professional championships to be held in Montreal Feb. 7.

He has the earmarks of a coming world beater, and it is barely possible that a money chasing career will so increase his energy and ability that he will forge to the fore and establish new records. Indeed, the making of one or two new marks would give skating a much desired impetus, for the old records have stood so long that they have become, like the forgotten toys of childhood, hidden away on a shelf in a dark closet and covered an inch deep with the accumulations of dust.

Hockey Rules.

The following are the most important rules of hockey as officially played in the United States:

The game shall be commenced and renewed by a face in the center of the rink. Rink shall be at least 110 feet by 55 feet. A goal is placed in the middle of each goal line composed of two upright posts, four feet in height, placed six feet apart and at least five feet from the end of the ice. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed. In the event of a goal post being displaced or broken the referee shall blow his whistle, and the game shall not proceed until the goal is replaced.

The puck shall be faced by being placed between the sticks of two opponents and the referee then calling play.

Two halves of twenty minutes each, with an intermission of ten minutes between, will be the time allowed for games. A game will be decided by the team scoring the greatest number of goals during that time. In case of a tie after playing the specified time play will continue for ten minutes more when, in the event of the score still being even, another game will be played at a time and place mutually agreed upon, such time to be prior to the next scheduled game. Goals shall be changed after each half.

No change of players shall be made after a game has commenced, except for reasons of accidents or injuries during the game.

Should any player be injured during a game and compelled to leave the ice his side shall have the option of putting on a spare man from the reserve to equalize the teams. In the event of any dispute between the captains as to the injured players' fitness to continue the game the matter shall be decided by the referee.

When a player hits the puck, any one of the same side who at such moment of hitting is nearer the opponent's goal line is offside and may not touch the puck himself or in any way whatever prevent any other player from doing so until the puck has been played. A player must always be on his own side of the puck.

The puck may be stopped, but not carried or knocked on by any part of the body. No player shall raise his stick above the shoulder. Charging from behind, tripping, collaring, kicking or cross checking shall not be allowed, and the referee must rule off the ice for any time in his discretion a player who, in his opinion, has offended deliberately against the above rule.

The goal keeper must not during play lie, kneel or sit upon the ice, but must maintain a standing position.

A goal shall be scored when the puck shall have passed between the goal posts from in front and below an imaginary line across the top of posts.

EASTERN TRAP LEAGUE.

It is proposed to form one of the largest trap shooting leagues in the country on Long Island, New York, from the ranks of clubs near Springfield, all of which can be reached by trolley cars and which hold regular competitions during the season on their own grounds.

The Freeport Gun club, Aqueduct Gun club, Hempstead Gun club, Mineola Gun club, Springfield Gun club and other organizations have signified their approval of the league.

It is hoped to reorganize the old time Flushing Gun club and the Queens Gun club, making the circuit one of the largest and most important in the east.

CHAMPION LAD OF KENT.

The breeding and training of pointers was formerly monopolized by Englishmen, but of late years American fanciers have won notable victories with their own product. The pointer is indispensable to the hunters of wild birds and is one of the most intelligent and companionable of dogs. The accompanying illustration shows Champion Lad of Kent, a well known winner of first prizes. He is owned by George Jarvis of New York.

IX.—Herbs of the Garret.

WHO has been in the country often and cannot remember some dark garret or loft filled with the pungent, delightful odor of simple herbs gathered and hung there for use in sickness?

Among the best known of the herbs is the boneset, or thoroughwort. Along the fences and in the open fields it may be seen in full bloom early in August, the small white flowers closely clustered in a flat topped bunch looking like a drift of unseasonable snow moored on the heads of these sturdy stems, which are about two feet high. The fairly large leaves are rather coarse, and the stalk is rather hairy in order to guard the flowers from the visits of insects. If you once become acquainted with it in its natural state, you will never fail to know it, though the boneset proper is sometimes a little hard to recognize, for there are exactly twelve species of that individual family in the United States. Among them is the purple Joe Pye weed. Another is called the white snakeroot.

The life everlasting, or immortelle, and the catnip contribute most generously to the season's fragrance. The life everlasting has a way of seeming to be able to defy the first cold blasts, and it is so tenacious of life that its name is well deserted. Pearly immortelle is perhaps its proper name, for it has sisters and requires the adjective to distinguish it.

Though it is in its prime in August and September, in November you will find it seeming the same as ever, but if you look closely you will perceive that it has no centers in its flowers. Its parts were so loosely put on in the center that they were blown away by the first wind. But all of those little dry pieces were real flowers, and, their mission having been accomplished in the fruition of the seeds, they were no longer necessary. In fact, it was the desirable end for them to be carried away and scattered widely.

The catnip is said to be so named because of the fondness cats have for it, though the softness of the gray hairs on its spikes and the small, grayish lavender flowers set among the hairs are most suggestive of a Maltese cat.

Closely related to it and growing in the same kind of places is the motherwort. Its green parts are not fragrant, like the catnip, and it is not woolly. Its leaves have three great scallops. It does not grow as tall as the catnip, and the flowers are prettier, often being a delicate pink.

Slippery elm—there are people who like to eat it! It is the inner part of the slippery elm, a small, common tree having reddish wood and rather rough leaves.

There is the pennyroyal, the low but erect plant with the small, pale bluish flowers. Oil of pennyroyal we buy in the drugstores to arm us against our bloodthirsty robbers of slumber, the mosquitoes. There are several species, the false and the true, but the pleasant odor of the pennyroyal is unusually farreaching. We do not need to look to learn of its presence. One's nose gives sufficient warning.

Perhaps it is just as well to treat of some other members of that great mint family to which the pennyroyal belongs. There is the wild mint, which is cut up for mint sauce. Another step brings us to the celebrated peppermint.

The old Greek legend tells that Proserpine, the wife of Pluto, the king of the underground world, changed a rival, Menthe, into this plant, from which comes the menthal as well as the peppermint which flavors our candies.

Ginseng, once abundant, but now becoming very rare on account of the great quantities which have been gathered for their roots, is almost worth its weight in gold. Most of it goes to the Chinese, who ascribe to it the virtues of the fountain of youth and the power of curing all the ills to which man is heir. The flowers are a yellowish green and top with a cluster a stem about a foot high. On either side, springing from the same base, are two stems, spreading out at the top into leaflets which at a passing glance might be taken for part of a five leaved ivy, or Virginia creeper. Some of the plants have only stamens and the others only pistils. Of course only those with pistils bear the fruit, a close bunch of beautiful scarlet berries.

Related to ginseng are the spikenard and the false spikenard, or, to put it more properly, the wild sarsaparilla, which is sought for its roots.

The root of the wild sarsaparilla is singularly long, and the proper stalk is but a few inches high. The leaves are compound, and there are but a few on each stalk, so that when a number are growing together and have for the most part but three leaflets they much resemble the poisonous three leaved ivy, or poison oak, though the leaves of the wild sarsaparilla are rougher, their edges are well toothed, and they also have a decided brownish hue. Those of the poison ivy are a rich green, are sometimes much more deeply indented and may be downy underneath.

The spikenard is a handsome plant, growing to the height of several feet. It has not the beauty of the mountain laurel, but it certainly presents a striking appearance, especially in August, when its berries have become a lovely deep red.

Its flowers and fruit recall the well known elder, for the blossoms are small and white, in size and arrangement much like the elder, though they are piled in a pyramidal instead of a flat cluster. The berries, which follow later, are similar outwardly, though they never attain the very dark hue of the elderberries. Their taste is delicious.

An insignificant addition to the list is the figwort, though Gray and other authorities on botany regard it as so important a representative of its kind that they have named a family after it. All through August it may be found along fences and in pastures. The figwort rises to about the height of a person. Though its stem is sturdy and its leaves are large, some nearly a foot long, it is a very dull green, and its flowers are so small that they are hardly noticeable unless you are searching especially for them. They have five dull claret colored petals, each bending back in a different direction, but each is so small and short that the corolla seems swallowed up in the green enveloping calyx. They come in clusters of a few at each end of the various branches. Its titles are numerous—heal all, carpenter's square and Maryland figwort.

Larkspur.

It may seem strange that some of the familiar early spring comers are included in this list, but they are. These may not always be found in the old fashioned garret, but there are some with a strong odor which do belong there and have not been described—the wormwood, the marjoram and the sage. The last two, however, are associated with the garden.

The spring flowers are the Jack-in-the-pulpit and the Solomon's seal, the mandrake and the trilliums. Both the large flowered trilliums are sought, though the evil smelling red ones are most desired. That color is also one of Nature's economies. It is an advertisement for flies, which seek it as they will putrid meat and in their brief visits transact the necessary operation of transferring the pollen and dropping it upon the pistils. Its root stalk is sought for medicine.

Early in the spring the mandrake, or May apple, pierces the soil with its blunt green head. In April its umbrella leaves unfold for the showers, and in May the round white waxen flowers nestle in the one axil beneath the umbrella. It is pure white, with a yellow center. The yellow, pulpy apples are ripe in August, to the delight of birds and small boys.

12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand luncheers. It takes three hours to digest a fresh egg soft boiled; three hours to digest a boiled apple dumpling; three hours to digest fresh roast beef. In fact, three hours is about the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y. "I had stomach trouble from childhood and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 26 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 57 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

A Witty Retort.

As is generally the case with people who have nothing to say worth hearing, a conceited drummer talked a great deal, to the evident disgust of a number of his drummer friends who were dining at a country hotel. Warm cheese was served, it was of a decided "lively" brand, much to the delight of the irrepressible. He attacked it with great gusto, remarking, "I'm like Samson, slaying them by the thousand."

"Yes," replied a quick witted diner at the end of the table, "and with the same weapon too!"

An Alternative.

"Now, then," said the professor of logic, "give us an idea of your knowledge of the question in plain words."

"Why—er—I'm afraid," stammered the student, "that I can't just exactly"—

"Perhaps then you may give us an idea of your ignorance of it in any old words."—Philadelphia Press.

UNDER DESTINY'S WHEELS

By Charles Welsted

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It was the half day off for the boys, at least for some of them, and three or four lounged around the offices in various attitudes more comfortable than dignified. The atmosphere was blue with smoke.

One of the boys, perched on top of a table, with hands clasped over one knee, had been quiet for fully ten minutes, while the others seemed to be all talking at once. Finally one of them came over and slapped him on the shoulder.

"Dreaming again, Jimmy? Now, look here, old man; this won't do. When is it to be, anyway?"

"It" apparently could mean only one thing, for Jimmy answered absentmindedly and briefly:

"Next month!"

There was a roar of laughter from his companions, and Jimmy suddenly came out of his trance.

"Poor old Jimmy! We'll be glad when the ordeal is over and you are in a normal state again. Marriage is a serious thing, isn't it, old fellow?"

Jimmy did not hear the last of this sentence. He put on his hat and went out with a disgusted look.

"Somebody ought to go with him and take care of him," suggested Clark. "He'll get run over sure some of these days while in one of those trances. Well, I'd like to see the woman who could affect me that way."

"Oh, come off, Wally! You are just as fond of the girls as any of us."

"Oh, well, the dear creatures are well enough in their way," replied Clark, "but their way doesn't happen to be my way; that's all."

In an adjoining room a girl was writing. One of the boys came to the doorway.

"What do you think of that, Miss Ward? Do you believe him?"

"I think if you boys would only give your tongues five minutes' rest I might be able to get through with my stuff and go home."

HE STRUCK WITH AWFUL FORCE THE UNCONSCIOUS FORM OF THE GIRL.

"Snubbed, by Jove! Wally, Miss Ward says you talk too much."

"Will you fellows shut up your infernal racket?" a man's voice growled from a room leading off Miss Ward's.

"Certainly, dearest!" said Wally in dulcet tones. "Come on, boys. There's no rest for the wicked in this establishment."

A little smile flickered on Miss Ward's face as she paused at her work.

"What an odd lot of boys," she mused. "If girls could only take life that way! As for Wally Clark—I wonder"—

Her face was very grave, as she sat apparently in deep thought, and a suspicious moisture glistened in her eyes. "Oh, well," with a rather defiant shrug of her shoulders, "it's all in a lifetime." Which remark was usually a pretty good indication that life and Miss Ward were not on the friendliest terms.

Later that afternoon, as she was mounting her wheel, Wally Clark appeared on the scene, as, in fact, Wally frequently did at such times, quite by accident, of course.

"Going home?" he asked carelessly.

"No."

Wally thought this reply unnecessarily brief, but he was not so easily squelched.

"Going for a ride?" more carelessly still.

"Yes."

"Humph! How very conversational you are! May I come?"

"No; you may not," the girl answered sharply and decidedly, and before the astonished young man came to, she was on her wheel and away. Wally was not accustomed to this sort of treatment.

"The deuce!" he ejaculated. "Well, what have I done now?"

The girl had disappeared, but he knew where she was likely to go. Twenty minutes later Miss Ward glanced over her shoulder and saw him coming. She turned quickly to the right, leaving the regular cycle path, and, cutting across country, wheeled rapidly down the first road she came to. Just then Wally spied the familiar gray bicycle suit and followed. At the end of the road there was an incline which led to the railroad track, and before the girl realized how very steep it was she had started down the hill.

"What a fool thing to do!" exclaimed Wally. "She can't ride that hill. She'll fall and break her neck."

In an instant the girl saw her danger, but it was too late. She lost control of her wheel, and her efforts to regain the pedals were futile. The bicycle flew along at a fearful speed. Suddenly a blood curdling sound reached her and Wally. The man was straining every effort to catch up with the runaway wheel, but as he heard that sound he involuntarily closed his eyes.

"Oh, God! The express!" he cried in anguish. If her wheel struck the track nothing but a miracle could save her. Only now he realized to what an extent he loved her—now that it was too late.

"Fall off!" he cried. "Don't cross the track. For God's sake, May, run into the fence—anything!" But she either did not hear or was powerless to act.

The wheel struck the track as the engine of the oncoming train turned the curve, and the girl was thrown violently to the ground, where she lay motionless just across the outer rail. The man realized in a flash that an attempt to save her meant almost certain death for him, but there was no choice. He had to cross the track himself now, he could not stop. He struck the rails. "Scree-ch" went the whistle of the express.

"God be merciful!" prayed the man as he was thrown violently from his machine and struck with awful force the unconscious form of the girl. Then that deafening noise—the rumbling of wheels, the hissing of steam, the screech of the locomotive whistle—he heard it all. He felt himself still rolling as when he fell with such force on Miss Ward's lithe form. All was quiet again. He opened his eyes and looked about him. Strewn about were the remains of two bicycles—there might have been twenty for all one could tell—and—yes—here lay Miss Ward right at his back. They were not three feet away from the track.

"Thank heaven!" he said fervently. "But how did it happen?"

A little later the girl opened her eyes to find herself in Wally's arms.

"What is it?" she asked in a dazed way. "What happened?"

"I don't know. Don't ask me. I only know, darling, that you are here. Oh, May," he added in a tense voice, "I thought I had lost you! I thought we were both gone."

The girl looked at the track, where the two wheels lay smashed into a thousand fragments; then she looked back into the man's eyes and smiled wistfully.

"You risked your life to save me?" she asked in a low, earnest voice. Wally did not answer. He was bruised and bleeding.

"Why did you?" she persisted.

"No, no; I did not. May, I had no choice. I deserve no credit. I must have struck you in my fall and rolled you from the track. May, dear, you are not badly hurt, are you?" And he raised her face to his.

"Wally, I—I—thought you didn't care for women!" she whispered, and the man had to laugh despite the situation.

Italian Mothers.

The average Italian mother, especially among the bourgeoisie, we learn from Luigi Villari's "Italian Life In Town and Country," has absolutely no notion as to how children ought to be brought up.

She indulges them in every way and lets them eat whatever they ask for and then scolds them for insufficient reasons, but hardly ever punishes them. On the other hand the father will punish his boys severely, especially if they do not do their lessons properly and so get bad marks at school. Parents are rarely able to find a just mean between absolute indulgence and unnecessary severity. Young children are allowed to hear and take part in conversation on matters of which they should know nothing. If they dine with their parents when there are guests, either they are made to keep preternaturally quiet, which is bad for them in one way, or they are permitted to make noise, chatter, throw bread balls, cry and make themselves altogether insupportable.

Mouth Hygiene.

Many persons are scrupulous to clean the outside of their teeth, but systematically neglect the inside, with the result that decay sets in often without their knowledge. If they understood that a rod they were putting in pickle for themselves by this omission, they would be more careful.

"Employ both sides of the jaws when chewing," says a dentist, "and try not to use your teeth as corkscrews and nutcrackers any more than you can help. While the strength and endurance of teeth are largely a matter of constitution, one may do much to preserve them by the simple negative of not abusing them. Where teeth are naturally of a yellowish tint, it is impossible to render them a blue white by any innocent means. If only teeth were kept clean and filled when they need it, no one would notice whether they were one tint or another. If the lips are a good color, they have the effect of bewitching the teeth by contrast."

Brazil's Diamond Rivers.

The geological formation of the famous diamond region in the state of Bahia, Brazil, shows that at some time in the history of the world the mountains there were thrown up in a hot mass and the carbon in the stone crystallized into gems. It was in effect one of M. Moisson's electric furnaces on a gigantic scale. In Brazilian diamond mining natural water courses play an important part. Water and the weather gradually disintegrate the rocks, and the diamonds are washed down into gullies and the beds of rivers, whence they are recovered by the miners. In some places divers are employed to work at the bottom of rivers, filling sacks with the silt that contains the diamonds. The river beds are rich in precious stones which cannot be extracted advantageously, if at all, by the methods now in vogue.

Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin

My people have a great dislike to patent medicines, for as a rule we have found them worthless, but your Syrup Pepsin is a notable exception. It cured me in three weeks, and we have used it at home until it has become a general family medicine.

It is very pleasant and easy to take, and it not simply relieves but effects a permanent cure. I give this testimonial freely, being grateful for the help I have obtained.

BLOOD POISON

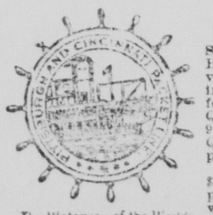

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrotula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, dizziness, stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. IX.—Herbs of the Garret.

WHO has been in the country often and cannot remember some dark garret or loft filled with the pungent, delightful odor of simple herbs gathered and hung there for use in sickness?

Among the best known of the herbs is the boneset, or thoroughwort. Along the fences and in the open fields it may be seen in full bloom early in August, the small white flowers closely clustered in a flat topped bunch looking like a drift of unseasonable snow moored on the heads of these sturdy stems, which are about two feet high. The fairly large leaves are rather coarse, and the stalk is rather hairy in order to guard the flowers from the visits of insects. If you once become acquainted with it in its natural state, you will never fail to know it, though the boneset proper is sometimes a little hard to recognize, for there are exactly twelve species of that individual family in the United States. Among them is the purple Joe Pye weed. Another is called the white snakeroot.

The life everlasting, or immortelle, and the catnip contribute most generously to the season's fragrance. The life everlasting has a way of seeming to be able to defy the first cold blasts, and it is so tenacious of life that its name is well deserted. Pearly immortelle is perhaps its proper name, for it has sisters and requires the adjective to distinguish it.

Though it is in its prime in August and September, in November you will find it seeming the same as ever, but if you look closely you will perceive that it has no centers in its flowers. Its parts were so loosely put on in the center that they were blown away by the first wind. But all of those little dry pieces were real flowers, and their mission having been accomplished in the fruition of the seeds, they were no longer necessary. In fact, it was the desirable end for them to be carried away and scattered widely.

The catnip is said to be so named because of the fondness cats have for it, though the softness of the gray hairs on its spikes and the small, grayish lavender flowers set among the hairs are most suggestive of a Maltese cat.

Closely related to it and growing in the same kind of places is the motherwort. Its green parts are not fragrant, like the catnip, and it is not woolly. Its leaves have three great scallops. It does not grow as tall as the catnip, and the flowers are prettier, often being a delicate pink.

Slippery elm—there are people who like to eat it! It is the inner part of the slippery elm, a small, common tree having reddish wood and rather rough leaves.

There is the pennyroyal, the low but erect plant with the small, pale bluish flowers. Oil of pennyroyal we buy in the drugstores to arm us against our bloodthirsty robbers of slumber, the mosquitoes. There are several species, the false and the true, but the pleasant odor of the pennyroyal is unusually farreaching. We do not need to look to learn of its presence. One's nose gives sufficient warning.

Perhaps it is just as well to treat of some other members of that great mint family to which the pennyroyal belongs. There is the wild mint, which is cut up for mint sauce. Another step brings us to the celebrated peppermint.

The old Greek legend tells that Proserpine, the wife of Pluto, the king of the underground world, changed a rival, Menthe, into this plant, from which comes the menthal as well as the peppermint which flavors our candies.

Ginseng, once abundant, but now becoming very rare on account of the great quantities which have been gathered for their roots, is almost worth its weight in gold. Most of it goes to the Chinese, who ascribe to it the virtues of the fountain of youth and the power of curing all the ills to which man is heir. The flowers are a yellowish green and top with a cluster a stem about a foot high. On either side, springing from the same base, are two stems, spreading out at the top into leaflets which at a passing glance might be taken for part of a five leaved ivy, or Virginia creeper. Some of the plants have only stamens and the others only pistils. Of course only those with pistils bear the fruit, a close bunch of beautiful scarlet berries.

Related to ginseng are the spikenard and the false spikenard, or, to put it more properly, the wild sarsaparilla, which is sought for its roots.

The root of the wild sarsaparilla is singularly long, and the proper stalk is but a few inches high. The leaves are compound, and there are but a few on each stalk, so that when a number are growing together and have for the most part but three leaflets they much resemble the poisonous three leaved ivy, or poison oak, though the leaves of the wild sarsaparilla are rougher, their edges are well toothed, and they also have a decided brownish hue. Those of the poison ivy are a rich green, are sometimes much more deeply indented and may be downy underneath.

The spikenard is a handsome plant, growing to the height of several feet. It has not the beauty of the mountain laurel, but it certainly presents a striking appearance, especially in August, when its berries have become a lovely deep red.

Its flowers and fruit recall the well known elder, for the blossoms are small and white, in size and arrangement much like the elder, though they are piled in a pyramidal instead of a flat cluster. The berries, which follow later, are similar outwardly, though they never attain the very dark hue of the elderberries. Their taste is delicious.

An insignificant addition to the list is the figwort, though Gray and other authorities on botany regard it as so important a representative of its kind that they have named a family after it. All through August it may be found along fences and in pastures. The figwort rises to about the height of a person. Though its stem is sturdy and its leaves are large, some nearly a foot long, it is a very dull green, and its flowers are so small that they are hardly noticeable unless you are searching especially for them. They have five dull claret colored petals, each bending back in a different direction, but each is so small and short that the corolla seems swallowed up in the green enveloping calyx. They come in clusters of a few at each end of the various branches. Its titles are numerous—heal all, carpenter's square and Maryland figwort.

Larkspur.

It may seem strange that some of the familiar early spring comers are included in this list, but they are. These may not always be found in the old fashioned garret, but there are some with a strong odor which do belong there and have not been described—the wormwood, the marjoram and the sage. The last two, however, are associated with the garden.

The spring flowers are the Jack-in-the-pulpit and the Solomon's seal, the mandrake and the trilliums. Both the large flowered trilliums are sought, though the evil smelling red ones are most desired. That color is also one of Nature's economies. It is an advertisement for flies, which seek it as they will putrid meat and in their brief vis its transact the necessary operation of transferring the pollen and dropping it upon the pistils. Its root stalk is sought for medicine.

Early in the spring the mandrake, or May apple, pierces the soil with its blunt green head. In April its umbrella leaves unfold for the showers, and in May the round white waxen flowers nestle in the one axil beneath the umbrella. It is pure white, with a yellow center. The yellow, pulpy apples are ripe in August, to the delight of birds and small boys.

12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand lunchers. It takes three hours to digest a fresh egg soft boiled; three hours to digest a boiled apple dumpling; three hours to digest fresh roast beef. In fact, three hours is about the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y. "I had stomach trouble from childhood and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 26 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

A Witty Retort.

As is generally the case with people who have nothing to say worth hearing, a conceited drummer talked a great deal, to the evident disgust of a number of his drummer friends who were dining at a country hotel. When cheese was served, it was of a decided "lively" brand, much to the delight of the irrepressible. He attacked it with great gusto, remarking, "I'm like Samson, slaying them by the thousand!"

"Yes," replied a quick witted diner at the end of the table, "and with the same weapon too!"

An Alternative.

"Now, then," said the professor of logic, "give us an idea of your knowledge of the question in plain words."

"Why—er—I'm afraid," stammered the student, "that I can't just exactly"—

"Perhaps then you may give us an idea of your ignorance of it in any old words."—Philadelphia Press.

UNDER DESTINY'S WHEELS

By Charles Welsted

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It was the half day off for the boys, at least for some of them, and three or four lounged around the offices in various attitudes more comfortable than dignified. The atmosphere was blue with smoke.

One of the boys, perched on top of a table, with hands clasped over one knee, had been quiet for fully ten minutes, while the others seemed to be all talking at once. Finally one of them came over and slapped him on the shoulder.

"Dreaming again, Jimmy? Now, look here, old man; this won't do. When is it to be, anyway?"

"It" apparently could mean only one thing, for Jimmy answered absentmindedly and briefly:

"Next month!"

There was a roar of laughter from his companions, and Jimmy suddenly came out of his trance.

"Poor old Jimmy! We'll be glad when the ordeal is over and you are in a normal state again. Marriage is a serious thing, isn't it, old fellow?"

Jimmy did not hear the last of this sentence. He put on his hat and went out with a disgusted look.

"Somebody ought to go with him and take care of him," suggested Clark. "He'll get run over sure some of these days while in one of those trances. Well, I'd like to see the woman who could affect me that way."

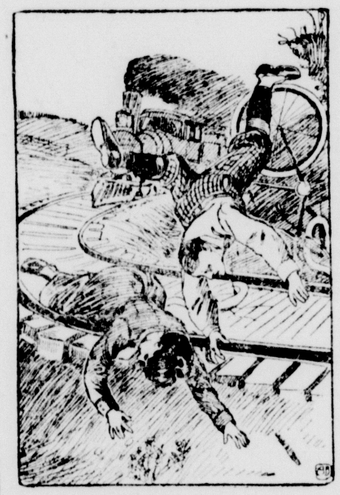

"Oh, come off, Wally! You are just as fond of the girls as any of us."

"Oh, well, the dear creatures are well enough in their way," replied Clark, "but their way doesn't happen to be my way; that's all."

In an adjoining room a girl was writing. One of the boys came to the doorway.

"What do you think of that, Miss Ward? Do you believe him?"

"I think if you boys would only give your tongues five minutes' rest I might be able to get through with my stuff and go home."

HE STRUCK WITH AWFUL FORCE THE UNCONSCIOUS FORM OF THE GIRL.

"Snubbed, by Jove! Wally, Miss Ward says you talk too much."

"Will you fellows shut up your infernal racket?" a man's voice growled from a room leading off Miss Ward's.

"Certainly, dearest," said Wally in dulcet tones. "Come on, boys. There's no rest for the wicked in this establishment."

A little smile flickered on Miss Ward's face as she paused at her work.

"What an odd lot of boys," she mused. "If girls could only take life that way! As for Wally Clark—I wonder"—

Her face was very grave, as she sat apparently in deep thought, and a suspicious moisture glistened in her eyes. "Oh, well," with a rather defiant shrug of her shoulders, "it's all in a lifetime." Which remark was usually a pretty good indication that life and Miss Ward were not on the friendliest terms.

Later that afternoon, as she was mounting her wheel, Wally Clark appeared on the scene, as, in fact, Wally frequently did at such times, quite by accident, of course.

"Going home?" he asked carelessly.

"No."

Wally thought this reply unnecessarily brief, but he was not so easily squelched.

"Going for a ride?" more carelessly still.

"Yes."

"Humph! How very conversational you are! May I come?"

"No; you may not," the girl answered sharply and decidedly, and before the astonished young man came to, she was on her wheel and away. Wally was not accustomed to this sort of treatment.

"The deuce!" he ejaculated. "Well, what have I done now?"

The girl had disappeared, but he knew where she was likely to go. Twenty minutes later Miss Ward glanced over her shoulder and saw him coming. She turned quickly to the right, leaving the regular cycle path, and, cutting across country, wheeled rapidly down the first road she came to. Just then Wally spied the familiar gray bicycle suit and followed. At the end of the road there was an incline which led to the railroad track, and before the girl realized how very steep it was she had started down the hill.

"What a fool thing to do!" exclaimed Wally. "She can't ride that hill. She'll fall and break her neck."

In an instant the girl saw her danger, but it was too late. She lost control of her wheel, and her efforts to regain the pedals were futile. The bicycle flew along at a fearful speed. Suddenly a blood curdling sound reached her and Wally. The man was straining every effort to catch up with the runaway wheel, but as he heard that sound he involuntarily closed his eyes.

"Oh, God! The express!" he cried in anguish. If her wheel struck the track nothing but a miracle could save her. Only now he realized to what an extent he loved her—now that it was too late.

"Fall off!" he cried. "Don't cross the track. For God's sake, May, run into the fence—anything!" But she either did not hear or was powerless to act.

The wheel struck the track as the engine of the oncoming train turned the curve, and the girl was thrown violently to the ground, where she lay motionless just across the outer rail. The man realized in a flash that an attempt to save her meant almost certain death for him, but there was no choice. He had to cross the track himself now, he could not stop. He struck the rails. "Screech" went the whistle of the express.

"God be merciful!" prayed the man as he was thrown violently from his machine and struck with awful force the unconscious form of the girl. Then that deafening noise—the rumbling of wheels, the hissing of steam, the screech of the locomotive whistle—he heard it all. He felt himself still rolling as when he fell with such force on Miss Ward's lithe form. All was quiet again. He opened his eyes and looked about him. Strewn about were the remains of two bicycles—there might have been twenty for all one could tell—and—yes—here lay Miss Ward right at his back. They were not three feet away from the track.

"Thank heaven!" he said fervently. "But how did it happen?"

A little later the girl opened her eyes to find herself in Wally's arms.

"What is it?" she asked in a dazed way. "What happened?"

"I don't know. Don't ask me. I only know, darling, that you are here. Oh, May," he added in a tense voice, "I thought I had lost you! I thought we were both gone."

The girl looked at the track, where the two wheels lay smashed into a thousand fragments; then she looked back into the man's eyes and smiled wistfully.

"You risked your life to save me?" she asked in a low, earnest voice. Wally did not answer. He was bruised and bleeding.

"Why did you?" she persisted.

"No, no; I did not. May, I had no choice. I deserve no credit. I must have struck you in my fall and rolled you from the track. May, dear, you are not badly hurt, are you?" And he raised her face to his.

"Wally, I—I—thought you didn't care for women!" she whispered, and the man had to laugh despite the situation.

Italian Mothers.

The average Italian mother, especially among the bourgeoisie, we learn from Luigi Villari's "Italian Life In Town and Country," has absolutely no notion as to how children ought to be brought up.

She indulges them in every way and lets them eat whatever they ask for and then scolds them for insufficient reasons, but hardly ever punishes them. On the other hand the father will punish his boys severely, especially if they do not do their lessons properly and so get bad marks at school. Parents are rarely able to find a just mean between absolute indulgence and unnecessary severity. Young children are allowed to hear and take part in conversation on matters of which they should know nothing. If they dine with their parents when there are guests, either they are made to keep preternaturally quiet, which is bad for them in one way, or they are permitted to make noise, chatter, throw bread balls, cry and make themselves altogether insupportable.

Mouth Hygiene.

Many persons are scrupulous to clean the outside of their teeth, but systematically neglect the inside, with the result that decay sets in often without their knowledge. If they understood what a rod they were putting in pickle for themselves by this omission, they would be more careful.

"Employ both sides of the jaws when chewing," says a dentist, "and try not to use your teeth as corkscrews and nutcrackers any more than you can help. While the strength and endurance of teeth are largely a matter of constitution, one may do much to preserve them by the simple negative of not abusing them. Where teeth are naturally of a yellowish tint, it is impossible to render them a blue white by any innocent means. If only teeth were kept clean and filled when they need it, no one would notice whether they were one tint or another. If the lips are a good color, they have the effect of bewitching the teeth by contrast."

Brazil's Diamond Rivers.

The geological formation of the famous diamond region in the state of Bahia, Brazil, shows that at some time in the history of the world the mountains there were thrown up in a hot mass and the carbon in the stone crystallized into gems. It was in effect one of M. Moisson's electric furnaces on a gigantic scale. In Brazilian diamond mining natural water courses play an important part. Water and the weather gradually disintegrate the rocks, and the diamonds are washed down into gullies and the beds of rivers, whence they are recovered by the miners. In some places divers are employed to work at the bottom of rivers, filling sacks with the silt that contains the diamonds. The river beds are rich in precious stones which cannot be extracted advantageously, if at all, by the methods now in vogue.

It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrotula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. 12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand lunchers. It takes three hours to digest a fresh egg soft boiled; three hours to digest a boiled apple dumpling; three hours to digest fresh roast beef. In fact, three hours is about the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y. "I had stomach trouble from childhood and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 26 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets. I took six bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only; or 31 stamps for cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Witty Retort.

As is generally the case with people who have nothing to say worth hearing, a conceited drummer talked a great deal, to the evident disgust of a number of his drummer friends who were dining at a country hotel. Warm cheese was served, it was of a decided "lively" brand, much to the delight of the irrepressible. He attacked it with great gusto, remarking, "I'm like Samson, slaying them by the thousand!"

"Yes," replied a quick witted diner at the end of the table, "and with the same weapon too!"

An Alternative.

"Now, then," said the professor of logic, "give us an idea of your knowledge of the question in plain words."

"Why—er—I'm afraid," stammered the student, "that I can't just exactly"—

"Perhaps then you may give us an idea of your ignorance of it in any old words."—Philadelphia Press.

UNDER DESTINY'S WHEELS

By Charles Welsted

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It was the half day off for the boys, at least for some of them, and three or four lounged around the offices in various attitudes more comfortable than dignified. The atmosphere was blue with smoke.

One of the boys, perched on top of a table, with hands clasped over one knee, had been quiet for fully ten minutes, while the others seemed to be all talking at once. Finally one of them came over and slapped him on the shoulder.

"Dreaming again, Jimmy? Now, look here, old man; this won't do. When is it to be, anyway?"

"It" apparently could mean only one thing, for Jimmy answered absentmindedly and briefly:

"Next month!"

There was a roar of laughter from his companions, and Jimmy suddenly came out of his trance.

"Poor old Jimmy! We'll be glad when the ordeal is over and you are in a normal state again. Marriage is a serious thing, isn't it, old fellow?"

Jimmy did not hear the last of this sentence. He put on his hat and went out with a disgusted look.

"Somebody ought to go with him and take care of him," suggested Clark. "He'll get run over sure some of these days while in one of those trances. Well, I'd like to see the woman who could affect me that way."

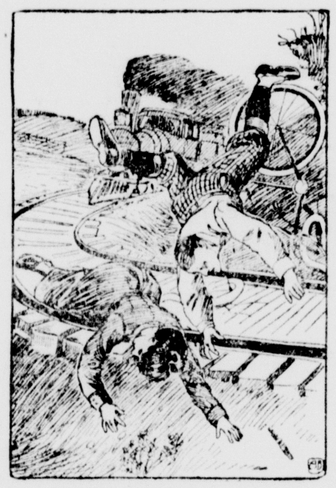

"Oh, come off, Wally! You are just as fond of the girls as any of us."

"Oh, well, the dear creatures are well enough in their way," replied Clark, "but their way doesn't happen to be my way; that's all."

In an adjoining room a girl was writing. One of the boys came to the doorway.

"What do you think of that, Miss Ward? Do you believe him?"

"I think if you boys would only give your tongues five minutes' rest I might be able to get through with my stuff and go home."

HE STRUCK WITH AWFUL FORCE THE UNCONSCIOUS FORM OF THE GIRL.

"Snubbed, by Jove! Wally, Miss Ward says you talk too much."

"Will you fellows shut up your infernal racket?" a man's voice growled from a room leading off Miss Ward's.

"Certainly, dearest," said Wally in dulcet tones. "Come on, boys. There's no rest for the wicked in this establishment."

A little smile flickered on Miss Ward's face as she paused at her work.

"What an odd lot of boys," she mused. "If girls could only take life that way! As for Wally Clark—I wonder"—

Her face was very grave, as she sat apparently in deep thought, and a suspicious moisture glistened in her eyes. "Oh, well," with a rather defiant shrug of her shoulders, "it's all in a lifetime." Which remark was usually a pretty good indication that life and Miss Ward were not on the friendliest terms.

Later that afternoon, as she was mounting her wheel, Wally Clark appeared on the scene, as, in fact, Wally frequently did at such times, quite by accident, of course.

"Going home?" he asked carelessly.

"No."

Wally thought this reply unnecessarily brief, but he was not so easily squelched.

"Going for a ride?" more carelessly still.

"Yes."

"Humph! How very conversational you are! May I come?"

"No; you may not," the girl answered sharply and decidedly, and before the astonished young man came to, she was on her wheel and away. Wally was not accustomed to this sort of treatment.

"The deuce!" he ejaculated. "Well, what have I done now?"

The girl had disappeared, but he knew where she was likely to go. Twenty minutes later Miss Ward glanced over her shoulder and saw him coming. She turned quickly to the right, leaving the regular cycle path, and, cutting across country, wheeled rapidly down the first road she came to. Just then Wally spied the familiar gray bicycle suit and followed. At the end of the road there was an incline which led to the railroad track, and before the girl realized how very steep it was she had started down the hill.

"What a fool thing to do!" exclaimed Wally. "She can't ride that hill. She'll fall and break her neck."

In an instant the girl saw her danger, but it was too late. She lost control of her wheel, and her efforts to regain the pedals were futile. The bicycle flew along at a fearful speed. Suddenly a blood curdling sound reached her and Wally. The man was straining every effort to catch up with the runaway wheel, but as he heard that sound he involuntarily closed his eyes.

"Oh, God! The express!" he cried in anguish. If her wheel struck the track nothing but a miracle could save her. Only now he realized to what an extent he loved her—now that it was too late.

"Fall off!" he cried. "Don't cross the track. For God's sake, May, run into the fence—anything!" But she either did not hear or was powerless to act.

The wheel struck the track as the engine of the oncoming train turned the curve, and the girl was thrown violently to the ground, where she lay motionless just across the outer rail. The man realized in a flash that an attempt to save her meant almost certain death for him, but there was no choice. He had to cross the track himself now, he could not stop. He struck the rails. "Screech" went the whistle of the express.

"God be merciful!" prayed the man as he was thrown violently from his machine and struck with awful force the unconscious form of the girl. Then that deafening noise—the rumbling of wheels, the hissing of steam, the screech of the locomotive whistle—he heard it all. He felt himself still rolling as when he fell with such force on Miss Ward's lithe form. All was quiet again. He opened his eyes and looked about him. Strewn about were the remains of two bicycles—there might have been twenty for all one could tell—and—yes—here lay Miss Ward right at his back. They were not three feet away from the track.

"Thank heaven!" he said fervently. "But how did it happen?"

A little later the girl opened her eyes to find herself in Wally's arms.

"What is it?" she asked in a dazed way. "What happened?"

"I don't know. Don't ask me. I only know, darling, that you are here. Oh, May," he added in a tense voice, "I thought I had lost you! I thought we were both gone."

The girl looked at the track, where the two wheels lay smashed into a thousand fragments; then she looked back into the man's eyes and smiled wistfully.

"You risked your life to save me?" she asked in a low, earnest voice. Wally did not answer. He was bruised and bleeding.

"Why did you?" she persisted.

"No, no; I did not. May, I had no choice. I deserve no credit. I must have struck you in my fall and rolled you from the track. May, dear, you are not badly hurt, are you?" And he raised her face to his.

"Wally, I—I—thought you didn't care for women!" she whispered, and the man had to laugh despite the situation.

Italian Mothers.

The average Italian mother, especially among the bourgeoisie, we learn from Luigi Villari's "Italian Life In Town and Country," has absolutely no notion as to how children ought to be brought up.

She indulges them in every way and lets them eat whatever they ask for and then scolds them for insufficient reasons, but hardly ever punishes them. On the other hand the father will punish his boys severely, especially if they do not do their lessons properly and so get bad marks at school. Parents are rarely able to find a just mean between absolute indulgence and unnecessary severity. Young children are allowed to hear and take part in conversation on matters of which they should know nothing. If they dine with their parents when there are guests, either they are made to keep preternaturally quiet, which is bad for them in one way, or they are permitted to make noise, chatter, throw bread balls, cry and make themselves altogether insupportable.

Mouth Hygiene.

Many persons are scrupulous to clean the outside of their teeth, but systematically neglect the inside, with the result that decay sets in often without their knowledge. If they understood what a rod they were putting in pickle for themselves by this omission, they would be more careful.

"Employ both sides of the jaws when chewing," says a dentist, "and try not to use your teeth as corkscrews and nutcrackers any more than you can help. While the strength and endurance of teeth are largely a matter of constitution, one may do much to preserve them by the simple negative of not abusing them. Where teeth are naturally of a yellowish tint, it is impossible to render them a blue white by any innocent means. If only teeth were kept clean and filled when they need it, no one would notice whether they were one tint or another. If the lips are a good color, they have the effect of bewitching the teeth by contrast."

Brazil's Diamond Rivers.

The geological formation of the famous diamond region in the state of Bahia, Brazil, shows that at some time in the history of the world the mountains there were thrown up in a hot mass and the carbon in the stone crystallized into gems. It was in effect one of M. Moisson's electric furnaces on a gigantic scale. In Brazilian diamond mining natural water courses play an important part. Water and the weather gradually disintegrate the rocks, and the diamonds are washed down into gullies and the beds of rivers, whence they are recovered by the miners. In some places divers are employed to work at the bottom of rivers, filling sacks with the silt that contains the diamonds. The river beds are rich in precious stones which cannot be extracted advantageously, if at all, by the methods now in vogue.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrotula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old drug" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CAR MADE A MAD DASH DOWN CALCUTTA ROAD

Uncontrollable, It Ran Half a Mile Before It Left the Track and Was Wrecked.

ALL SAVE THE MOTORMAN JUMPED OFF

With the speed of a gale an unmanagable street car dashed down the Calcutta hill shortly aften noon today. On it were five passengers, all men, and the car crew. That they were not seriously injured or killed is a miracle. The car is No. 11 and is the oldest and most dilapidated on the line. Motorman Charles Kontnier and Conductor Lawrence Fisher were in charge.

The car became unmanageable near the Pope residence at the head of Avondale street and before the passengers realized the danger it had attained an alarming rate of speed. They hastened to the rear and jumped, preferring to risk injury in this way to remaining on the runaway car. Conductor Fisher remained on the car until all the passengers had jumped and then followed them. It is estimated that the speed at this time was forty miles an hour.

The first derailing switch refused to work and the car kept to the track. Motorman Kontnier bravely remained at his post and made repeated attempts to stop it. This car is not equipped with electrical brakes and the hand brake had no effect whatever on the fast revolving wheels. The motorman generated the car but this, too, failed.

At the second derailing switch the car left the track to the west and continued its mad flight along the paved street. In spite of this fact, Kontiner remained at his post, perilous as it was. Pedestrians who witnessed the runaway were horrified to see him standing in the front vestibule as the car dashed past them.

The speed of the car was not checked to any great extent by leaving the rails, and it would have crashed into the house at the junction of Walnut street and the Calcutta road had not some obstacle veered its course against the west curb. It was brought to a sudden stop by coming in contact with a trolley pole in front of the residence of Murray Nichol. This is half a mile from the point where the car became unmanageable and about 400 yards from where it left the track.

Conductor Fisher was thrown violently to the ground when he jumped so great was the momentum of the car. His right hand was badly gashed but he was not otherwise injured. Joseph Anderson, G. B. Beatty, C. C. Smith, Burt Gregory and another man whose name could not be learned were the passengers. Mr. Anderson sustained painful injuries to his leg.

Motorman Kontnier stepped from the demolished front vestibule after the car had stopped. This vestibule was splintered into fragments but the brave motorman escaped unhurt except for a slight injury to his foot, caused by the controller box, which was torn from its position, falling on it.

The accident was the result of the snowy condition of the rails. The trolley wires are down for a distance of several hundred yards. Hundreds of people visited the scene this afternoon.

SITE FOR A HOTEL IS DESIRED

Local Capital Behind a Project That May Be Important to the City.

Negotiations are on for the transfer of property, which, if it is consummated, will result in the erection of a magnificent hotel, and the fondest hopes of the popuiace will at last be realized. Local capitalists only are behind the project and the engineering of it has been placed in the hands of J. L. Francis. The site desired by the projectors is the old Nagle property on Sixth street, purchased a short time ago by the Union Building, Loan & Trust company and George H. Owen & Co. A proposition made to the purchasers is being favorably considered, and it is asserted that terms can be agreed upon. It is the plan of the company of capitalists to purchase the property now occupied by the Ohio Valley Gas company, adjoining the Nagle property, and then make a trade with the owners of the latter.

Mr. Francis is in Pittsburg today conferring with the Ohio Valley Gas officials, and if he can close a deal with them for the property a committee appointed by the owners of the desired site will meet with him early next week and the transfer will likely be made.

Nothing definite could be learned today as to the material of which the hotel will be built, but it was given out that it will be an up-to-date building, one that all can be proud of.

A member of one of the companies owning the site stated that the Ohio Valley Gas company's property would suit them just as well for the purpose they have contemplated using it as the other, and that if the promoters of the project are in earnest the deal can be closed with little trouble.

PAROLE GRANTED FOREST GRAY

Was Sent to the Reformatory for Perjury in Securing a Marriage License.

Lisbon, January 24.—(Special.)—The state reformatory board has just paroled a number of prisoners from the reformatory at Mansfield. Among the number is Forest Gray, who was sent up from Columbiana county in 1899. The charge was perjury, and the circumstances surrounding the case were peculiar.

Gray lived with a couple named Clark, who a few months before Gray's conviction mutually agreed to separate. It is supposed that Gray thought this equivalent to a divorce, and procuring a marriage license he was united to Mrs. Clark. It developed that Gray in securing the license averred that Mrs. Clark's husband was dead. He was convicted of perjury and sentenced to the reformatory, while Mrs. Clark served a term of one year in the penitentiary on a charge of bigamy.

Two Mahoning county prisoners, Frank Steher and Thomas Cawley, were also among those paroled.

MRS. HOBBS' RECEPTION

Largely Attended And the Appointments Were All in Excellent Taste.

A very enjoyable reception was yesterday given by Mrs. W. A. Hobbs at her home on Fifth street. It was one of the largest of the season and the appointments were such as to re-establish Mrs. Hobbs' reputation as a perfect hostess.

The luncheon was very elaborate. White and pale green were the colors which added to the splendor of the decorations. Following the reception Dr. and Mrs. Hobbs gave a very large and elaborate dinner party to a number of their friends.

POLITICAL BATTLE IN JEFFERSON

IN WHICH GILL AND DUVAL ARE THE PRINCIPALS.

An Interesting Contest With the State Senatorship the Bone of Contention.

Columbus, January 24.—(Special.)—Congressman Gill, of Steubenville, is doing everything in his power to prevent Hon. M. N. Duval, of that city, from securing a solid delegation from Jefferson county in the senatorial contest. Duval is confident of winning. Justin A. Moore, of Steubenville, the Gill candidate, has agreed with Duval that the candidate who gets a majority of the votes shall name all the delegates. This is the unit rule and has been generally used in Jefferson county.

It is an open secret here that Moore's candidacy is for the purpose of defeating Duval. Gill does not want Jefferson county to get one of the senators because this would put the county under obligation to other counties and might stand in the way of him securing another re-nomination for congress.

INSANE ROUMANIAN AT THE COUNTY JAIL

Came From Leetonia And It Took Three Men to Handle Him.

Lisbon, January 24.—(Special.)—An insane Roumanian, whose name is unknown, was brought here from Leetonia yesterday by Officer Fritz, of that town. The man is very violent, making it necessary for the officer to have an assistant accompany him from Leetonia.

At the jail it required three men to get the Roumanian upstairs. He could not be prevailed upon to eat this morning.

LOCAL PLAYERS

Were Defeated in a Fast Basket Ball Game at Marietta Last Night.

In one of the warmest basket ball games of the season, the East Liverpool Y. M. C. A. team was defeated by the Y. M. C. A. team of Marietta, in the latter city last evening by a score of 26 to 22. Word from the local players is to the effect that they were up against boys much heavier than they had anticipated, and that is given as a good reason for their defeat.

Another game will be played tonight and hopes are being entertained that the locals will pull out victorious.

LUTZ VS. MILLER

Lutz has taken kindly to the proposition and the fight will occur on the above date before the Nonpareil Athletic club at Beaver Falls.

WORTHLESS CHECK GIVEN A MERCHANT

It Was for $11 And the Matter Is Now in the Hands of the Police.

The clothing store of Frank Livingston was victimized out of $11 worth of clothing yesterday by a clever swindle. The merchandise is said to have been purchased by James G. Bond, of Chester, an employe of the tin mill but the check was signed James G. Bondham. In previous dealings at the store his checks had been accepted and were honored at the bank.

It is stated that he showed the proprietor his bank book with deposit credits of about $500 during the month of December, but the check given yesterday was declared worthless when presented at the bank. Mr. Livingston went over to Chester and learned that the fellow had been discharged two weeks ago. He then reported the matter to the police and will push the case.

M'KINLEY DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

Superintendent Rayman Issues a Call For Its General Observance Here.

Is Encouraged By a Number of Clever Ideas On the Part of the Teachers—Review of the Past Week in Local Educational Circles.

By request of Prof. R. E. Rayman, McKinley day will be appropriately observed throughout the public schools. He also desires that on the day of the exercises that the favorite hymns of President McKinley be sung. With this request the songs, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee" will have their place in the programs. On Monday morning the following notice will be sent out to all the city teachers:

"All teachers of the city schools Thursday morning, January 29, 1903, are instsucted to give the first period to a memorial exercise in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of President William McKinley. It is fitting indeed that the pupils of our public schools be taught the history of the men who have had so much to do with the making of our nation's history. If character building is to result fro mthe study of history it must come from a careful study of the lives of such men as was Major McKinley's. He was a man who had a clear conception of what life means. He appreciated the trusts imposed upon him by the people of this nation and endeavored to discharge every duty in a conscientious manner. He was a man with masterly forethought, and seemed to possess a wisdom that was almost superhuman in dealing with the interests of the people.

"'The life of a great man is not a biography, but a history.'

Major McKinley has a very important history, not so much for what he accomplished for himself as for the many victories which he was successful in winning for his fellow countrymen. The entire effort of his life was to do something for others. To impress upon the minds of the pupils of our schools the lessons which can be gleaned frim the study of such a life will send them out to grapple with the stern realities of daily life with high ideals of Christian manliness. They will enter upon the work with a full realization of what it is to have life and to have it more abundantly."

High School Notes.

The future officers of the Athenian Literary society are as follows: President, Mr. Sebe Austin; vice president, Will Smith; secretary, Sarah Simms; vice secretary, Esther Davidson; ushers, Ben Bennett, Fred Mountford, John Evans, Frank Gardner.

The literary exercises which were held by both the Athenian and Freshmen societies were excellent.

A FRIENDLESS WANDERER VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT TELLS A PITIFUL TALE

Sought Assistance For Two Days and Nights in This City Without Success.

Destitute and friendless, with no place to lay his aching head, James Porter a laborer recently employed on railroad construction work near Toronto, wandered over the city for two days and nights, seeking some one who would give him assistance in securing medical treatment for wounds received in a terrible accident, and which have placed him in a most pitiful condition.

He was assisting in blasting rock with a dozen or more laborers when a shot prematurely discharged threw a deluge of rocks into the air, some striking him full in the face and with awful force on his breast. He was picked up unconscious and removed to his boarding house. For several days he lay there, but failing to receive the proper attention he concluded to go to Wellsville, where he had heard that a relative lived. Having no money he was compelled to walk. Upon his arrival he was disheartened by being informed that the relatives had moved more than three years ago.

Hardly knowing what course to pursue after receiving such a blow the poor man started out, he did not know where, and had reached a point that he cared little what the results of his wanderings would be. Little difficulty was confronted in making his way to this city, but the same cold treatment was given him here as in Wellsville. Early last evening he left the city in the direction of Toronto, where it is thought that he may receive attention. Those who saw him state that he was in agony and complained of excruciating pains in his head and breast. He was about 40 years of age and was apparently not in his right mind. This is attributed to his injuries and the exertion.

STORM OF INDIGNATION AROUSED

Trenton Potteries Company Stirs Up Labor Circles By Opposing Eight-Hour Law.

Trenton, N. J., January 24. — (Special.)—The action of the Trenton Potteries company in filing a protest with United States Senator Kerr against the passage of the eight-hour law has aroused a bitter feeling among the potters of this city and labor men in general.

The course taken by the syndicate was bitterly denounced last night by the Central Labor union, and a letter advocating the passage of the bill was ordered sent to Senator Kerr to counteract that of the potteries company.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, who is in this city, in speaking of the company's action to a News Review reporter said:

"After a careful survey of the eight-hour law I fail to see how it can affect the pottery interests of this country. Almost every branch of the trade is employed upon a piecework basis, and I venture to say that half of these do not average eight hours a day. Should the clay hands be steadily employed on an eight-hour basis they would turn out sufficient ware to keep the kilns in operation all the time."

PROFITS ON PLAY HAVE BEEN DIVIDED

Three Patriotic Orders Share Equally And Have Placed the Money in Different Funds.

General Lyon post No. 44, G. A. R. held its regular meeting last evening, at which a number of reports from the business of last year were received and filed. The most important feature of the meeting was the report of the committee in charge of the production of "The Drummer Boy."

The report showed that the total receipts from the play to be $920.84 and the total expenses $605.65, leaving a net balance of $315.19. This will be equally divided between the G. A. R., W. R. C. and Sons of Veterans. The former will place its share to the credit of the general fund, while the other two will place it to the credit of the relief fund. A resolution was passed thanking the people who assisted in making the play a success.

SAYS W. S. SMITH WAS DIVORCED

A Baltimore Man Writes That the Pottery Worker Is Lawfully Married.

A letter from James Hambury, 1402 East First avenue, Baltimore, to the News Review, states that W. S. Smith, who was said to have two wives, one being in Chester, is "A divorced man and Mrs. Margaret Smith, of Toronto, O., is his lawful wife."

Mr. Smith is reported confined to his home, but if his health continues improving he will make East Liverpool his home. The letter does not state when or where Mr. Smith was divorced or how the Baltimore woman came to charge him with bigamy.

Delightful Entertainments.

Mrs. Harvey McHeary is giving a series of most delightful entertainments at her home on Oak street. The first of the series was given on Thursday afternoon from 2 until 5.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

MR. HUGHES IN TRENTON.

President A. S. Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, arrived in this city yesterday from East Liverpool, says the Trenton True American. Mr. Hughes expects to remain here about a week or ten days, during which time he will pay a fraternal visit to each of the locals and gather information concerning the local condition of the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes will also visit the local unions at Elizabeth and Camden and perhaps on his way home stop off at Baltimore. A rather amusing coincidence is found in his visit compared with that of two years ago. His purpose in coming here then was to endeavor to get the jiggermen to return to the Brotherhood. He failed, but after due course of time they came back themselves. Mr. Hughes is now ready to welcome them back and next Tuesday night will probably find him at their meeting. In speaking of his trip east yesterday with a reporter Mr. Hughes said: "My coming here has no other object than to pay a fraternal visit to our locals here. I will probably remain here about a week or ten days."

BRICK MAKERS COMBINE.

A combine of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combine, has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern with Pittsburg as their headquarters. The output of the plants will be 2,500,000,000 brick yearly. Not the least valuable part of the property taken over by the new company will be the large area of fire clay and coal land now owned by individual companies. The combine includes all the principal plants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

CRAMPED AT SALINEVILLE.

"Where can I find a house for rent?" is the question heard on every hand, says the Salineville Banner. Potters coming to Salineville from other towns are compelled to give up house hunting in disgust, for none suitable can be found. Every day men call in the business houses and store rooms to inquire for dwelling places. The best that can be done is to rent a room and settle down, with your family in one town and the head of the family somewhere else. Houses can be rented much faster than constructed in this town at present. If many more employes of the pottery come there will be two families in every house.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

The committee appointed by the town of Carrollton to solicit the $60,000 loan for the new pottery met with encouraging success during the first day of its work. D. O. Rutan, a prominent citizen, subscribed $2,000 and a free site of five acres. Eight other prominent citizens followed with a like amount each. It is believed that the committee will raise the necessary amount within a short time. Carrollton is one of the wealthiest towns of its size in the state.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected by Printers' and Transferrers' local No. 32 at its last meeting: President, Dave McIntosh; vice president, Mrs. Maggie Herbert; recording and corresponding secretary, W. B. Elder, financial secretary, Ed. Hatton; defense fund secretary, George Harrison; treasurer, Frank Martin; inspector, Maud Barlow; inside guard, Etta Hailes; trustee, 18 months, Ralph Alcock; statistician, John A. Murphy.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The fine toilet set donated by the K., T. & K. for the Cyrus Bailey benefit can be seen in the show window of the Sleepless Shoe company, in the Diamond. It is one of the handsomest sets made in the city and the person holding the winning number will be lucky. The boys who are disposing of the tickets are having good success, as the cause is a worthy one. Mr. Bailey has not been able to work for 13 months.

BRICK PLANT BURNED.

The Wyomissing plant of the Montella Brick company, one of the largest concerns in the country, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The company has a contract to furnish all the brick for the new capital at Harrisburg, besides doing paving work in many cities.

SALEM LOCAL ELECTS.

At the regular meeting of Local No. 42, of Salem, the following officers were elected: President, Will White; vice president, John Lynch; recording secretary, Mame Snodgrass; treasurer, R. J. Richert; statistician, W. C. Filler; inspector, Blanche Laughlin; guard, Lula Richert; trustee, Theodore Bell; one per cent. secretary, John Hickey.

RICHARD GILMORE DEAD.

Richard Gilmore, aged 32, an active member of the N. B. of O. P., died in East Palestine Tuesday. His funeral was held yesterday. Mr. Gilmore had suffered from consumption for two years and lately returned from Colorado, where he had gone for his health. He was the fourth of the family to die of the same disease.

MAY MAKE TILE.

The construction committee of the Mansfield reformatory board was directed to investigate as to the practicability of establishing a brick and tile works in connection with the institution to furnish it with these articles which are so largely used in construction about the buildings and yards.

Miss Hattie Bierly, it is reported, has resigned her position with the Sebring Pottery company, to accept one with the new Cameron plant.

It is reported that a printing machine will be installed in the Keswick plant at New Brighton. Three hand printers will be displaced. The machine will be operated by an East Liverpool man.

Baby

Weighed Only Five Pounds.

Restless, Cried Day and Night.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Did Wonders, Cured Her.

A little over two years ago I had a little, nervous baby who weighed only five pounds at birth. At first she was restless and cross and after she was four weeks old she cried day and night, and would not sleep without narcotics. She was so nervous that we did not dare to move when she did sleep a short time, as she would wake screaming as though she was going to have a fit. We called a doctor; he called it infantile colic; said he could relieve her, could not cure her. After a short time the effect of his medicine wore off and I was in despair. I tried all known home remedies and innumerable patent medicines. At last I gave her Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and she was easy and slept without narcotics. Since that time I have used a dozen bottles and would not be without it. I am now giving it to another baby and it has the same effect, immediate relief always."—Mrs. Vincent Zidek, Verona, N. D.

"Three years ago I was taken with nervous prostration, which brought on heart trouble, and my heart would palpitate at every little noise. I had smothering spells so that at times I would nearly sink away. I got one bottle each of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I could feel good results from the first few doses. They have since effected a permanent cure. I recommend Dr. Miles' Remedies to all who suffer as I did."—Mrs. G. C. James, Fairmont, Nebraska.

INCREASE OF SALARIES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Governor to Get $5,000 a Year Under Schedule Recommended to Legislature.

Charleston, W. Va., January 24.—A meeting of the house finance and judiciary committee was held yesterday to consider the matter of fixing salaries of state officials under the change in the constitution made by the adoption of certain amendments at the recent election. The result of the conference was the arrangement of the following schedule of salaries which will be incorporated in the Reynolds bill: Governor, $5,000; secretary of state, $4,000; auditor, $4,500; treasurer, $2,500; attorney general, $2,500; state superintendent of schools, $2,500; supreme court judges, $4,800; circuit judges, $3,000, and supreme court clerks, $1,500.

Judge Reynolds, of Mineral county the author of the bill and leader of the majority in the house, wanted to fix the salary of the governor at $10,000, and the other salaries at proportionate figures. This scale was opposed by Delegate Hughes, of Jackson county, and others, whose determined fight resulted in cutting the scale proposed in half. The governor's salary is now $2,700, and that of the other state officers proportionately low, except that the secretary of state and auditor received fees which made the income from those two offices enormous.

EAST END

WORK IN PROGRESS ON NEW MAIN

EAST END WILL SOON GET NEEDED WATER SUPPLY.

Large Force of Men Busily Engaged on the Important Improvement.

At last the crying need of the East End, better fire protection, is about to become a reality. After the proposition of the manufacturers of the East End to lend money to build a 12-inch main to that section of the city, the cost of which to be paid now by them and later deduced from their taxes, has been accepted. Council at its last meeting instructed the water works trustees to go ahead with the work and said that the city would bear half of the interest on the money. The cost of the improvement will reach about $16,500, and the money necessary was to have been furnished by the potteries now and later their taxes were to be collected in proportion.

Work has begun in laying the mains Thursday and a large force of men are engaged. The main will be 12 inches in diameter and will extend to the limits of the East End. It will run through the Midway Land company's addition and smaller mains will be built in all directions to supply water to residents of the various parts of that section of the city. Work will be retarded to some extent at the present time on account of the frozen condition of the ground, but the force at present engaged will be able to make considerable headway, and with the first approach of warmer weather work will proceed with much greater rapidity.

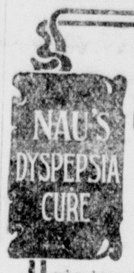

It is probable, had not the potteries of the East End taken up the question, the water service would have been inadequate to meet all requirements. The conditions became so bad that insurance companies refused to take any risks on the plants and the danger of loss from fire became so great that the officials of the companies were compelled to take up the question and bring it to a successful issue. The mains that are now being laid are large enough to afford ample protection to the different plants in case of fire. Four and six-inch mains will be built from the principal main and these will be used to supply water for every day use.

SUSPICION SAID TO REST ON AN EAST END MAN

Hancock County Sheriff Visited That Section Hunting New Cumberland Robbers.

The East End was visited yesterday by Detective Shiffler, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Sheriff C. F. Allison, of New Cumberland. The object of the visit of these two gentlemen was to get a trace of the parties who robbed the safe of W. A. Scott, the jeweler of New Cumberland. As soon as the robbery was discovered Sheriff Allison began working on the case and the robbers were traced to East Liverpool. They came from New Cumberland in a buggy drawn by a white horse, and the rig was traced to the East End. There no further trace of it could be secured.

It is said that three parties are suspected. One is supposed to be a resident of the East End, while the other two live in New Cumberland. It is said that arrests will follow in a short time and that when they are made a sensation will be created. The party under suspicion is said to be quite a prominent resident of the East End and but few persons would suspect him of being connected with such an undertaking. There is a reward of $400 offered for the apprehension of the robbers.

AN ITALIAN'S TRUNK

Found in the Road Led to a Surmise That There Had Been a Burglary.

A trunk was found in the East End this morning on Pennsylvania avenue by A. F. McFarland. It was brought to the East End fire station and it was told where it was found. Nothing further was known about it. At first it was surmised that possibly some one had entered a house and carried away a trunk. It was unlocked and nothing of any value was found in it aside from a hat, shirt and a few other things.

A pocketbook was also found in it, but no money. Later developments showed that the trunk was the property of one of the Italians who is now working on the C. & P. road above the East End. They went over the road last night and several of them were in a bad state of intoxication and failed to notice the trunk when it dropped off the wagon.

REALM OF SPORTS

SHARKEY FOND OF CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Sailor-Pugilist Has Not Missed a Service in Fifteen Years—Training for Jack Munroe.

One of the liberal contributors to a celebration at the French Lick church next Sunday is Tom Sharkey, the pugilist. "I'm a strict churchman on Sunday," said the former sailor to a number of friends, "and in all my travels for the last 15 years I never missed a service."

As the conversation continued Sharkey's mind turned to his coming match with Jack Munroe, says a dispatch from French Lick, Ind.

"I shall enter the ring once more with no other purpose than to demonstrate that I can do with Munroe what Jeffries failed to do," said Tom. "I shall defeat the miner. Then if Jeffries still thinks he is champion he will have to show me.

"Munroe says he wishes to fight me first. I hope he will not change his mind. That $20,000 purse looks good to me. They say money talks. I want to see what the $20,000 will say."

Every detail in Sharkey's day is mapped out in advance, now that he is in active training. In the early morning he drinks freely of the spring waters. He breakfasts after a jaunt over the hills. At 10 he starts on a five-mile run, accompanied by Jack McCormick, his chief trainer; Jim Buckley, his backer, and Jimmy Ryan and Tommy Williams. After a rubdown comes luncheon.

At 2 in the afternoon Sharkey dons his fighting togs and boxes a few rounds with McCormick, Ryan and Williams. He and McCormick take a turn on the wrestling mat. After the final rubdown Sharkey retires to his room for a nap.

Tom has accepted Dan McLeod's chanenge for a wrestling match at Cleveland February 12. It will be his last public engagement before the fight with Munroe.

WELLSVILLE LOST THE LIRST SERIES

Barrels Were Used by the Local Team With Gratifying Results.

The East Liverpool bowling team scored its greatest victory last evening when Captain Shingler's team, of Wellsville, suffered defeat by a total of 82 pins. The series consisted of three games and was the first of three series to be played in the near future.

Wellsville credits its defeat to two distinct reasons; first, because Karr and Shingler have forgotten how to play the game, and second because the East Liverpool aggregation sprung an unexpected diversion, one that Wellsville bowlers had heard about, but never seen before. They had played with men possessing expert ability and men that cast the balls like a cannon shot. Before such they were never daunted. But when East Liverpool came to the front with balls containing a hole for almost every finger and in size the dimensions of a sugar barrel it was up to the Wellsville boys to throw up their hands and allow their visitors to walk away, the winners.

Quite a crowd witnessed the games and enthusiasm was at a high pitch during the entire evening, it being impossible at any time for one to safely predict the results. Neither team played a standard game, and the opinion of all was that the series was one of the poorest ever bowled by the two teams. The individual scores follow:

East Liverpool—McEldowney, 162, 180, 191; Craig, 170, 183, 155; Rigby, 136, 176, 152; Carnahan, 156, 163, 181; Clark, 158, 172, 186.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

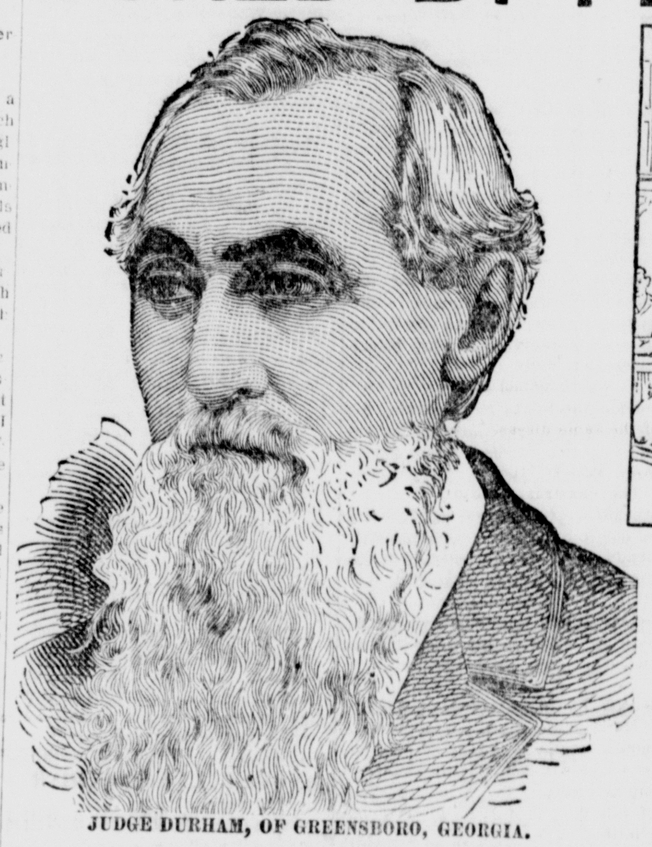

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

A GEORGIA JUDGE

WAS ALARMINGLY AFFLICTED WITH CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

JUDGE DURHAM, OF GREENSBORO, GEORGIA.

Catarrh of the Lungs the First Stage of Consumption.

So All Medical Authorities Agree.

Judge Durham, a well-known local Judge of Greensboro, Ga., had an experience with Peruna well worth reciting. A report had become current among the Judge's friends that he was threatened with consumption. It was feared for a time that Georgia was to lose one of its most prominent and influential citizens.

It was also reported that the Judge had failed to get any relief from any of the medical aid at his command, that he had made use of the now world famous remedy, Peruna, and made a prompt recovery. The affair created quite a sensation in medical circles especially, and the many friends of Judge Durham were not only exceedingly gratified at his recovery, but were enthusiastic in their praises of the remedy that had brought him relief.

The following written statement from the Judge himself set forth the facts:

Greensboro, Ga., March 3, 1900.

"Some time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and in my head. I tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. I concluded that my case was catarrh of the head and lungs, and seeing Peruna so highly recommended I began using it, experiencing the very best results from the first bottle.

"I continued using Peruna for a short while, and have never felt the least symptoms of catarrh since. Peruna is certainly a good medicine, and deserves the highest praise which is given it by the general public."

Judge Durham has been Secretary and Treasurer of the city of Greensboro, Ga., for the past three years, and has been a local judge for ten years.

Dread Consumption.

There are three roads which lead from health to consumption. Over one of these roads pass all of that great multitude of people who die every year of consumption. Each route begins with health and happiness and ends with disease and death.

First road: a slight cold—neglected—settles in the head or throat—chronic catarrh—extends to the lungs—consumption—death.

Second road: a slight cold—neglected cough—settles in the lungs—cough gradually growing worse—consumption—death.

Third road: a cold—neglected—settles in the throat—hoarseness—short breath—consumption—death.

Thousands have just started on one of these roads, all of whom could be easily cured by Peruna. Thousands more are half way to the fatal end of one of these roads who are still curable by a course of treatment by Peruna. Yet other thousands are near the end whose last days could be made bearable and hope of recovery more probable by commencing Peruna without delay.

THOMAS CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR MISHAP

Found Unconscious And Half Frozen in the Road Near His Home With Bad Scalp Wounds.

Jesse Thomas, the carrier on the Negley rural delivery route, who was found a few night ago in an unconscious condition in a lane near his home a short distance from Achor cannot account for his injuries. He left Negley that evening in a sleigh and was in his usual good health. He stopped at a watering trough a mile from his home and after this claims he can remember nothing.

The theory is that he fell asleep and was thrown from the sleigh. He was stunned and lay for several hours in the snow and was almost frozen when found. There were several bad cuts about his face and head. There was no attempt at robbery and foul play is not suspicioned.

Mr. Thomas is now able to resume his work, but is compelled to keep his head in bandages.

In 1850 the United States imported from Mexico goods to the amount of $527,000 and exported to that country $2,012,827 worth of products. In 1902 our imports from Mexico were worth over $40,000,000 and our exports were nearly of the same value. Of course the growth of our sister republic and its progress in industry, mining and railroad building account largely for the increased trade. But the most powerful trade stimulus has been the friendly and intimate relations existing between the two countries. To cultivate such relations with other republics to the southward is a wise commercial policy, deserving every encouragement. Much of South America is still undeveloped, though nature has bestowed her bounties there with a lavishness equalled in few quarters of the globe. It will pay in other than financial and commercial ways to stand well with our neighbors.

At last the antiquated militia laws of the United States have been superseded by something modern. President Roosevelt has signed the new militia bill. To a gathering of cabinet members, congressmen and others which witnessed the signing, the president spoke highly of its merits. He expressed the hope that no president ever would be confronted by such an emergency as would render it necessary for him to avail himself of the services of the troops provided for in the bill, but he congratulated the committee and the country on its enactment, and said he regarded the citizen soldiery of the nation as a most important factor in the protection of the country.

No sign of a reduction in the price of coal has come, although the duty has been removed for several days. No material reduction will take place on this account at all. However, a further advance in prices has been headed off, and even for this relief the country gives thanks.

The Littlefield anti-trust bill has received the approval of the attorney general and presumably that of the president. It will doubtless be pushed in congress, and unless the plain wish of the people is ignored, the measure, or something very like it, will be made a law.

OBITUARY

Henry Aten.

Henry Aten, Wellsville's venerable citizen, whose home was on Fifteenth street, in that city, died yesterday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock, after having been ill for several days. Mr. Aten was 88 years of age, and with the exception of Alexander Wells, was the oldest resident of the city. He was born and had resided there all of his life. He is survived by three children and his wife. The children are: Mrs. C. H. Snediker, Miss Mary Aten and George M. Aten, all of whom are residents of the city. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it will, it is expected, be held Monday at the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mr. Aten engaged in business in Wellsville about 60 years ago as a member of the firm of Catlett & Aten. The business was a wholesale grocery and forwarding commission business. Mr. Aten was a director of the First National bank for a number of years. He was a member of the local lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He had been a member of the order for over 40 years. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

John Shea.

Relatives in this city received word yesterday afternoon of the death in Steubenville of John Shea, a prominent young mill worker, employed at the Mingo steel plant. Mr. Shea was 24 years of age and single. The cause of death was dropsy, with which he had suffered for several weeks. He was one of the best known and most popular young men in Steubenville, and his untimely death is universally regretted by his friends. Mr. Shea is survived by his father and mother, four brothers and two sisters. He was a cousin of Mrs. George Smurthwaite, of 280 Third street, this city, who will attend the funeral, which will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Imagination and Illness.

An interesting experiment was recently made by an English physician in reference to the relative power of imagination of the two sexes. He gave to a hundred of his hospital patients a dose of sweetened water, and shortly afterward entered the room, apparently greatly agitated, saying he had, by mistake, administered a powerful emetic. In a few minutes four-fifths of the subjects were affected by the supposed emetic. These were mainly men, while all of those not affected were women.

Where Licorice Grows.

On the banks of the Tigris and the Euphrates the licorice plant is chiefly grown. These great rivers flow through flat, treeless prairies of uncultivated and nearly uninhabited land. For three months of the year hot winds blow, and the temperature reaches 104 degrees.

For six months of the year the climate is moderate and salubrious, and for three months bleak and wintry, the thermometer going down to 30 degrees at night.

Poetry is not made out of the understanding. The question of common sense is always "What is it good for?" It is a question which would abolish the rose and be triumphantly answered by the cabbage.—Lowell.

Sixth Street Building.

Miss Effie Knowles, who teaches the first grade at the Sixth street building, yesterday had a literary program which was quite creditable for such little ones. Little Myrian Hyams sang a solo which was very good.

Miss Kniwles has a new pupil in her school who is really interesting. The ad is a Russian and has been in this country for only a few months. He is learning to speak English very rapidly and is very apt at reading in the reader. He can read fluently in his little Russian reader which seems very curious to his playmates.

Among the visitors in this room yesterday were Mrs. Parkinson and daughter, of Beaver Falls, who are the guests of Mrs. Dr. Norris.

Miss Martha Caliebe, teacher of the second grade, delighted the children a short time ago when she told them that they might do some paper folding. They made little boats which are used to advantage in decorations.

Miss Caliebe is teaching the children to know and be able to write their parents' names and addresses. This comes in their language work. During the holidays the teacher of this room made a Santa Claus corner in which the children have so much enjoyed that Miss Caliebe has not removed it up to this date.

Upon the blackboard in this corner are pasted all the different pictures of Santa Claus which were possible to obtain. The idea is quite unique.

Miss Grace Morgan has the third grade and the children of this room are much interested in the speer work, in which Miss Morgan formerly took a course, and is having marked success in her school with it.

Besides the regular schedule work, Miss Lena Howard, teacher of the fourth grade, has had some novel work done. It consists in wood-cutting, and each pupil furnished their own thin strips of wood and pen-knife. With these simple implements the girls and boys made yarn winders of different shapes, and the work is quite perfect for pupils so young.

The fifth grade in charge of Miss Croft, has had some story writing, which shows originality on the part of the pupils. This comes in their language work and has been an excellent drill. Their arithmetic work is also a source of interest to them. In this school the following pupils are thus far on the yearly honor roll:

David Reese, Eighth street.
Allen Blower, Fifth street.
Alwyn Purinton, Fifth street.
Roy Winters, May street.
Forest Bennett, May street.

Miss Margaret Roach has the sixth grade pupils who are doing quite a little composition work in connection with their geography work. A short time ago the stories which were written on "Rivers," were very interesting to the girls and boys. In the near future there will be more productions of the same character written on the subject of "Currents."

Miss Elizabeth Stevenson also has the sixth grade pupils, Miss Roach and Miss Stevenson, having the same grade, usually have their music lessons together in which work the two schools are doing excellent work.

Miss Stevenson the past week had some illustrated compositions on the history of the "Oak." These are representative of the good work the girls and boys are doing.

Miss Anna Gardner who is principal of this building, in speaking of attendance, said that the Sixth street building is justly proud of the record made so far during the year in regard to attendance. The pupils take pride in being on time. Three rooms in the building have had no tardiness this school year and six rooms so far this month have had none.

Third Street Building.

The little folks in Miss Andrews' first grade have recently done some work which their teacher, as well as themselves may be proud of.

The work was done with needle and thread on cards, and make a pretty decoration for the school room.

The little folks are also becoming quite apt at using the lead pencil and paper in writing little stories and drawing pictures of them.

Miss May Douglass, teacher of the second grade, has been absent during the past week and Miss Hattie Poe has had charge of her room.

Miss Lena Blake, teacher of the third grade, has had some paper cutting of late, but the children seem most interested in the maps of Columbiana county, which they are at present working on.

Miss Griggs, principal of the building, is having the same usual interest in her regular program, and outside of that the pupils are taking interest in their language work. At present they are learning how to paragraph and are very particular as to how they do this in their composition work.

West End School.

Miss Faulk, teacher of the first grade, is having some organic work in teaching. This, as is known, is an aid to the weaker pupils and has been spoken of by Prof. Rayman and other prominent educators as an excellent method to use at times in the school room.

A decoration in Miss Faulk's room, which would be pleasing in the sight of the children, is the colored autumn leaves which for a while have been arranged across the front of the black board.

Miss Rachel McBane, who teaches the second grade at the West End, has her pupils very enthusiastic over their spelling. Every once in a while they have what they termed the "Foot Ball" spelling. It is on the plan of the old fashioned spelling match but its name and the method used by Miss McBane makes the spelling a topic of interest.

Miss Lowrie is having her third grade girls and boys at present studying the southern section of the United States. They are drawing maps of this section, which are very good. They have just finished writing a number of very good compositions on the growth of cotton. These are instructive, as well as representative of good work.

Herbert Johnson, principal of the West End building, is having the usual interest and enthusiasm of the pupils throughout all his classes.

Among the Pupils.

Jennie Roush is absent from school on account of illness.

Some Missouri Names.

The people have given singular and amusing names to many neighborhoods in Missouri, says the Kansas City Star. In Caldwell county are Zion, Lickfork and Polo. Echo Dell, Gabtown and Dawson City are in Worth county. In Nodaway county are Toad Hollow, Sunrise and Possum Walk, and in Henry county is Coal. Pigeon Creek and Centennial are in Atchison county; River Dois, Splawn Ridge and Civil Bend in Daviess county; Sleepy Hollow and Ivy Hill in Sullivan county, and Esrom Echoes in Butler county. These are just a few names picked at random from the country correspondence of the county seat press. Sometimes a beauty or suggestive name happens in a neighborhood, but generally the aim of the christener seems to have been to confer the harshest or most amusing appellation he could think of.

STRIKING FASHIONS.

Wide Capes on Tailor Mades—Velveteens Popular.

One of the most striking features of the winter tailor made is the large collar or cape arrangement which covers the shoulders and is a revival of the large Richelieu collar of point lace which was worn in the summer. Such a cape gives extra warmth in the winter and makes a fine background for a stole of fur.

The costliest simplicity is the keynote of the best fashion, but some of lesser lights will aim at elaboration. The woman with a small income must use much discrimination in buying just now, as styles are likely to undergo a great change. She can, however, make little mistake if she buys anything that is really good of its kind.

In Paris they are wearing a great deal of velveteen, both striped and spotted. Sometimes it is trimmed with fur. It is being used in pale shades for reception gowns, especially in fawn and gray. Parisians always show their good taste by dressing in complete harmony, and their fancy for gray is very pronounced.

The pretty blouse shown is of velvet with a front of white silk and chiffon applique.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Green Is on the Wane—New Shades of Red and Orange.

There is no doubt that the popularity of green is on the wane in exclusive circles, whereas the fashionable champagne shade is in the ascendant and will continue so for some time. The new mulberry red is in vogue, and so are, even more than ever, smart combinations of black and white.

There is a new shade of orange which runs into flames—that is to say, it is considerably shot with pink. This will be immensely popular and extremely becoming when subdued with lace.

Soft laces, tulles, gauzes and crepes de chine, as well as nets, are all pressed into service for evening wear. Despite the use of some beautiful satins and brocades the softer fabrics are certainly the most popular, while the all lace dress is never really out of fashion.

A great deal of oriental embroidery is used both for day and evening wear. Colored cloth embroideries are extremely useful on cloth frocks. In fact, with the exception of gold braid, they are the only permissible trimming. Nothing is smarter for the morning gown of utility than the practical blue or black cheviot or rough goods simply made, heavily stitched and pressed, with the slightest touch of harmonious color introduced into the waistcoat revers or cuffs.

An up to date maid's cap and apron are here shown.

LIEUTENANT HINDS

Copyright, 1901, by W. A. Page

The well groomed and picturesque young girl who had just ascended the imposing flight of stone steps leading to the northern entrance of the state, war and navy department building in Washington paused at the watchman's desk just inside the massive doorway.

"I wish to send a card to Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy department," she said, with just a tinge of the aristocratic arrogance often to be found within the exclusive circles of army and navy official society.

The watchman pondered. "Don't remember the name, miss," he said, scratching his head. "Are you sure it's the navy and not the army?"

"Of course I am—the navy."

"Well, take a chair, miss, and I'll look through the navy register. I thought I knew most of 'em, but sometimes a new one comes from China or the Philippines, where he's won a commission, without ever entering this here department building."

"Lieutenant Hinds has not been away from Washington in four years," said the young lady. "It seems strange you do not know him."

"No such name," declared the guardian of the door, slamming the naval register shut. "And let me tell you, miss, you must have the name wrong, since if he ain't in the naval register he ain't any lieutenant in the navy of your Uncle Samuel."

The young lady became visibly annoyed.

"Kindly direct me to your superior," she said decidedly. "I have made no mistake in the name. It is Lieutenant John Hinds of the navy. He told me so himself."

"Well, if you are so sure, it ain't for me to say you're wrong," was the kindly answer. "You might see the chief clerk down that corridor to the left."

"Thank you," was the reply, and the young lady, evidently relieved, started in the direction indicated. She turned the corner into the long and dimly illuminated corridor on the navy department side and ran plump into a young man who was acting as the motive power for a rubber wheeled truck loaded with several stacks of books.

"I—I assure you—I beg your pardon"—he began.

"Oh—forgive me—it is so dark"—she began. Then—

"Why, Jack, here you are!"

The man uttered an exclamation of surprise and annoyance. "The deuce"—he began. "Why, Hettie, what are you doing here?"

"I wanted to see you," she commenced, "and I couldn't wait until after office hours. You see"—

"But, confound it," began the man—"I mean, forgive me. Only you know I always said I hated to receive visitors at the office."

"I know, Jack, but mother is ill. You left the house before I came down to breakfast. Mother was worried about the boarders and was afraid they'd all leave when they heard she was sick. If you stay, they will all remain, because they all like you. Besides"—

"Besides what, Hettie?"

"Well, I've been thinking about last night—and the future—and—well, you know, I just couldn't stay away from you."

"The dearest little woman in the world," he responded tenderly. "I was a brute to speak so to you, but I was surprised at seeing you here the first time, and, besides, these books must be taken immediately to the secretary."

"Why, John," said the girl, "are you carrying books and pulling that truck? I always thought lieutenants and naval officers had men to do things for them. And do you know that horrid man at the door didn't know you and said there wasn't any Lieutenant Hinds."

"My dear girl," hurriedly ejaculated the young man, "do you mean to say you have been asking in this building for me? Why in the world"—

"Oh, I'm sorry I came now," murmured the girl, with a suggestion of a sob. "I thought that my own lieutenant of the navy would be glad to see me."

"Of course I am," said the man tenderly, yet anxiously. "There, forgive me, and I'll explain this evening why I must not have any one calling here at the office. The secretary becomes simply furious if any of the clerks—I mean any one—receives company. Even now I am late, and the secretary wants these books. Goodby, dear, until this evening."

The girl turned to go. A resonant footstep on the marble floor of the almost deserted corridor interrupted them. A tall and dignified man strode by them in the semidarkness. By the feeble electric light he saw the two people and the truck of books.

"Hinds," broke in a stern and commanding voice, "take those books at once to the office. When you have done so, I wish to see you." And the secretary of the navy continued on his way.

"Oh, Lord!" cried the man. "I'm done for now! That was the secretary. Run along, quick. I must go."

"If you go, so will I. And I shall tell this secretary what I think of him for being so rude to you. I see nothing wrong in your speaking to me."

The man turned. "Wait for me here. I might as well face the music at once." And, grabbing the handle of the truck, he strode rapidly after the vanishing figure of the secretary. He reached the outer office of that official without once looking behind him. Then he entered the secretary's private office. The secretary had just seated himself.

"Hinds," he commenced, "I am sorry to see that you are entertaining ladies in the department during office hours. Are you married?"

"No, sir."

"Then there isn't even the excuse that you are receiving a visit from your wife. But I must have you distinctly understand that I do not approve of strange ladies or any kind of ladies visiting men in office. I don't care who the lady is, and I don't wish to know. I just want you to understand"—

"But you shall know who the lady is," broke in an indignant voice. "I am Miss Hettie Neville, and I am the fiancee of Lieutenant John Hinds of the United States navy."

The secretary seemed puzzled. Hinds sank into a chair. The secretary was the first to speak.

"My dear young lady, I do not know how you entered here or why you are so indignant toward me. I do not wish to seem to criticise your conduct, but Hinds here has always been one of my most faithful aids, and I do not wish him to set a bad example to the others in the office."

"Do you call getting married a bad example?" cried Hettie. "Why should you find fault with Lieutenant Hinds if his affianced wife wishes to speak to him for a few moments?"

"Lieutenant Hinds?" repeated the secretary politely. "I do not know any such lieutenant."

"No such lieutenant!" was the amazed ejaculation. "Why, here is Lieutenant Hinds before you."

The secretary leaned back in his chair, laughing. Hinds seemed embarrassed. Hettie was becoming more and more angry. Hinds broke in:

"I am very sorry, Mr. Secretary," he commenced, rising to his feet, "but I have an unpleasant confession to make. You see, sir, when I first got my job here some years ago we messengers in the department fell to calling each other by titles, the same as the officers. Three or four of us lived in the same boarding house, and just for a lark we used these handles at the dinner table. Then I moved to the house kept by Miss Hettie's mother, and the very first day one of my chums took dinner with me. All through the meal he kept on using that infernal 'lieutenant.' I never thought any harm would come of it, so I never contradicted it. I never intended to deceive you, Hettie, and I was going to tell you all about it tonight. I'll never do it again, sir, and if Miss Hettie will accept a $900 a year messenger of the navy department instead of a real lieutenant, why, sir, I'll promise she will never again interrupt me when I'm carrying your books."

The secretary was smiling. "And will Miss Hettie accept the $900 a year messenger?" he asked.

"Oh, sir," cried Hettie, "indeed she will, and she's very sorry she was so rude."

The secretary took up a pen and commenced to write. "Then that's all settled," he said. "Now, 'Lieutenant' John Hinds, take this paper to the appointment clerk. You are placed on the rolls as a special clerk at $1,200 and are detailed for duty in my private office. I wish you good morning. Permit me to congratulate you both."

The Japanese and Their Fans.

To the Japanese the fan is not merely a means to the end of cooling the atmosphere. It is a thing of meaning, of art. It tells a story, and there is even a suggestiveness in the manner of using or wearing it. The whole history of Japan could be read from fans if enough of them were put together, and every political event of importance is pictured on these airy trifles. There are different fans for every conceivable occasion. Even dolls have their own fans, and children have theirs. The geisha girls have a particular kind of fan, and jugglers, too, use one with appropriate decorations. There is a fan used only at the solemn tea feast, and a war fan of iron, covered with lacquer. Generals have silk fans, with iron sticks, and there is a dangerous dagger fan. The bamboo water fan is dipped in water frequently while being used to make the air cooler. The ancient court fans of Japan were folding fans of wood, decorated with silk artificial flowers, and each noble family had its own flower, that no one else dared use. Color, shape and decoration of the Japanese fan all have their meaning, the flowers and birds their symbolism. Thus to give a fan with a flight of white storks upon it is to wish long life, while a cobweb design is for

SENATE DOES LITTLE.

Statehood Bill Again Occupies Entire Time of Upper National Body.

PRIVATE PENSIONS IN HOUSE.

Widow of General Franz Siegel Allowed $100 a Month, Widow of General Negley $50 and Widow of Rear Admiral Picking $40—Cabinet Meets.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate yesterday. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred, in which senators on both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill. After an executive session the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of General Franz Siegel, at $100 a month; the widow of General James S. Negley, at $50, and the widow of Rear Admiral Henry F. Picking, at $40.

The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the Fifty-eighth congress.

Lessler Hearing Begins.

The house committee on naval affairs yesterday began the investigation authorized by the house in consequence of the charges made by Representative Lessler, of New York, during a recent session of the naval affairs committee, that he had been approached with an offer of money for his vote in committee in favor of construction of submarine torpedo boats.

Adopted Anti-Trust Bill.

The judiciary committee of the house yesterday adopted the anti-trust bill which was prepared by the sub-committee of which Representative Littlefield, of Maine, is chairman. The bill was reported to the full committee yesterday by the sub-committee as a substitute for the Littlefield publicity bill. The committee authorized the bill to be favorably reported to the house.

Panama Canal Treaty.

Yesterday's meeting of the cabinet was one of the most important held in several weeks. All the members of the cabinet were present. Secretary Moody presented a draft of the Panama canal treaty, signed Thursday evening, and both the president and his associates in the cabinet expressed satisfaction with the results achieved through the long and difficult negotiations.

The treaty is identical with that drawn by this government several months ago and at that time submitted to the Colombian government, with the single exception of the amount of annuity to be paid Colombia for the right of way of the canal.

Accepted Annuity of $250,000.

The Colombian government, through Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires here, agreed to accept an annuity of $250,000. This was entirely satisfactory to the president and Secretary Hay, and while it is a larger amount than was offered at first it is believed by administration officials that the senate undoubtedly will accept the figure named in the treaty, particularly after it is made clear that a lesser amount would deprive Colombia of income which she is now actively receiving. The treaty was sent to the senate late yesterday afternoon.

Venezuelan Situation.

The Venezuelan situation was discussed at length, but it can be said by authority that no change in the attitude of the United States is in contemplation at this time. This government will continue its policy of sitting tight. The bombardment by the German warships of Fort San Carlos is regretted sincerely by officials of the administration, because of their apprehension that it may complicate seriously the pending negotiations between Minister Bowen as the representative of Venezuela and the representatives of the powers. However, while the administration regards the bombardment as unwarranted, the United States has no intention of taking official cognizance of it.

Anti-Trust Legislation Considered.

Some consideration was given to the proposed anti-trust legislation now pending in congress. Regret was expressed that the impression prevailed in some quarters that the bill reported to the house from the judiciary committee was an "administration measure." It is made clear that it is not an administration measure, and does not represent entirely the views of the administration on what anti-trust legislation should be enacted by congress. It can be said to be the hope of the president and his cabinet that anti-trust legislation along the lines indicated by Attorney General Knox in the bills which he submitted to the house judiciary committee may be enacted at this session.

BISHOP BURGESS ON DIVORCE.

Says Roman Catholic Church Has Stood Like Bulwark for Inviolability of Marriage Tie.

New York, Jan. 24.—Bishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island, made an address at the annual dinner of the Church club Thursday night, in which he commended the attitude of the Roman Catholic church on the divorce question. The bishop said in part:

"The Roman Catholic church has stood like a bulwark against divorce. It has stood for the inviolability of the marriage tie and the unity of the home. Because of that it is in the world today one of the greatest forces for progress and for Christianity.

"Our prayer book says one thing, and that thing is all right, but our canons tell quite a different story. The great work of the Protestant Episcopal church is to harmonize prayer books and canons. When our canons declare that communicants in our faith once married are married for life, then the Protestant Episcopal church will have done what it ought to do for the cause of civilization and the cause of Christ."

The bishop said that the young people of today grow up with the idea that there is nothing binding in the marriage tie and that it can be broken almost as soon as assumed.

Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws.

New York, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane, of Albany, has been made chairman and Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary. The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage. Work is to be undertaken at once by the secretary of the committee.

Coal Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The independent operators of the Wyoming and Lackawanna region, in which Scranton and Wilkesbarre are situated, occupied the time of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. The attorneys representing the 30 companies in these two regions called about a dozen witnesses who represented different concerns. In the examination of witnesses the lawyers tried to avoid as much as possible the repetition of testimony already presented by the larger companies. Therefore the examination yesterday was confined to the particular company with which it was called. Nothing of importance was elicited. There was unanimity of opinion, however, that the lack of discipline among the miners and the restriction of their earning capacity, testified by witnesses for the large coal companies, is more pronounced since the union came into the anthracite field than it was before the men organized. The independent operators in the Hazleton regions opened their case today. The firm of G. B. Markle & Co. is among these operators.

Body Identified.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 24.—A body found by the life saving crew yesterday at Harvey Cedars was later identified by Captain Hawkins, of the wrecked bark Abiel Abbott, as that of Henry Carten, of New York, one of the seamen drowned when the vessel was wrecked on Wednesday morning. Four men were drowned and one seaman died after being rescued. The bodies of three of the drowned have been recovered; that of Timothy Brandt is still missing. The Abiel Abbott has completely broken up.

Massachusetts Investigating.

Boston, Jan. 24.—An investigation of the coal situation by a special legislative committee was began here yesterday. The chairman announced in opening the session that the committee was sitting for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions as to the supply of coal, the methods of transportation and the price for which it was or is being sold.

Italians on Strike.

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—Work on the Harrisburg cut-off on the Northern Central railway between Enola and Goldsboro has been temporarily suspended by a strike of 400 Italian laborers employed by Contractor H. S. Karbaugh & Co., who demand $1.50 for a day's work of nine hours and coal for their shanties.

Chief Deitsch Dead.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Colonel Philip Deitsch, superintendent of police and widely known to members of his calling, died yesterday.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Dublin, Jan. 24.—Timothy Harrington, M. P., was yesterday re-elected lord mayor of Dublin for the third successive time.

London, Jan. 24.—Westminster chapel, one of the best known churches in London, has decided to invite Rev. Samuel George Smith, of St. Paul, Minn., to fill the pulpit.

London, Jan. 24.—Colonel Lynch was found guilty of high treason yesterday and was sentenced to death. Although formally sentenced to be hanged, Lynch's sentence will no doubt be commuted.

Genoa, Italy, Jan. 24.—The condition of Hubbard T. Smith, United States consul general at Cairo, who is in the Protestant hospital here, is growing worse. He is suffering with dropsy of the kidneys.

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very close; consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —I have been ailing from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruation with fearful headaches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone.

"I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. MINNIE TIETZ, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more.

"I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial."—MRS. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Free Medical Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women to write to her for advice. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will be seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: —Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigestion and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health.

"I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. BERTHA E. DEIRKINS, 25½ Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Ancient Decorative Art.

Though it is difficult to say where the decorative value of pottery and of china began to be appreciated, there is little doubt that it originated in the east. Ancient Chinese drawings still in existence show that the process of manufacture has varied but little in the course of the years and that many contrivances claimed as modern European inventions have been known for centuries in the east.

In Chinese official annals, which are said to be perfectly authentic, the invention of porcelain is dated at about 200 years before the Christian era, although Father Entrecolles, residing in China at the commencement of the seventeenth century, dates it long before this, and tells us in a most interesting manner of the great porcelain works of King Te Ching, one of the most ancient and celebrated of the Chinese factories. He says that in his time there were no fewer than 3,000 ovens at work, which gave to the town at night the appearance of one vast furnace with innumerable chimneys.

Knew What She Wrote.

The need of a lead pencil caused a lady who rode in a street car the other day no small embarrassment.

She sat running over her shopping list when suddenly she thought of something to add to it. She looked in her pocketbook and ransacked all its divisions, cardcase and all, but no pencil did she find. Modestly she hesitated about asking her neighbors, but with a quick resolve she finally leaned toward a gentleman seated by her and, holding up her list, said loud enough for those in adjacents seats to hear, "Excuse me, sir, may I borrow your necktie a moment?"

The gentleman's astonishment was expressed in his silent facial contortions until the lady reddened deeply.

"My necktie, madam?" he replied, with arched eyebrows.

"Didn't I say 'pencil?'" she asked. And then everybody, grinning behind newspapers, knew what the lady added to her list.—Exchange.

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptoms of kidney distress passed away."

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

The rage for embroideries and incrustations of lace is greater than ever, and we shall do well, therefore, to use any we may have by us.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de soie, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

SAN CARLOS DEFIANT.

Fort Still in Possession of Venezuelans and Bombardment Is Going On.

HAS BEEN NO MATERIAL CHANGE

President of State of Maracaibo Issues Decree Calling to Arms All Citizens from Sixteen to Sixty Years of Age Members of Militia.

Maracaibo, Jan. 24.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Fort San Carlos was in the possession of the government forces and the bombardment by the German warships was still going on. There has been no material change in the situation. The gunboat Panther was the only vessel to come inside the bar. Communication with the fort is very difficult. Great excitement prevails in Maracaibo.

President Aranguren, of the state of Maracaibo, has, by a decree published Thursday night, called to arms all citizens, from 16 to 60 years of age, belonging to the militia, in order to resist the possible landing of German forces at Lake Maracaibo. About 500 men immediately answered the call.

Rifle Shots Were Heard.

La Guaira, Jan. 24.—The former Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador, now in the possession of the Germans, arrived here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Puerto Cabello and anchored near the shore. Her presence caused great popular indignation. At 3 o'clock several rifle shots were heard in the distance. Shortly afterward the Restaurador left her anchorage and moved to a position outside the harbor and under the protection of the guns of the British cruiser Tribune.

Died of Hunger and Thirst.

Caracas, Jan. 24.—It developed that the Dutch cruiser De Puyter, which arrived at La Guaira on Wednesday from the island of Los Poques, which is mostly inhabited by charcoal burners trading with La Guaira, found that 12 men and 5 women had died of hunger and thirst, as a result of the blockade measures of the allied powers, which prohibited schooners from carrying provisions and water to the island.

As previously cabled the De Puyter left provisions and water sufficient to last eight days with the inhabitants of Los Poques, who are to be conveyed in a schooner to Curacao at the earliest possible date.

Scheder's Official Report.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—Commodore Scheder, commander of the German fleet in Venezuelan waters, officially reported the bombardment of Fort San Carlos from Maracaibo, under date of Jan. 21, as follows:

"On the 17th instant, while the Panther was passing the Maracaibo bay, she was unexpectedly attacked by Fort San Carlos, which opened a heavy fire on her. On this the Panther replied and a cannonade was exchanged for half an hour. Owing to the difficulties of navigation the Panther then desisted.

"In order to exact an immediate punishment for this attack, the more so as the Venezuelan government had proclaimed it a victory, I bombarded the fort, with the Vineta, on the 21st instant, and destroyed it."

Fired Shot as Warning.

London, Jan. 24.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"On Wednesday the German gunboat Panther, which was insecurely anchored off San Carlos, moved in close to the Castillo battery, which fired one shot as a warning. The Panther disregarded the hint. Another shot was fired from the Castillo battery. Thereupon the Panther opened fire and continued the cannonade for half an hour, when she retired. The Vineta immediately began a heavy bombardment of Fort San Carlos, seriously damaging the fort and the houses in the vicinity."

Believed Acting Under Orders.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Notwithstanding the irritation felt here in government circles as what is regarded as the purely needless and revengeful bombardment of the Venezuelan forts by the German warships, the conclusion at the present time is that this incident will not prevent Mr. Bowen from successfully carrying out his mission of peace. The utterances of Count von Buelow in the German reichstag Thursday are regarded here as conveying the intimation that the German warships are acting by direct orders from their home government, with the purpose of avenging themselves for the repulse of the Panther

WHAT MUST HAPPEN TO THE FILIPINOS

By JACOB GOULD SCHURMAN, President of Cornell University

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has said that the flag will stay in the Philippines as long as it will stay in Alaska. That means forever.

I HOPE OUR FLAG WILL STAY IN THOSE ISLANDS UNTIL ITS WORK THERE IS DONE.

But if it is to stay forever one of two things must happen—WE SHALL EITHER HOLD THE FILIPINOS IN SUBJECTION OR WE MUST ADMIT THE ISLAND OF LUZON AND THE VISCAYAN ISLANDS AS UNITED STATES TERRITORIES.

ONE OF CHRISTIANITY'S PERVERSIONS

By Right Rev. Dr. FREDERICK BURGESS, Bishop of Long Island

OF ALL THE STRANGE PERVERSIONS OF CHRISTIANITY THE MOST CURIOUS IS THAT ONE OF MODERN TIMES WHICH PROMISES TO CURE ALL ILLS—TO WORK MIRACLES BY IGNORING THE PHYSICAL—AND WHICH ASKS ITS DISCIPLES TO BELIEVE IN CHRIST FOR THE PRECIOUS BOON OF HEALTH. IT IS THE SPIRIT OF THE MEN FROM WHOM CHRIST TURNED AWAY, AND IT HAS BEEN IN VOGUE ALL DOWN THE AGES.

in its first attacks upon the forts. However this may be, the United States government cannot at this moment make proper excuse for entering into this quarrel between Germany and Venezuela. It is again and emphatically stated that when the United States exercised its good offices to the extent of bringing the allies and the Venezuelan government into negotiations it exhausted its proper functions in that direction and could not do more. Mr. Bowen is again declared to be not the representative of the United States, but of Venezuela, and the state department is very careful to preserve the appearance of independence on Mr. Bowen's part by declining to receive any reports from him or even encouraging his visits.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Much Complaint Regarding the Slow Movement of Freight—Fuel Situation Still Serious.

New York, Jan. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says in part:

Heavy transactions in merchandise are reported, but there is much complaint regarding the slow movement of freight. The situation as to general lines is aggravated by the precedence given fuel over all other freight except live stock and perishable goods. Notwithstanding the extensive increase in transportation facilities during the past year, some roads have been compelled to decline consignments, and in many cases where a large number of cars were desired only one was provided. Earnings thus far available for January surpass last year's by 5 per cent. It is conspicuous in practically every section of the country that, despite high prices, buying is liberal and of the better qualities of goods, while dealings as a rule are on more of a cash basis. Demand for building materials is unusually brisk for the season, and prices of lumber at the south have advanced. Although fortunate sections are receiving a better supply of fuel, the situation is still serious, and many pig iron furnaces have been added to the idle list. As producers have sold their capacity for some time there is little new business and no effort on the part of sellers to secure contracts. Hence prices of pig iron are steady and new transactions light.

As to the demand for finished products requirements are still pressing in railway equipment, both structural and rolling stock, and it is stated that orders have been placed for as many tons of steel rails as were produced in the full year 1902. Steel for buildings, bridges and ships finds a ready market and implement makers are becoming more active. New orders for merchant steel are light, but old contracts are still numerous.

With the exception of a few of the finest grades, woolen goods for the fall of 1903 are now fully opened. Firmness has characterized the course of the leading staples, an abundant demand being in evidence, while available supplies are restricted by traffic conditions.

Failures for the week numbered 265 in the United States, against 301 last year, and 27 in Canada, compared with 28 a year ago.

BURGLARS GET $6,000 IN CASH

They Then Engage in Revolver Duel With Citizens and Bank Officers and Finally Escape.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 24.—At Somerton, O., early yesterday morning, seven men blew up the safe in the Belmont bank, owned by E. J. Hoge & Co., secured $6,000 in cash, and escaped towards the Ohio river in a buggy and light spring wagon stolen from farmers living near the town. The explosion awoke neighbors and a posse started in pursuit.

The men entered Powhattan, O., in three parties. Two men, one carrying a satchel, were ferried across to the West Virginia shore. Three others crossed in a skiff which they stole and engaged in a revolver duel with 30 citizens and officers of the bank. Two others were pursued by officers, running north of town to a railroad bridge, where they made a stand and fought the posse until the ammunition of the officers was exhausted and they were compelled to retreat. None have been arrested.

Will Ask for Increase.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—It is announced here that the engineers of the Erie railroad will ask for an increase in wages when the general board of engineers will be in New York, on Feb. 15. The present rate of wages is said to be 5½ cents per mile. The men state that they have not had an increase in their wages in 15 years. The engineers have been holding meetings for some time past, and the schedules to be asked for were made up at these conferences.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Entirely Colorless and Activity Lowest of the Year—Money on Call Steady—Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 24.—Yesterday's stock market was entirely colorless again and the level of activity fell below that of Thursday, which was the lowest since the opening of the year.

The large gains in cash by the banks both from the interior and on sub-treasury operations promised a rise in reserves of nearly $7,000,000. There may be large loans to figure in that item of the banks. The market closed steady, but near the lowest.

Money on call steady at 3¾@4 per cent, closing at 3¾. Time money in light demand; 60 days, 4½@4¾ per cent; 90 days, 4½@4¾ per cent; six months, 4½@4¾.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,840,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Conspiracy Hearing Begun.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The fight of the indicted coal men to clear themselves of guilt of "conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade," was begun before Judge Horton late yesterday, when the case against the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association was called for preliminary hearing. Motion to quash in behalf of each of the 18 corporations composing the association were quickly overruled and pleas of "not guilty" entered. A stipulation of facts was then presented to the court, which had been agreed to by all parties to the suit, and it was announced that a date for the hearing of arguments and the filing of briefs would be fixed early next week. At the request of State Attorney Deneen the case against the Braceville Coal company was dismissed.

Three Killed.

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—Three men were killed, three so badly injured that there is no chance for recovery, and two others were seriously hurt, in an explosion of dynamite in the shaft of the Wabash tunnel, on Mt. Washington. The dead men were blown to atoms. Two of the injured are so badly torn and broken that there is not the slightest chance for their recovery. The dead are Frank Taylor, white; Harry Florence, white, and Thomas Harvey, colored. Injured: James McGovern, white; —— Hill, white, and —— Struthers, colored. The cause of the explosion is a mystery, but an investigation has been started.

Despondent Boy Kills Himself.

Burton, O., Jan. 24.—Ray Burgess, aged 11, committed suicide at his home in Grove, near here, Thursday night. He had been despondent for a week or more and Thursday he came from school and went direct to his room. About supper time a revolver shot was heard, and his parents, rushing to his room, found him dead upon the floor.

Constipation

Ruined Dr. Dill's Health.

DR. DILL, St. Louis, Mo.

It will treat you the same way. You can not be constipated and remain strong and well. Indigestion and dyspepsia are its symptoms. If you belch you have constipation. Dr. Dill first got constipation, then he lost his appetite, he became weak and sick, his kidneys went back on him and he had to give up his practice.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

just as it will cure you. Constipation is the rotting of undigested food in the stomach. A physic won't cure. It makes it worse. Pills, Castor-oil, Salts and other such treatments are no good in a case like this. Dr. Dill tried them all. Mull's Grape Tonic will not physic a well man. Its action on a constipated person is quick and permanent.

A St. Louis Doctor Tells How He Was Cured.

Gentlemen:—I beg to thank you for calling my attention to Mull's Grape Tonic, some time ago.

My profession requires close application and confinement to the office, and after several years of this indoor, sedentary life, my health completely broke down; my stomach was bad, my liver out of sorts and I felt tired and worn-out all the time.

When you first showed me Mull's Grape Tonic I was skeptical, but took your word for it, and now after taking several bottles, feel as well as I ever did in my life. It is a splendid medicine for the stomach and bowels, and the best general tonic I ever saw. I thank you again for calling my attention to Mull's Grape Tonic. Yours very respectfully,

810 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo. DR. E. A. DILL.

This is not the only doctor who recommends this great cure. Mull's Grape Tonic is pleasant to take. It will cleanse the entire system of all disease. It will make strong muscles and solid flesh because it makes pure rich blood. If it fails, you can have your money back. The grape is the greatest flesh-builder known. Mull's Grape Tonic is in no way like cathartics and pills. Most people who are run down are sufferers from constipation. Cod-liver oil won't help them because it increases the constipation habit. Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure. For a large sample bottle send 10 cents to cover postage to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill. All druggists sell Mull's Grape Tonic. 50 cents a bottle.

Police Made Raid.

New York, Jan. 24.—Detectives yesterday made a raid on a loft in Prince street, arrested Hyman Filarsky, the reputed head of a fur company, and seized fur garments to the value of $20,000. Following soon on the raid came a number of fur dealers, who identified the garments as having been stolen from their establishments. Filarsky's plan, according to the police, was first to ship the goods to Chicago and have them reshipped to New York to avoid suspicion. He sold only to out of town dealers.

J., Jan. 24.—Joseph Arthur, of Lawnside, a village a few miles south of here, accidentally shot and killed his 2-year old child Thursday night while he was examining a revolver, which he believed to be empty. Arthur was holding the baby on his knee while inspecting the weapon, which in some way yet unexplained was discharged, killing the child.

ON TH' TRAIN.

When me an' my pa took a trip on th' cars
From here clean t' Kansas, one time,
We slep' in a sleeper both nights on th' way.
An' pa gived th' porter a dime!
We done lots of things that big travelers does,
An' pa wasn't rattled a grain,
But one thing I 'member th' best of all wuz
A feller we met on th' train.

That feller had traveled th' awfullest lot!
He'd been t' Tacomy an' back;
He'd been t' El Paso one time when his train
Runned into another, right smack;
He'd et in th' diner till things didn't taste
No good 'cause they served 'em too plain,
I wish I wuz half as well posted as him—
Th' feller we met on th' train!

He set an' told pa of th' times he had bluffed
Conductors an' brakemen an' all
An' made 'em take tickets 'at wasn't no good;
"Just done it," he said, "on my gall."
He'd fooled th' train robbers—'twasn't no trick;
These skeered people give 'im a pain.
My pa set an' looked an' jist listened t' him,
This feller we met on th' train.

I said t' my pa when th' feller got off,
"I wisht we'd been t' places that way."
An' pa he jist smiled kind of pitiful like
An' didn't have nothin' t' say.
But when we got home I wuz tellin' th' folks
An' pa said: "Let up on that strain.
When you git as old as your pa, you'll fergit
Th' liars you meet on th' train."

Character in the Hat.

"Does the hat reveal character?" said an observant person whose specialty is character reading. "Of course it does.

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments.

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas, and their big hats will often be found in conjunction with loose, easy fitting clothes, for in this, as in other matters, the body reflects the mind.

"I distrust equally the man who wears his hat at the back of his head and he who habitually goes about with it tilted to one side. The first is of a candid, easy going type, but apt to be flighty; the latter, with a disposition for sport and frolic, is at the same time often frivolous and conceited. Neither of them, however, will be a coxcomb, like the man whose hat is too small for him, nor 'deep' and crafty, like the wearer of a hat which is always pulled down over the eyes."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Constipation Makes Bad Blood.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CURES CONSTIPATION

Constipation is the rotting and decaying of undigested food in the alimentary canal. Disease germs arise from this festering mass, which find their way into the blood. The blood becomes impure and shortly the entire system gives way to the unhealthy condition.

You cannot cure a case like this by taking pills or other common cathartics. A laxative will not do. A blood medicine is ineffective. Mull's Grape Tonic is a gentle and mild laxative in addition to being a blood-making and strength-giving tonic which immediately builds up the wasted body and makes rich, red blood that carries its health-giving strength to every tissue at every heart beat.

Mull's Grape Tonic is made of pure crushed fruit juices and is sold under a positive guarantee.

Doctors prescribe it. All druggists sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

Send 10c to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., to cover postage on large sample bottle.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

Mrs. Helena Blau.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

A BRILLIANT SINGER

Douglas Powell Has Made a Remarkable Success in Various Roles.

The possibilities of a vocalist endowed with the gift of versatility is exemplified in the career of Mr. Douglas Powell, who, by his masterly interpretation of very varied roles, has won for himself such a great success in England and Australia. Possessing a very powerful, resonant and extended baritone voice, ranging from the low E to the high G, being a good musician and a linguist of no mean capability, Mr. Powell is enabled to have a very extensize repertoire of the most beautiful in vocal music, and to render it in English, French, German or Italian.

His renditions not only display an intimate acquaintance with the form and style of the different composers, and the periods of their music, but also have that atmosphere of nationality which is so essential to all good interpretations will appear at the Grand next Monday evening with the Pittsburg Orchestra under the auspices of the B. Perique Strong as Poison.

In many of the tobacconists' shops perique tobacco chopped into granulated form is displayed for use by pipe smokers. This is the same perique that has been grown by Frenchmen and Spaniards in Louisiana since before our Revolutionary war. It is a jet black, intensely strong tobacco, famous for its flavor and its ability to wreck the nerves.

It is grown and made in St. James parish, Louisiana, and the crop only amounts to about 100,000 pounds a year.

The makers follow the primitive processes which were in use 150 years ago. The stems are taken from the leaves and the latter put into a box under a heavy gradual pressure. This causes the juice to run out, even through the wood of the boxes. A gradual process of fermentation and curing takes place.

At the end of three months the tobacco is rolled into "carrots" and wrapped in cloths tightly bound with ropes. It is left in that way for a year before it is ready for market.

The flavor of perique is considered delicious by all pipe smokers, but is too strong. The tendency of smokers is continually toward lighter and lighter tobacco, and perique is now used almost solely for mixing with very mild tobaccos to flavor it.

The Rally For Liberty.

"Gentlemen," said the speaker, rising to his full height and almost carrying his hearers off their feet with his matchless eloquence, "the time has come for us to assert our independence. We are freeborn citizens. God has given us as a birthright the privilege of governing ourselves as we see fit. We bow our knee to no kings and no princes. We have only ourselves to blame if we permit others to deny the liberty that our fathers have bequeathed to us—the liberty made sacred by their hallowed blood. I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to arise in your might. Let us exhibit our manhood. Let us teach the world the great lesson of independence. Let us"—

"Say, gents," yelled the janitor as he suddenly stepped out upon the platform, "I'm goin' to shut this hall up now. Clear out o' here. I've been up three nights with the toothache, and I'm goin' to bed early. Git, before I turn out the lights on you!"

One minute and seven seconds later the doors were locked, and the great rally for liberty was one of the things that had been.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Complete Suits Are Made From Lightweight Skins.

Furs were never more beautiful than they are this year, and women are not content with fur wraps only, but must have suits of fur.

Moleskin has more or less taken the place of sealskin, and it lends itself admirably to almost any shape. As a matter of fact moleskin is not heavy, and is therefore one of the best skins to use for blouse and skirts. The prettiest way of treating these skirts is to let in on the hips some stitched cloth of the same shade, fitting the skirt tightly to the knees, where some strappings of cloth may be arranged at the top of a shaped flounce. There must be a certain amount of fullness in these plain skirts, and the flounce should just clear the ground. The bolero or short blouse to correspond can be finished with a cloth or stitched silk band, thereby avoiding necessary bulk at the waist.

Fur as well as cloth coats are usually lined with cream satin with inner frills of lace when an extra elaborate effect is desired at the neck and sleeves.

Enamel or paste buttons are also added, and these sometimes figure as ornaments on the large fur toques which go with these suits. A large moleskin toque relieved with white chiffon and white ostrich feathers is very smart.

A Bit of Diplomacy.

An American from Texas got into trouble with a gendarme in the City of Mexico during the Spanish-American war, when foreign and local sentiment was against the United States. The offense consisted largely in the fact that the stranger was an American, but he landed in jail nevertheless. Not wishing to see the Texan spend the night in jail, his friends sallied forth to obtain his release. First they visited the home of the American ambassador and found he was out of the city. Then they went to the home of the English minister and found him in bed. By dint of insistence they succeeded in getting into the house and were met on the staircase by the minister himself, arrayed in official pajamas. Carefully disguising the fact that their imprisoned friend was an American, they appealed for assistance. "Ah," said the minister cautiously, "your man is in jail, is he? But tell me, is he a British subject?" "Your excellency," said General Agremonte, who acted as spokesman, "the prisoner speaks English perfectly." "Ah," said the minister, "then the presumption is in his favor!" Half an hour later, thanks to the personal intervention of the British minister, the Texan was released from the Mexican jail.

The Tune Was Familiar.

An interesting anecdote is told of the old tune to which a well known song is now sung. The story runs that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt in 1799 the camp for awhile was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing, and the natives of the desert had collected and were listening to the music. Nothing unusual happened until the band struck up a tune which we now hear under the name of "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." Instantly there were the wildest demonstrations of joy among the Bedouins. They embraced each other and shouted and danced in the delirium of their pleasure. The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest tune of their people. The tune had been taken to Europe from Africa in the eleventh century and had lived separately in both countries for over 700 years.

CHILD LABOR A LIVE ISSUE

The Question Arousing Warm Interest in Trenton Pottery Circles.

THREAT OF THE GOVERNOR

To Bring Suit Against Every Factory in the State Defying the Law—Vice President Hutchins Thinks Manufacturers Are to Blame.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 24.—The glass and pottery interests of New Jersey are anxiously awaiting the outcome of Governor Murphy's threat to bring suit in the name of the commonwealth against every factory proprietor in the state who is found employing child labor. No movement inaugurated by organized labor in New Jersey has ever received so much attention as the attempt on the part of the New Jersey Federation of Labor to force Governor Murphy to compel State Factory Inspector Ward to ride the factories of children whose ages do not conform with the legal limitations.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the state legislature in such a forceful manner, that the first bill introduced at the opening session was one providing that the age limit be raised to fifteen years and empowers the governor at any time to discharge the factory inspector for neglect of his duties or failure to perform them. This bill is in line with the recommendation made by Governor Murphy in his annual message to the legislature last week.

The feeling among the labor unions against Ward grew out of his failure to recognize the flagrant violations with which the child labor law was being met in the glass works at Minitola and in the potteries of the city.

Local interest in the bill has been greatly aroused because of the suit brought against Charles Howell Cook, president of the Cook Pottery company and the former head of the United States Potters' association. Mr. Cook is indignant at the action of Governor Murphy in instructing Ward to renew the suits after they were thrown out of court because of a defect in the summons. He denounces the governor's action in no mild terms and has announced that he will decline a reappointment from the chief executive to the board of directors of the Trenton School of Industrial Art, which claims him as one of its principal supporters.

Mr. Cook said to the News Review correspondent yesterday: "I cannot help but feel that the suits recently begun against me by State Factory Inspector Ward at the instance of Governor Murphy had no purpose but to make me the scapegoat by which to draw the protests coming from the labor organizations against the wholesale violations with which the child labor law is being met.

"I do not deny that Assistant Factory Inspector Milburn found children under the age prescribed by law employed in my factory. But I do deny that I had any knowledge that they were not eligible to go to work. They were hired by jiggermen over whose actions I have no control. I can safely say that there is not a pottery in the state which is observing the child labor law to the letter. The law is defective. It provides that children must attend night school five nights in the week while this city only provides them with school during four. I know of potteries in this city which this factory inspector has not visited in five years while he frequently comes to my plant where I endeavor to keep a certificate on file of the ages of every child employed there.

"If Governor Murphy was so anxious to have the law against the employment of child labor enforced, why didn't he begin suit against the big glass factories in South Jersey where cruelties exist to such an extent as to be brought to the attention of the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor"

The presence of children who are under fourteen years of age, working in the local potteries is largely due to the failure to adopt the uniform price list and thereby insure the men against having to employ cheap labor. As it is, jiggermen and pressers are working far below the price lists in force in the west and young boys are employed at a paltry sum in order to make up this loss in wages.

Pottery owners who are receiving the benefits from this class of labor are inclined to overlook any violations of the child labor law and to shield themselves by putting the blame upon their employes.

This opinion yesterday was voiced by Vice President Frank H. Hutchins "In almost every instance the manufacturers are to blame," said Mr. Hutchins, "for having children at work in their potteries. In the general ware shops where we find jiggermen, pressers and dishmakers working at a reduction, we see them hiring the cheap labor to make up the loss in wages.

"I am glad to say that none of our members are guilty of these violations and we have always strived hard to improve shop conditions. It is a sin and a shame to put a boy of tender years to work in a pottery. A boy is not any too careful with dust and glaze and the result is that at an early age in life we find them victims of lung trouble.

"I feel that if we had a factory inspector who knew his duty such a condition as this would not prevail. I know of potteries in Trenton which the factory inspector seldom visits and when he does come word is sent out from the office and the boys of doubtful ages are sent out into the yard until he goes away. It is hardly necessary to make new laws prohibiting child labor. The present law is ample enough if it were only enforced."

MORE SMALLPOX AT BETHANY COLLEGE

Another Case Causes Two Girls to Make Desperate Attempt to Escape.

The excitement at Bethany is intensified by the developments of another case of smallpox. This is S. W. Watson, of Waynesburg, Pa. Mr. Watson was taken ill Wednesday and on the following day symptoms of smallpox developed. Watson is quarantined in Lockhart's boarding house. There are about a half dozen other students quarantined in the boarding house with Watson.

Miss Smith, who lives on a farm back of Wheeling, is sick, but the doctors say that there are no alarming symptoms, and it is merely an attack of grip.

The young men are still helping the girls in their efforts to escape, but the guard is so strict that any attempt at escape is futile. The professors are still quarantined in Phillips' hall, and are endeavoring to keep up school. Every effort is being made on the part of the physicians and citizens to quell the excitement and prevent further spread of the disease.

The strict quarantine established by the county board of health makes it absolutely impossible for any more of the students to make their escape from the institution during the day. Owing to the wholesale escape of students the first two days, there are not over 70 left. They are quarantined in the main school building. Miss Saylor has not as yet reached the critical stage, but is doing very nicely.

An attempt on the part of two young ladies to escape Thursday morning about half-past eight o'clock, was a diversion, and afforded some excitement. They were Miss Alice Briggs, of Wellsburg, and Miss Kidd, of McKee's Rocks, Pa. Between recitation periods they got out the back of the building leaving everything behind but the clothing and hats they had on. When about 100 yards from the recitation hall, they were seen by one of the guards, who a moment had relaxed his vigilance. An exciting chase followed. The young ladies were finally overtaken and led back to school.

Especial care is now taken by the guards to see that none of the quarantined students escape under cover of the darkness, but they expect attempts will be made. The majority of the remaining students are young ladies.

NATIONAL AID IN ROAD BUILDING

The Pressure Upon Congress Grows Stronger Each Year.

It is nothing new to have efforts made in congress to interest the federal government in the improvement and construction of roads in various parts of the country. That is naturally an old story, in a land as deficient as the United States is in well-made highways. But it is worthy of note that the pressure in the direction of national aid in road building is becoming stronger, from year to year.

This change will grow more important with the filling up of the country, especially with the increase in the number of city people who maintain rural or suburban homes. The necessity of calling upon greater resources than those of the strictly agricultural population for the development of an adequate system of good highways is certain to be more clearly perceived as the statistical side of road building receives more careful attention.

To make good roads such as can fairly be counted on to resist the action of frost, intense heat and all the changes of the American climate, costs a great deal of money. It requires greater expenditures than rural taxpayers can properly be asked to make, in nearly all sections and districts. The cities send an increasing army of pleasure seekers into the country every year and such roads as their automobiles horse vehicles and bicycles need can not be constructed without some use of the wealth accumulated in great centers of trade and industry.

It is difficult, of course, says the Cleveland Leader, to arrange a satisfactory division of authority and financial responsibility, between the nation, the states and local governmental bodies, in the building and maintenance of roads, but it is easier to solve that problem than it is to discover any way of making the United States what the leading countries of Europe are in the matter of public highways, without help from the national treasury. For that reason the question of federal participation in road building is likely soon to be brought out of the field of speculation into the realm of practical government though not, it is to be hoped, into the arena of party politics.

A FEED FAMINE IN STEUBENVILLE

Scarcity of Oats, Hay And Corn Seriously Embarrasses Owners of Horses.

Steubenville, January 24.—Steubenville has not felt the coal famine but now it is undergoing a feed famine, for which there is no indication of relief. For more than a week the hay and grain merchants have needed oats and corn, but mostly oats, as they generally stock up with corn in the fall. To get oats, however, is impossible, and as a result there are very few of the grain men who can fill even small orders for such feed. A couple of feed stores have been without oats for more than a week, and the only grain they can supply is corn. There have been several days when there was not a bushel of oats to be purchased in the city, and the scarcity has made it necessary for owners of horses to use corn almost entirely in feeding.

The livery stables have had a good supply of oats, but it is decreasing rapidly, and liverymen, who feel the shortage more than anyone else, hope that the new supplies can be brought to the city before many days. The lack of grain is not due to its scarcity, but to the fact that it can't be brought to the city either by rail or wagon. There is plenty of oats throughout the country, so much in fact, that they have fallen almost one-third in price since last summer, but now even if the price was greater than at that time they could not be obtained. In the loose hay market there is also a scarcity.

A MINISTER'S PRAISE FOR LABOR UNIONS

Dr. L. A. Banks, of New York, Tells What Organization Has Accomplished.

In the course of a sermon in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church New York city, Rev. Dr. Louis A. Banks said:

"The old days when the employer and the employe lived in the same street, in the same town, and met in friendly and social relations are gone. Now the employer may be made up of ten or a score or a hundred thousand men scattered all over the country who never see the men at work in their factories and are utterly removed from all sympathetic and personal touch. Furthermore, the employer has probably pooled his entire investment with other investments like it, and a giant trust controls. It is a mere question of dividends. And unless labor be organized it has no chance of fair treatment.

"In my judgment the labor unions are perfectly logical in their demands for the recognition of their unions and to sell their labor where they desire to do so through the officers of their union. The employers unite in trusts and appoint one or more men to represent them, and to say the laboring men shall not have the same privilege is an intolerable assumption of superiority on the part of the employers over the employes.

"There is nothing in the world that would allay the suspicion and unrest in the industrial world today so much as for employers everywhere to frankly recognize labor unions. In so doing they recognize the equality of the men who work for them with themselves, and you can never have perfect peace without that."

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fillbridge, West Cornwall, Conn.

MINERS' NEW SCALE.

Increase of 20 Per Cent in Wages Demanded on Run-of-Mine Basis.

RAISE WANTED FOR LABORERS.

Will Meet With Strongest Kind of Opposition When Presented to Operators for Approval—Mine Owners Not Altogether Harmonious.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—In executive session yesterday afternoon the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers returned its report.

The miners will demand: First, the establishment of a straight run-of-mine basis; second, an advance amounting to 20 per cent; third, an increase in wages paid all outside and inside common laborers; fourth, a flat differential of 7 cents on the ton between pick and machine-mined coal; fifth, a flat increase, if not on that basis, of 12½ cents on the ton.

The scale, of course, applies only to the five states included within the central competitive district, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois, but it forms the basis nevertheless for the wage scale agreements in other states. Although the wage committee's report will receive the sanction and approval of the convention, it will meet with the strongest kind of opposition when it is presented to the joint conference between the committee selected by the operators to act upon the demands and the miners' scale committee.

Will Not Find Perfect Harmony.

It is already evident, however, that the operators will not find perfect harmony in their own ranks. Illinois will insist that if the miners do not force the adoption of the run-of-mine basis upon the operators of Pennsylvania and the other states, and stand solidly for its establishment the operators of that state also will demand its withdrawal from the field where is is already established. The operators of this state, where the basis is established, assert that they operate under a greater expense. If the miners will insist upon the general adoption of the run-of-mine, the Illinois operators will support the miners in their other demands.

The convention does not frame demands on the anthracite operators.

Yesterday morning the resolutions committee began reading the usual accumulation of resolutions reported from local unions.

A resolution against Immigration Commissioner Frank Sargent's plan to remove the immigration office from Pittsburg was concurred in. There was a denunciation of laws that tend to disfranchise any citizen, regardless of nationality or color.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring one meeting a month in the locals to be devoted to the discussion of economic questions.

Asks Mayor for Proof.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—A committee representing union labor of this city recently submitted a report on the feasibility of 3-cent fares for street car service. The report showed that it would not be profitable for the street car companies to carry passengers for such a sum. A day or two after the publication of the report Mayor Johnson was quoted as having said that the report was probably written by the attorneys for the street railroad companies. At a meeting of the trades unions last night a resolution was adopted asking the mayor to prove his assertion.

Will Soon Be Ready.

New York, Jan. 24.—Marconi arrived here yesterday. He said that his system would be ready for commercial use by the public in an exceedingly short time, within two or three months at the latest. This statement was made at the office of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America, at the close of a meeting of the board of directors of the company, called in order that Marconi might personally acquaint the members of the board with the results of his recent experiments and work at Wellfleet. Marconi expects to sail for Europe on Wednesday.

Missing Secretary Found.

New York, Jan. 24.—Willis Hawley, secretary of the Hamilton (O.) Y. M. C. A., who disappeared from his home in that city Jan. 7, under mysterious circumstances, has been found in New York, alive and well, although the various newspapers, the Y. M. C. A. and the police have been hunting for some time for his whereabouts. Yesterday afternoon he appeared and met his wife, who had hastened here from Hamilton to meet him.

Savannah Earthquakes.

Savannah, Jan. 24.—Two distinct and almost immediately successive shocks of earthquake were felt here last night at 8:15 o'clock. Reports from Tybee island are that houses were very perceptibly shaken.

Bubonic Plague.

Mazatlan, Mexico, Jan. 24.—There were five deaths from the plague yesterday. The number of patients in the hospital is 44. The refugees in sheds number 240. Business is demoralized.

"The Billionaire" "The Sultan Of Sulu"

AN undoubted great big success has been won by Harry B. Smith and Gustave Kerker in their new musical farce, "The Billionaire." Every principal is good, almost every voice is good, and the chorus is magnificently costumed and well drilled. Add to this that the company is large and that the scenery is beautiful, and success is spelled in capital letters.

The longest lane has a turning somewhere. Everything comes to those who wait. Here is a farce with a plot, very trifling, it is true, but still needing no interpreter. The music is delightful—breezy, swingy, catchy and any other adjective which means that it will be hummed and whistled all over New York before long. Pretty girls, good looking men, lovely dresses and vivacity never dying in interest, and the certainty is reached that "The Billionaire" will stay on Broadway at Daly's theater until spring or later.

Jerome Sykes is the billionaire, John Doe. He is splendid and has many witty and clever lines, which he utters with so much unction that they tell every time. As Mrs. Peppercorn May Robson is inimitable, and though she has had a brilliant career in her line of character work, I doubt if ever she has had a better part or has done better work. She was great and is to her finger tips an artist. Her two daughters were played by Sallie Fisher and Marie Doro. They were designated on the programme as Flora and Rosalba, and I am confused in my mind as to their identity. Both were good, but I dwell on them for a minute because of the clever work of one of them. In the mimic theater she sang a song about "If You Love Me, Say 'Cuckoo.'" She was made up to look like Anna Held, and she did, but was much prettier. Her song was pretty and her business was bewitching. She has a future in that line and will some day be a big drawing card.

A Strong Cast.

Harry Macdonough as the waiter was at his best, and that is no small height. Julius Steger was a Hungarian officer, and while some of his songs were well rendered, he was not entirely satisfactory. Hans Roberts (Wally Peppercorn), Thomas C. Leary (Mr. Peppercorn), Harry Kelly (Tim Lafferty), John P. Kennedy (M. Petipas) and L. B. Foley as Hot Stuff Jake were all admirable. I have left the sweet little Pansy Good for the last. Nellie Follis played this role and was charming. She is petite, pretty, dainty and sings sweetly if not wonderfully. Her pansy song, with a chorus of pansy girls, was a treat for eye and ear.

"The Billionaire" gives more for the money paid to see it than any show I ever saw. Paris is first visited, and a good idea is given of Americans there with money, full, title crazy and with ignorance paramount. In the hands of May Robson the mother of this family can best be understood. "The Billionaire" sees a heartbroken, would be musician put out of a hotel for board, and as she has a pretty face and needs consolation he gives it to the tune of building a theater in two weeks to give her an opportunity to gain fame. Now, we in the legitimate audience see a perfect miniature theater on the stage. Seats, boxes, ushers, drop curtain, scenery and even the man who will pass those seated, the woman who does not remove her hat, the speculator, the manager, the first nighters, the patent moon and the ubiquitous child. It is perfect. The performance goes smoothly on, the ushers leading the applause, often alone, and the new idea of an enterprising manager is at hand—a condensed play. Everything of a long play done right before you with stop; costumes changed before the audience and scenes (drops) ascending and descending while you look, conversation continuing on the stage. In this bit May Robson and Jerome Sykes were side splitting. I have never enjoyed a light musical evening more, and all who miss "The Billionaire" will regret it.

"The Sultan of Sulu."

This is indeed the year of comic operas, musical comedy or whatever one may choose to call them. There are two fine productions of the style at two of New York's best theaters. At Wallack's Henry W. Savage presents "The Sultan of Sulu." It is unique in so far as the programme designates it "a musical satire." Frank Moulan is the comedian, and, though not new to New York, he is new to Broadway. He has come there to stay if there are any astute managers still alive. He is funny and has a sweet voice. Usually the funny man is not expected to sing well, but no one will object when a really good voice accompanies the laughmaker. Frank Moulan plays Ki Ram, the sultan of Sulu, and his voice is in evidence as soon as he enters. "Smiling Isle" is his first song and is a good method for a topical song. He has to submit to the United States or be killed, and as he does not intend to do the first he enters fully convinced he has to give up his "Smiling Isle" by death. He at once puts himself in touch with his audience and after that has no further trouble.

"The Sultan of Sulu" is by George Ade, the celebrated slang writer, and in this line he has held the reins well in hand, for the slang does not preponderate. The music is by Alfred G. Wathall. It is very bright, and the ensembles are for the most part the best of the work. It is in the solos that the musician has not been so happy. The numbers are many and the spirit good, but there are only two or three airs that will be remembered, and, to be truthful, only one that haunts me. That is decidedly the gem of the whole, "Since I First Met You." It is so catchy, so swingy and the business is so beautiful that it will help the success of "The Sultan of Sulu" more than anything musical in it. The cast is not bad, yet there are not any good singers except Moulan and Maud Lillian Berri.

An Old Favorite.

Fred Frear and Blanche Chapman, respectively as the private secretary and the judge advocate, were excellent. I was charmed with the finish and grace of Blanche Chapman.

The general effect of the performance was pleasing, but the book, as I have said, was somewhat "wanting," and the music also. In works of this kind great tunefulness is necessary, and, even though bright, light musical work will not go if lacking in swinging melody. And melody is lacking in the music of "The Sultan of Sulu." Its strong point is that the ensembles are good. Still a few of the numbers were pretty—I mean the solos. Noticeable among these were "Since I First Met You," the gem of the opera, and "Remorse."

The story is of the landing of the American troops on Sulu island, the largest of the southern Philippines. The barbarous ruler is talked with and induced to change his title to governor and get a stated salary, give up his wives, of whom he has eight, and become civilized. The effects of this process is that he insults the judge advocate, who is a woman, by suggesting that she become the ninth wife, and her revenge when divorce is granted the eight is to fix such alimony that no one could pay it, and the former ruler is clapped into jail. Later it develops that the law only goes into effect on certain days of the week, and this was an off day. It is a deep and thrilling plot.

"The Sultan of Sulu" is beautifully mounted and well costumed. Paul Nicholson as an agent and salesman was good and did his little steps and song very amusingly. Victory Gale as a sort of silent Katisha was exceedingly good and furnished some of the best comedy of the piece. Ki Ram, the sultan, calls her his "charter member" of the harem. GRACE W. ELTON.

FRANK ERNE'S CAREER.

Frank Erne of Buffalo, the ex-lightweight champion of the world, has retired from the ring. His recent defeat at the hands of Jimmy Britt in San Francisco was a sad disappointment to him, and it was that which caused him to assume the course he has. Erne will return to Buffalo and go into business with his father.

The Buffalo lad has made over $40,000 during the eleven years he has been in the business. As he was not a boy who spent his money lavishly, he has enough left today to keep the wolf from the door for many a day. Erne's winnings since the time he defeated Joe Gans at the Broadway A. C., New York, over two years ago, are:

Defeating Joe Gans, New York	$2,600
Defeating Curley Supples, Fort Erie	2,200
Defeating Jem Maloney, London	1,500
Draw Tom Couhig, Buffalo	500
Losing to Gans, Fort Erie	4,200
Beating Gus Gardner, Chicago	700
Losing to Terry McGovern, New York	8,000
Losing to Jim Ferns, Fort Erie	2,600
Losing to Jimmy Britt	1,575
	$22,375

Aside from this source of revenue Erne has given boxing lessons at the Buffalo club and has had a private class of boxing pupils, from which he must have derived considerable cash.

DUSE AND HER ROLES.

Asked recently if she suffered as the heroine suffers in "The Dead City," Mme. Duse said, "The great joy has been given to me to enter into my roles from the moment I take them up and to remain in them without effort till the end."

The Pepper stable has sold the chestnut gelding King Pepper, four years old, by imp. Kantaka, dam Genevieve, by imp. Stonehenge.

The Turf Skating Hockey Pugilism

THERE has been a great deal of talk of late regarding the wide scope of the international sporting events which are to occur during the coming summer. As in other years, England and America will take the lead, and a banner year should result.

England is to send over here a tennis team, a polo contingent and a cricket eleven, etc., while among other things we are going to make strong efforts to capture the Diamond sculls at the Henley regatta, the classic Derby and various important transatlantic track and field events.

In the Derby there is to be but one American entry. Acefull, the speedy three-year-old bred by John E. Madden, is the horse that will strive to win added turf glory for Uncle Sam. He was sold by Mr. Madden last summer to the then newly started turf firm of Whitney & Duryea, composed of Harry Payne Whitney, son of William C. Whitney, and Hermann B. Duryea, another millionaire sportsman who has obtained considerable prominence as a yachtsman. In the fall Acefull won several races for the Whitney-Duryea stable and was then nominated in the Derby. Since that time the firm has dissolved, Mr. Duryea becoming the sole owner of Acefull, and he will bear the expense of the horse's trip abroad.

Martin to Ride Acefull.

Acefull is to be ridden in the Derby by "Skeets" Martin, now under contract to W. C. Whitney. The combination will be hard to beat, although the odds are somewhat against an American victory. Two horses rank favorites for the race. They are Rock Sand and Flotsam. The former will probably be ridden by Danny Maher. Danny has won many races on Rock Sand, and should he keep in good condition he will go to the post carrying the bulk of the public's money, with Flotsam a close second in the betting.

Titus Again Going Across.

In the race for the Diamond sculls at Henley C. S. Titus will once more contest. By his game fight last year, in which he gave the Britishers a large sized scare, the American champion showed that he possessed wonderful ability.

Having had the benefit of experience in a Henley regatta and consequently knowing the conditions with which he will have to contend, Titus should make a still more brilliant showing in the summer. In view of the splendid form he is in, I would not be at all surprised if he captured the treasured trophy. Titus will represent the Atalanta Boat club of New York, having resigned from the Union Boat club because of a disagreement with the officials of the latter.

Jack Munroe Had a "Past."

Jack Munroe, the burly miner boxer from the Montana woods who sent Champion Jim Jeffries to the floor and stayed the four rounds named in Jeff's defi to all comers, was not an "unknown" by any means, as was shown by accounts of his career made public after the bout by people familiar with his past. Munroe has the build of a champion, and his early training gave him a large store of pugilistic knowledge. He was an instructor in boxing in San Francisco at one time and also acted as sparring partner for Ruhlin, Maher and Sharkey.

Munroe is not without ambition to shine in the ring, but he says he is not quite ready to accept challenges yet. He desires to have a little more time in which to perfect himself. There is no doubt that even at present he could make things highly interesting for Ruhlin, Sharkey, McCoy et al, and those venturesome lads should not be too hasty in seeking matches with him. They may possibly discover that Munroe is a surprise party in disguise. As to his being the coming heavyweight champion—that is another question.

A Query For Skaters.

Who is the champion speed skater of America?

Here is a question to puzzle those considering themselves well versed in sporting lore, and the fact that they will have difficulty in answering is no credit to the many experts of the glistening steel runner persuasion.

I do not believe there has been a time in the history of sport, unless it was last year, when the skating supremacy of the United States has been a more unsettled matter. Either interest in this, the greatest of outdoor sports, is lamentably on the decrease or skaters are taking less pride in the development of the possibilities of the pastime. Perhaps, after all, it is true that speed skating is so intricate a science and so arduous a labor that a decade is required in which to produce a Joe Donoghue or a George ("Spider") Phillips. But after a moment's consideration the foregoing statement is seen to be untrue, for there are at least three or four men I now have in mind who could with determined effort forge to national leadership. To do this, however, they must be willing to sacrifice the time required.

Sinnirud and Wood.

Two men now hold the bulk of American championship skating honors. They are Peter Sinnirud, the "Terrible Swede" of the Verona Skating club of Montclair, N. J., and N. Wood of the same organization. Both these men, of course, have their special distances at which they particularly excel, but neither is so pronouncedly superior to the other in his field that he can lay just claim to national supremacy. Sinnirud holds the half, five and ten mile titles, while Wood holds the titles for the quarter and one mile events. Sinnirud is soon to turn "pro," having entered the professional championships to be held in Montreal Feb. 7.

He has the earmarks of a coming world beater, and it is barely possible that a money chasing career will so increase his energy and ability that he will forge to the fore and establish new records. Indeed, the making of one or two new marks would give skating a much desired impetus, for the old records have stood so long that they have become, like the forgotten toys of childhood, hidden away on a shelf in a dark closet and covered an inch deep with the accumulations of dust.

Hockey Rules.

The following are the most important rules of hockey as officially played in the United States:

The game shall be commenced and renewed by a face in the center of the rink. Rink shall be at least 112 feet by 58 feet. A goal is placed in the middle of each goal line composed of two upright posts, four feet in height, placed six feet apart and at least five feet from the end of the ice. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed. In the event of a goal post being displaced or broken the referee shall blow his whistle, and the game shall not proceed until the goal is replaced.

The puck shall be faced by being placed between the sticks of two opponents and the referee then calling play.

Two halves of twenty minutes each, with an intermission of ten minutes between, will be the time allowed for games. A game will be decided by the team scoring the greatest number of goals during that time. In case of a tie after playing the specified time play will continue for ten minutes more when, in the event of the score still being even, another game will be played at a time and place mutually agreed upon, such time to be prior to the next scheduled game. Goals shall be changed after each half.

No change of players shall be made after a game has commenced, except for reasons of accidents or injuries during the game.

Should any player be injured during a game and compelled to leave the ice his side shall have the option of putting on a spare man from the reserve to equalize the teams. In the event of any dispute between the captains as to the injured players' fitness to continue the game the matter shall be decided by the referee.

When a player hits the puck, any one of the same side who at such moment of hitting is nearer the opponent's goal line is offside and may not touch the puck himself or in any way whatever prevent any other player from doing so until the puck has been played. A player must always be on his own side of the puck.

The puck may be stopped, but not carried or knocked on by any part of the body. No player shall raise his stick above the shoulder. Charging from behind, tripping, collaring, kicking or cross checking shall not be allowed, and the referee must rule off the ice for any time in his discretion a player who, in his opinion, has offended deliberately against the above rule.

The goal keeper must not during play lie, kneel or sit upon the ice, but must maintain a standing position.

A goal shall be scored when the puck shall have passed between the goal posts from in front and below an imaginary line across the top of posts.

EASTERN TRAP LEAGUE.

It is proposed to form one of the largest trap shooting leagues in the country on Long Island, New York, from the ranks of clubs near Springfield, all of which can be reached by trolley cars and which hold regular competitions during the season on their own grounds.

The Freeport Gun club, Aqueduct Gun club, Hempstead Gun club, Mineola Gun club, Springfield Gun club and other organizations have signified their approval of the league.

It is hoped to reorganize the old time Flushing Gun club and the Queens Gun club, making the circuit one of the largest and most important in the east.

CHAMPION LAD OF KENT.

The breeding and training of pointers was formerly monopolized by Englishmen, but of late years American fanciers have won notable victories with their own product. The pointer is indispensable to the hunters of wild birds and is one of the most intelligent and companionable of dogs. The accompanying illustration shows Champion Lad of Kent, a well known winner of first prizes. He is owned by George Jarvis of New York.

IX.—Herbs of the Garret.

WHO has been in the country often and cannot remember some dark garret or loft filled with the pungent, delightful odor of simple herbs gathered and hung there for use in sickness?

Among the best known of the herbs is the boneset, or thoroughwort. Along the fences and in the open fields it may be seen in full bloom early in August, the small white flowers closely clustered in a flat topped bunch looking like a drift of unseasonable snow moored on the heads of these sturdy stems, which are about two feet high. The fairly large leaves are rather coarse, and the stalk is rather hairy in order to guard the flowers from the visits of insects. If you once become acquainted with it in its natural state, you will never fail to know it, though the boneset proper is sometimes a little hard to recognize, for there are exactly twelve species of that individual family in the United States. Among them is the purple Joe Pye weed. Another is called the white snakeroot.

The life everlasting, or immortelle, and the catnip contribute most generously to the season's fragrance. The life everlasting has a way of seeming to be able to defy the first cold blasts, and it is so tenacious of life that its name is well deserted. Pearly immortelle is perhaps its proper name, for it has sisters and requires the adjective to distinguish it.

Though it is in its prime in August and September, in November you will find it seeming the same as ever, but if you look closely you will perceive that it has no centers in its flowers. Its parts were so loosely put on in the center that they were blown away by the first wind. But all of those little dry pieces were real flowers, and, their mission having been accomplished in the fruition of the seeds, they were no longer necessary. In fact, it was the desirable end for them to be carried away and scattered widely.

The catnip is said to be so named because of the fondness cats have for it, though the softness of the gray hairs on its spikes and the small, grayish lavender flowers set among the hairs are most suggestive of a Maltese cat.

Closely related to it and growing in the same kind of places is the motherwort. Its green parts are not fragrant, like the catnip, and it is not woolly. Its leaves have three great scallops. It does not grow as tall as the catnip, and the flowers are prettier, often being a delicate pink.

Slippery elm—there are people who like to eat it! It is the inner part of the slippery elm, a small, common tree having reddish wood and rather rough leaves.

There is the pennyroyal, the low but erect plant with the small, pale bluish flowers. Oil of pennyroyal we buy in the drugstores to arm us against our bloodthirsty robbers of slumber, the mosquitoes. There are several species, the false and the true, but the pleasant odor of the pennyroyal is unusually farreaching. We do not need to look to learn of its presence. One's nose gives sufficient warning.

Perhaps it is just as well to treat of some other members of that great mint family to which the pennyroyal belongs. There is the wild mint, which is cut up for mint sauce. Another step brings us to the celebrated peppermint.

The old Greek legend tells that Proserpine, the wife of Pluto, the king of the underground world, changed a rival, Menthe, into this plant, from which comes the menthal as well as the peppermint which flavors our candies.

Ginseng, once abundant, but now becoming very rare on account of the great quantities which have been gathered for their roots, is almost worth its weight in gold. Most of it goes to the Chinese, who ascribe to it the virtues of the fountain of youth and the power of curing all the ills to which man is heir. The flowers are a yellowish green and top with a cluster a stem about a foot high. On either side, springing from the same base, are two stems, spreading out at the top into leaflets which at a passing glance might be taken for part of a five leaved ivy, or Virginia creeper. Some of the plants have only stamens and the others only pistils. Of course only those with pistils bear the fruit, a close bunch of beautiful scarlet berries.

Related to ginseng are the spikenard and the false spikenard, or, to put it more properly, the wild sarsaparilla, which is sought for its roots.

The root of the wild sarsaparilla is singularly long, and the proper stalk is but a few inches high. The leaves are compound, and there are but a few on each stalk, so that when a number are growing together and have for the most part but three leaflets they much resemble the poisonous three leaved ivy, or poison oak, though the leaves of the wild sarsaparilla are rougher, their edges are well toothed, and they also have a decided brownish hue. Those of the poison ivy are a rich green, are sometimes much more deeply indented and may be downy underneath.

The spikenard is a handsome plant, growing to the height of several feet. It has not the beauty of the mountain laurel, but it certainly presents a striking appearance, especially in August, when its berries have become a lovely deep red.

Its flowers and fruit recall the well known elder, for the blossoms are small and white, in size and arrangement much like the elder, though they are piled in a pyramidal instead of a flat cluster. The berries, which follow later, are similar outwardly, though they never attain the very dark hue of the elderberries. Their taste is delicious.

An insignificant addition to the list is the figwort, though Gray and other authorities on botany regard it as so important a representative of its kind that they have named a family after it. All through August it may be found along fences and in pastures. The figwort rises to about the height of a person. Though its stem is sturdy and its leaves are large, some nearly a foot long, it is a very dull green, and its flowers are so small that they are hardly noticeable unless you are searching especially for them. They have five dull claret colored petals, each bending back in a different direction, but each is so small and short that the corolla seems swallowed up in the green enveloping calyx. They come in clusters of a few at each end of the various branches. Its titles are numerous—heal all, carpenter's square and Maryland figwort.

Larkspur.

It may seem strange that some of the familiar early spring comers are included in this list, but they are. These may not always be found in the old fashioned garret, but there are some with a strong odor which do belong there and have not been described—the wormwood, the marjoram and the sage. The last two, however, are associated with the garden.

The spring flowers are the Jack-in-the-pulpit and the Solomon's seal, the mandrake and the trilliums. Both the large flowered trilliums are sought, though the evil smelling red ones are most desired. That color is also one of Nature's economies. It is an advertisement for flies, which seek it as they will putrid meat and in their brief visits transact the necessary operation of transferring the pollen and dropping it upon the pistils. Its root stalk is sought for medicine.

Early in the spring the mandrake, or May apple, pierces the soil with its blunt green head. In April its umbrella leaves unfold for the showers, and in May the round white waxen flowers nestle in the one axil beneath the umbrella. It is pure white, with a yellow center. The yellow, pulpy apples are ripe in August, to the delight of birds and small boys.

12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand lunchers. It takes three hours to digest a fresh egg soft boiled; three hours to digest a boiled apple dumpling; three hours to digest fresh roast beef. In fact, three hours is about the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y. "I had stomach trouble from childhood and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 26 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Everything I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.' I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

A Witty Retort.

As is generally the case with people who have nothing to say worth hearing, a conceited drummer talked a great deal, to the evident disgust of a number of his drummer friends who were dining at a country hotel. Warm cheese was served, it was of a decided "lively" brand, much to the delight of the irrepressible. He attacked it with great gusto, remarking, "I'm like Samson, slaying them by the thousand!"

"Yes," replied a quick witted diner at the end of the table, "and with the same weapon too!"

An Alternative.

"Now, then," said the professor of logic, "give us an idea of your knowledge of the question in plain words."

"Why, sir—I'm afraid," stammered the student, "that I can't just exactly"—

"Perhaps then you may give us an idea of your ignorance of it in any old words."—Philadelphia Press.

UNDER DESTINY'S WHEELS

By Charles Welsted

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It was the half day off for the boys, at least for some of them, and three or four lounged around the offices in various attitudes more comfortable than dignified. The atmosphere was blue with smoke.

One of the boys, perched on top of a table, with hands clasped over one knee, had been quiet for fully ten minutes, while the others seemed to be all talking at once. Finally one of them came over and slapped him on the shoulder.

"Dreaming again, Jimmy? Now, look here, old man; this won't do. When is it to be, anyway?"

"It" apparently could mean only one thing, for Jimmy answered absentmindedly and briefly:

"Next month!"

There was a roar of laughter from his companions, and Jimmy suddenly came out of his trance.

"Poor old Jimmy! We'll be glad when the ordeal is over and you are in a normal state again. Marriage is a serious thing, isn't it, old fellow?"

Jimmy did not hear the last of this sentence. He put on his hat and went out with a disgusted look.

"Somebody ought to go with him and take care of him," suggested Clark. "He'll get run over sure some of these days while in one of those trances. Well, I'd like to see the woman who could affect me that way."

"Oh, come off, Wally! You are just as fond of the girls as any of us."

"Oh, well, the dear creatures are well enough in their way," replied Clark, "but their way doesn't happen to be my way; that's all."

In an adjoining room a girl was writing. One of the boys came to the doorway.

"What do you think of that, Miss Ward? Do you believe him?"

"I think if you boys would only give your tongues five minutes' rest I might be able to get through with my stuff and go home."

"Snubbed, by Jove! Wally, Miss Ward says you talk too much."

"Will you fellows shut up your infernal racket?" a man's voice growled from a room leading off Miss Ward's.

"Certainly, dearest!" said Wally in dulcet tones. "Come on, boys. There's no rest for the wicked in this establishment."

A little smile flickered on Miss Ward's face as she paused at her work.

"What an odd lot of boys," she mused. "If girls could only take life that way! As for Wally Clark—I wonder"—

Her face was very grave, as she sat apparently in deep thought, and a suspicious moisture glistened in her eyes. "Oh, well," with a rather defiant shrug of her shoulders, "it's all in a lifetime." Which remark was usually a pretty good indication that life and Miss Ward were not on the friendliest terms.

Later that afternoon, as she was mounting her wheel, Wally Clark appeared on the scene, as, in fact, Wally frequently did at such times, quite by accident, of course.

"Going home?" he asked carelessly.

"No."

Wally thought this reply unnecessarily brief, but he was not so easily squelched.

"Going for a ride?" more carelessly still.

"Yes."

"Humph! How very conversational you are! May I come?"

"No; you may not," the girl answered sharply and decidedly, and before the astonished young man came to, she was on her wheel and away. Wally was not accustomed to this sort of treatment.

"The deuce!" he ejaculated. "Well, what have I done now?"

The girl had disappeared, but he knew where she was likely to go. Twenty minutes later Miss Ward glanced over her shoulder and saw him coming. She turned quickly to the right, leaving the regular cycle path, and, cutting across country, wheeled rapidly down the first road she came to. Just then Wally spied the familiar gray bicycle suit and followed. At the end of the road there was an incline which led to the railroad track, and before the girl realized how very steep it was she had started down the hill.

"What a fool thing to do!" exclaimed Wally. "She can't ride that hill. She'll fall and break her neck."

In an instant the girl saw her danger, but it was too late. She lost control of her wheel, and her efforts to regain the pedals were futile. The bicycle flew along at a fearful speed. Suddenly a blood curdling sound reached her and Wally. The man was straining every effort to catch up with the runaway wheel, but as he heard that sound he involuntarily closed his eyes.

"Oh, God! The express!" he cried in anguish. If her wheel struck the track nothing but a miracle could save her. Only now he realized to what an extent he loved her—now that it was too late.

"Fall off!" he cried. "Don't cross the track. For God's sake, May, run into the fence—anything!" But she either did not hear or was powerless to act.

The wheel struck the track as the engine of the oncoming train turned the curve, and the girl was thrown violently to the ground, where she lay motionless just across the outer rail. The man realized in a flash that an attempt to save her meant almost certain death for him, but there was no choice. He had to cross the track himself now, he could not stop. He struck the rails. "Scre-e-ch" went the whistle of the express.

"God be merciful!" prayed the man as he was thrown violently from his machine and struck with awful force the unconscious form of the girl. Then that deafening noise—the rumbling of wheels, the hissing of steam, the screech of the locomotive whistle—he heard it all. He felt himself still rolling as when he fell with such force on Miss Ward's lithe form. All was quiet again. He opened his eyes and looked about him. Strewn about were the remains of two bicycles—there might have been twenty for all one could tell—and—yes—here lay Miss Ward right at his back. They were not three feet away from the track.

"Thank heaven!" he said fervently. "But how did it happen?"

A little later the girl opened her eyes to find herself in Wally's arms.

"What is it?" she asked in a dazed way. "What happened?"

"I don't know. Don't ask me. I only know, darling, that you are here. Oh, May," he added in a tense voice, "I thought I had lost you! I thought we were both gone."

The girl looked at the track, where the two wheels lay smashed into a thousand fragments; then she looked back into the man's eyes and smiled wistfully.

"You risked your life to save me?" she asked in a low, earnest voice. Wally did not answer. He was bruised and bleeding.

"Why did you?" she persisted.

"No, no; I did not. May, I had no choice. I deserve no credit. I must have struck you in my fall and rolled you from the track. May, dear, you are not badly hurt, are you?" And he raised her face to his.

"Wally, I—I—thought you didn't care for women!" she whispered, and the man had to laugh despite the situation.

Italian Mothers.

The average Italian mother, especially among the bourgeoisie, we learn from Luigi Villari's "Italian Life In Town and Country," has absolutely no notion as to how children ought to be brought up.

She indulges them in every way and lets them eat whatever they ask for and then scolds them for insufficient reasons, but hardly ever punishes them. On the other hand the father will punish his boys severely, especially if they do not do their lessons properly and so get bad marks at school. Parents are rarely able to find a just mean between absolute indulgence and unnecessary severity. Young children are allowed to hear and take part in conversation on matters of which they should know nothing. If they dine with their parents when there are guests, either they are made to keep preternaturally quiet, which is bad for them in one way, or they are permitted to make noise, chatter, throw bread balls, cry and make themselves altogether insupportable.

Mouth Hygiene.

Many persons are scrupulous to clean the outside of their teeth, but systematically neglect the inside, with the result that decay sets in often without their knowledge. If they understood what a rod they were putting in pickle for themselves by this omission, they would be more careful.

"Employ both sides of the jaws when chewing," says a dentist, "and try not to use your teeth as corkscrews and nutcrackers any more than you can help. While the strength and endurance of teeth are largely a matter of constitution, one may do much to preserve them by the simple negative of not abusing them. Where teeth are naturally of a yellowish tint, it is impossible to render them a blue white by any innocent means. If only teeth were kept clean and filled when they need it, no one would notice whether they were one tint or another. If the lips are a good color, they have the effect of bewitching the teeth by contrast."

Brazil's Diamond Rivers.

The geological formation of the famous diamond region in the state of Bahia, Brazil, shows that at some time in the history of the world the mountains there were thrown up in a hot mass and the carbon in the stone crystallized into gems. It was in effect one of M. Moisson's electric furnaces on a gigantic scale. In Brazilian diamond mining natural water courses play an important part. Water and the weather gradually disintegrate the rocks, and the diamonds are washed down into gullies and the beds of rivers, whence they are recovered by the miners. In some places divers are employed to work at the bottom of rivers, filling sacks with the silt that contains the diamonds. The river beds are rich in precious stones which cannot be extracted advantageously, if at all, by the methods now in vogue.

Monticello, Ill.

Gentlemen.—Late suppers gave me a serious case of indigestion and dyspepsia, and often very bad headaches. I took mineral waters for a couple of months, but nothing seemed to help me permanently until I tried

Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin

My people have a great dislike to patent medicines, for as a rule we have found them worthless, but your Syrup Pepsin is a notable exception. It cured me in three weeks, and we have used it at home until it has become a general family medicine.

It is very pleasant and easy to take, and it not simply relieves but effects a permanent cure. I give this testimonial freely, being grateful for the help I have obtained.

Very truly yours,

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life.
